It is appropriate as we enter the new millennium that the University of Pittsburgh and our football program take a giant leap into the 21st century. Beginning in the fall of 2001, we will move our home field to the heart of this great city in the beautiful new Pittsburgh football stadium.

This stadium will be the home for Panther football that our players and fans deserve. Our new venue, combined with a new enthusiasm for the future, will put our program on solid footing well into the next millennium.

It is not without emotion that we say good-bye to Pitt Stadium, which has stood on this campus since 1925. This site will now take on a different focus for campus growth and one that will also accelerate the success of all of our athletic teams and student life programs, including our football program.

For a great institution to flourish, it takes the commitment of each and every person to accomplish grand plans. We embrace the prospects for the future of this great University.

An aerial, black and white photograph of a large stadium under construction. The stadium's roof is a complex, multi-tiered structure with many exposed steel beams and trusses. The seating bowl is visible, and the surrounding area includes parking lots and some existing buildings. The overall scene conveys a sense of large-scale urban development and infrastructure.

The year 1999 will be remembered as one of great change. The City of Pittsburgh is undergoing a major transformation, renewing itself as it has time and again throughout its history.

The University of Pittsburgh and its football program are undergoing a similar revitalization. Following this season, the site of Pitt Stadium, the Panthers' 74-year-old home, will give way to the sparkling state-of-the-art John M. and Gertrude E. Petersen Events Center, a venue that will dramatically elevate the quality of student life on Pitt's campus.

In the year 2001, the Panthers football program will move into one of the finest football homes in the nation with the completion of the city's new downtown stadium. Add to that Pittsburgh's new football training complex and the Panthers enter the new millennium armed with the finest facilities anywhere.

A Vision for the Future

The Pittsburgh Panthers will begin the next millennium with the finest assortment of college football facilities anywhere.

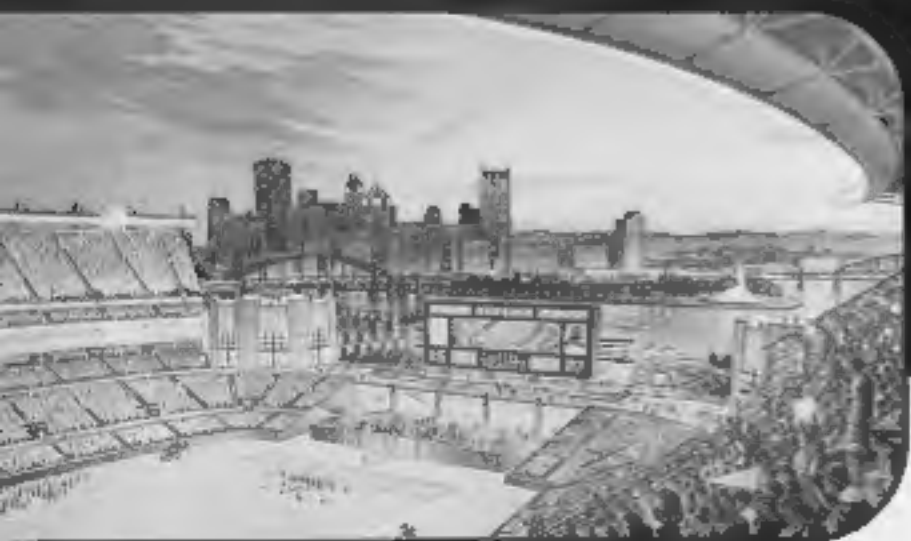

In just two short years, the Panthers will begin play in what promises to be the best football stadium in the country. Pittsburgh's new downtown stadium is scheduled for completion for the 2001 season.

The Panthers will have their own expansive locker room in the new stadium, which will seat 65,000 people and have a heated grass playing surface. Situated just north of Pittsburgh's Point State Park, the stadium will have a stunning view of the city's breathtaking skyline.

The stadium will also be a boon to Panther football fans, who will enjoy fantastic sightlines and amenities unsurpassed by any existing venue.

The Panthers will additionally boast a state-of-the-art practice facility beginning next August. The University of Pittsburgh Medical Center (UPMC) Sports Medicine and Performance Complex, located just minutes from campus, will be the first facility of its kind dedicated solely to football.

The complex will feature four outdoor grass practice fields and one indoor artificial surface field. Other components include athletic training facilities, locker rooms and administrative and support staff office areas. Additionally, Pittsburgh football players will have the best in clinical care, training and rehabilitation facilities all in one setting.

The Petersen Events Center will be built on the present site of Pitt Stadium.

With 1999 scheduled to be the final season of play in 74-year-old Pitt Stadium, the University of Pittsburgh will soon embark on an ambitious plan that will dramatically enhance student life.

The 10-acres currently occupied by the stadium will be used for the John M. and Gertrude E. Petersen Events Center. Its construction will dramatically enhance the quality of student life, providing the campus with a location for graduation ceremonies, modern recreation and fitness facilities, and a state-of-the-art, 12,500-seat arena for the men's and women's basketball teams.

The Petersen Events Center will boast a private basketball practice complex, unique restaurant row, retail store and full-service ticket operations center. Among its many amenities will be four luxury courtside suites, 12 luxury club level suites, a luxury courtside special event suite and the finest club lounge in college basketball. It additionally will have 48 courtside seats and 2,000 private club seats.

In addition to the center, the present site of Pitt Stadium will include new student housing along with sprawling green space that will add a new dimension to Pitt's urban campus setting.

Construction is scheduled to begin in 2000.

Pittsburgh's new downtown football stadium, pictured in this artist's rendering, will be a boon to players and fans alike. The Panthers will have their own private locker room in the 65,000-seat stadium, which will have a heated grass playing surface. Pittsburgh fans will have the advantage of tremendous sightlines and amenities unsurpassed by any existing stadium.

The University of Pittsburgh is among the oldest institutions of higher education in the United States. It has more than 192,000 alumni living in all 50 states and territories as well as 119 foreign countries. Pitt's academic record is outstanding, rating among the leading research and international universities in the United States.

132-acre main campus that includes more than 90 academic, research, administrative buildings and residence halls.

The Pittsburgh campus attracts a lively and interesting mix of people to the area throughout the day and evening. Its decorative landscape of architectural landmarks, museums and concert halls which are juxtaposed with comfortable, friendly neighborhoods, traditional family businesses and national chains, give the area a small-town feel in the midst of a larger clamoring scene.

Among the campus' most impressive attractions is the 42-story structure known as the Cathedral of Learning. The tallest academic building in the western world, the Gothic Revival skyscraper is home to several of the institution's classrooms and the famed 24 Nationality Classrooms authentically designed to depict ethnic art and culture.

After a magnificent excursion through the Cathedral, one can further tour the University's scenery and stroll across the heart of the campus on a great lawn that spans to the Heinz Memorial Chapel. This crossroads of campus life hosts a whole range of activities for students such as outdoor classes, pickup soccer and football games, as well as the usual studying, sunbathing and stargazing.

The University of Pittsburgh campus is a place of delightful contrasts: unabashedly urban, yet dotted with gardens and trees. Situated on the edge of 456-acre wooded Schenley Park, the campus weaves in and out of an exciting section of city known as Oakland. Pittsburgh's cultural and medical center, Oakland is home to the University's Founded in a log cabin in 1787, Pitt is among the oldest institutions of higher education in the United States. The University has more than 192,000 alumni living in all 50 states and territories and 119 foreign countries. Their accomplishments range from winning Olympic gold medals to unlocking secrets of DNA. From University laboratories have come Jonas Salk's polio vaccine and the identification of Vitamin C. Today, this former frontier university is an internationally recognized center of learning and research, strong in the arts and sciences, and the professions.

Pitt's academic record is outstanding, rating among the leading national and international universities in the United States. Pitt offers a wide range of 181 degree programs in several fields of study. Its faculty includes many world-renowned scholars, researchers and innovators. An extraordinary percentage of academic departments are rated at the very top of their respective fields.

Few universities can boast more than one academic department acknowledged as a leader in its discipline. In two national studies, Pitt had departments (or schools) ranked in the top five in their fields, and several others rated in the top third of their disciplines.

Pitt Facts

■ Pitt's total enrollment for its five campuses is 32,293 students. Of this total, 25,317 are full-time and 6,976 are part-time; 23,218 are undergraduates and 9,075 are graduate students. Nearly 26,000 of the students are enrolled at the Pittsburgh campus.

■ The National Research Council, the most respected evaluation of academic programs in the United States, ranked the University's Department of Philosophy and Department of History and Philosophy of Science second and fifth, respectively, in the nation. Departments that rank in the top third of their disciplines include: chemistry, economics, English, history, physics, political science, psychology (all in the College of Arts and Sciences), library science (School of Information Sciences) and physiology (School of Medicine).

■ The University Honors College allows highly motivated undergraduate students to pursue exceptionally challenging honors courses and degrees and to conduct independent research. Pitt students have won a number of prestigious awards in recent years, including Rhodes, Marshall, and Truman scholarships and National Mellon Fellowships in the Humanities.

■ Pitt athletes have won national championships in football and conference titles in many sports and earned national rankings in basketball, wrestling and volleyball. They've also secured individual national championships in gymnastics, swimming and track and field. Former Pitt track and field star Roger Kingdom is a two-time Olympic gold medalist.

■ Pitt ranks as one of the U.S. News & World Report's 50 "best values" among national universities. It is also included on Money Magazine's list of 150 "best colleges for your money." Pitt is the only national university in Pennsylvania to be included on both 1998 lists.

■ Freshman applications to the University of Pittsburgh are at an all-time high. Applications for fall 1998 marked a 74 percent rise since 1995. The quality of our applicants continues to rise as well. Fifty-three percent of entering freshmen in fall 1998 ranked in the top 20 percent of their high school graduating classes, up from 47 percent the previous year.

Student Life at Pittsb

Life at an active, first-rate university is, among other things, a rehearsal for the life to follow. The city of Pittsburgh and Oakland campus setting — complete with all of its joys and hardships, its competition, exhilaration, hopes and disappointments — can offer students many characteristics of the real world following graduation.

At Pitt, an education can come to life. Learning is not relegated to textbooks and chalkboards. An English writing major can put their studies to use by working at the student newspaper, The Pitt News. Students involved in the sciences can visit the Carnegie Science Center or the Allegheny Observatory. The educational opportunities are endless.

Students also have the opportunity to discover new interests and expand their knowledge through the numerous guest speakers and entertainers of international fame who visit the University each year. Pitt has attracted such people in question-and-answer sessions as Vice President Al Gore, former White House Press Secretary Mike McCurry, who made his first public appearance at Pitt after leaving office, acclaimed author Maya Angelou, CNN talk show host Larry King, General Norman Schwarzkopf and the "Piano Man," Billy Joel.

Along with its formal education, Pitt offers a wide range of 219 clubs and organizations — spanning from auto racing to the pre-med society — to supplement a student's learning experience.

Wright

One of Pitt's most inviting advantages is its close proximity to downtown Pittsburgh, the nation's sixth largest city. University ranked as one of the top 10 most desirable. Read Monthly Places Rated Almanac. Pittsburgh provides an abundance of opportunities for its students in career exploration from internships in Fortune 500 companies, work-study and residence in major law and medical facilities. The Pitt campus, also minutes away from the homes of the Steelers, Pirates and Penguins, and national college rock concerts, symphony, opera and more is ideal.

PITTSBURGH

Pittsburgh is a city with a story to tell. Photographers, artists and travelers see that immediately. Visually exciting, Pittsburgh has a rich cultural and industrial history, a heroic part of the American Industrial Age, and after the Second World War, an amazing "renaissance" transforming this spunky mill town into a city constantly admired for the quality of its urban life.

Arriving at Pittsburgh from the West, the traveler comes through the Fort Pitt Tunnel and is suddenly confronted by a effusive hospitality that leads to the city. It's the only city in America where a stranger says The New York Times.

Apparent at a glance is Pittsburgh's major role in the city's history, which makes it a transportation hub in the mountains of western Pennsylvania. In the 18th century it was the Gateway to the West, since the Ohio flows 980 miles to the Mississippi and then south to the Gulf of Mexico, or north to the Missouri and Northwest.

The Iron City of the early 19th century became the Steel City of the post Civil War era and the 20th century. Pittsburgh's many bridges reveal a history of engineering and design, and its many hills and valleys contain stories of ethnic populations. Now Pittsburgh enters the 21st century with a vigor and excitement that builds on the region's strengths — people, the educational and medical environment, arts and recreational attractions. The modern city, erected on the site of the world's most famous mill town, tell a story of partnership between government and private business in redirecting the city's economic energy and liberally changing the look of the city.

The Pittsburgh experience for the visitor however brief, has several levels. First, there is the surprise of "the Arrival." The view of the city as one emerges from the Fort Pitt Tunnel never fails to please. Second, there is the City itself. Here, one can appreciate the 19th century buildings next to post modern architecture in a reasonable, easily grasped way. Next, there are the Neighborhoods marked by Old World churches and ethnic stability, with a strong sense of place.

There is a suburban city, the home of the new Oakland, with its museums, educational and medical facilities, and pleasurable park lands.

These complexes are shaping Pittsburgh for the 21st century. Here one can find the City, urbane and familial, from the Symphony to the Zoo, from the Arts Festival to the Three Rivers Regatta, from rowing on the river to cross country skiing.

The Pittsburgh Student-Athlete

As a University of Pittsburgh football player, you're more than just a member of a team – you are a part of a large extended family, the Pittsburgh Panther Family. It includes not only your teammates, but also other student-athletes and an entire support system developed by the Pittsburgh Athletic Department to help you make the most of your college years.

The experience you will receive as a member of the Pittsburgh Panther family will help guide you through your college years and the rest of your life.

Pittsburgh student-athletes come together throughout the year in a wide range of events and activities to celebrate what it means to be part of the Panther family. As a Panther, your experience begins during your initial moments on campus with a Welcome Back Barbecue for all student-athletes. The Panther experience extends throughout the year and culminates with an end-of-the-year student-athlete picnic and Senior Awards picnic to recognize its graduating members.

Today's student-athletes are faced with many challenges. Pittsburgh is dedicated to guiding them through these challenges and providing an enriching, educational and enjoyable experience in the process. The University's student-athlete support system is known as the Panther Game Plan.

University of Pittsburgh student-athletes are very active in community service. This past spring they opened their efforts internationally, gathering and packing for shipment to Kosovo refugee camps.

The Panther Game Plan

The Panther Game Plan is dedicated to helping its student athletes achieve their maximum potential both on and off the field. Created in 1995, it has become one of the university's most influential and beneficial programs for its student athlete community. The program focuses on nine key areas of support:

- Personal Development
  - Academic Achievement
  - Athletic Excellence
- Community Service
- Personal Wellness
- Career Planning and Development
- Sportsmanship
- Leadership

"It is of utmost importance to me that our student athletes have a complete experience upon graduating from the University of Pittsburgh," said Pittsburgh Athletic Director Steve Pederson. "We believe the Panther Game Plan will give them the kind of experience outside the classroom and the playing field that will make their life here complete."

The Panther Game Plan coordinates the efforts of many individuals and offices at the University of Pittsburgh who are devoted to assisting Panther student athletes in maximizing their educational experiences.

Among the many organizations and departments which contribute programming to assist the Athletic Department in this effort are Academic Support Services for Student Athletes, the School of Education, University Orthopaedics, Placement and Career Services, Office of Student Life, Student Health Services, Education Office and the Pitt Varsity Letter Club.

The Panther Game Plan has provided student athletes with such events as career fairs, National Student Athlete Day activities, children's and veterans' hospital visits and seminars on study skills and time management. Additionally, the Panther Game Plan worked to double Pittsburgh student athlete involvement in community service and began the 'Panthers Ben Pak' program with area elementary schools.

The University of Pittsburgh is committed to producing champions both on the field and in the classroom. An invaluable resource to help Panther student athletes achieve their academic potential is the Academic Support Services Department.

Academic Support Services has one mission: to help Pittsburgh's men and women athletes have a meaningful and successful experience during their careers.

Among the many services it provides are:

- Academic advising
- Academic skills workshops
- Organized study sessions and workshops
- One-on-one tutoring
- Class review sessions
- Monitored class attendance and performance
- Career counseling, resume writing and career planning

To ensure Panther student athletes have all the necessary tools when they leave college, the University of Pittsburgh has dedicated programs to help its athletes target their career interests and reach their goals.

Through the Panther Game Plan, many programs have been initiated to prepare athletes for life after football. The Panther Game Plan allows student athletes to explore career options and achieve the necessary tools and skills to succeed in the professional world.

The Pittsburgh Student-Athlete

Student athletes at Pitt, whether they are a freshman or upperclassman, have access to excellent career development services through the Career Center and the supplemental programs offered by the athletic department.

The Panther Game Plan allows student athletes to explore career options through guest speakers and career fairs, as well as develop internships and permanent employment. The Panther Game Plan has also provided "Preparing for Life After College" panels and seminars for the student athletes.

When you are a Pittsburgh Panther, you are more than just a football player. The University of Pittsburgh works to give student athletes a complete, well rounded experience, expanding their horizons in ways they never thought possible.

A very important part of the experience is giving back to the community and helping those who may not be able to help themselves. Community service is a major priority to the Panther football program.

Senior defensive end Julian Graham summed it up best. "Helping others shows what Pitt is about," he said. "It's more than athletics."

Throughout the year, the Panther football team extends its family to the surrounding region to help others in need. The Panthers participate in a wide variety of community service and outreach activities to promote the importance of education, teamwork and service.

From sharing their experiences about overcoming obstacles to students at local elementary schools to visiting patients at Children's Hospital, the Panthers can be seen helping out in all aspects of the community. At the same time, the student athletes learn and benefit from the students, teachers and patients with whom they interact.

This year, Pittsburgh student athletes spread their efforts internationally when they joined together to help those who are in unfortunate. Members of the Panther football team traveled, joining in shipment overcoats, coats and ethnic Albanian refugees from Kosovo.

Visits to nearby Children's Hospital are one of the Panthers' most important activities and occur throughout the academic year. Student athletes help ease the children's spirits by playing games with them and reading stories. The Pittsburgh Panther team gave moral support when they visited St. Jude's Hospital in Memphis as part of their Liberty Bowl activities in 1997.

During the spring, current Panther D. Dinkins joined former Pitt greats Curtis Martin of the New York Jets and the Tennessee Titans Anthony Dorsett in a celebrity basketball game for the Pittsburgh Housing Authority "Clean Slate '99."

WE ARE

In 1998, 212 student athletes at the University of Pittsburgh carried grade-point averages of 3.0 or higher, including 11 who achieved perfect GPAs of 4.0.

Last season, 68 Pittsburgh student athletes were named to the Big East Academic All-Star Team, which honors outstanding performance on the field and in the classroom. Since September, nearly 300 Panther student-athletes have dedicated over 600 hours to community service, including Children's Hospital visits, Thanksgiving Dinner for the Homeless, Oakland Cleanup and Education Pop Rallies at local elementary schools.

The Panther Student-Athlete Advisory Board worked to collect funds to help rebuild the Snake-Wing as well as in Homewood-Brighton, which was vandalized.

THE

When you play football at the University of Pittsburgh, you play in one of the largest media markets in the United States. In Western Pennsylvania alone, over 40 newspapers, television stations and radio stations regularly cover the Panthers. So it's a frequent sight to see a Panther player chatting with a newspaper reporter after practice or stepping in front of a television camera during postgame.

Pittsburgh boasts four major network affiliates, including WTAE (ABC), KDKA (CBS), WPKI (NBC) and WPGH (FOX). Additionally, FOX Sports Net Pittsburgh, a leader in all sport programming throughout the region, James Earl Ray season premieres every week and WTAE sportscaster Andrew Stockley does a weekly segment called "Campus Insider" that features college sports take on the upcoming game as well as the college football scene as a whole.

Pittsburgh games are also regularly featured on television. Since 1985, the Panthers have made nearly 100 television appearances, including 34 on a national network.

For the fourth straight year, Pittsburgh will be featured on ESPN's Thursday Night Game of the Week package when it hosts Syracuse on Oct. 7. The Panthers have provided the nation's Thursday night viewers with some highly dramatic moments.

In John Majors' first game back at Pitt in 1993, Pittsburgh upset a highly regarded Southern Mississippi team. March 15, 94 Walt Harris' squad defeated Miami 24-10, the Panther's first victory over the Hurricanes since the 1976 national championship campaign. Pittsburgh has won four of the last 100 games it has played in its Thursday night package.

The Pittsburgh Panther Radio Network broadcasts Pitt football throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and beyond. The "Voice of the Panthers" is Bill Hillgrove, who has become synonymous with the Pitt sports scene. His longevity as a sportscaster has made him one of Pittsburgh's most recognizable and favorite media personalities. Hillgrove's broadcast partner is Bill Osborn, a former star wide receiver for the Panthers and 1989 graduate of the University. Osborn joined the broadcast booth in 1993 and quickly won over Panther fans with insightful color commentary.

Additionally, Panther fans can log on to www.pittsburghpanthers.com, the internet home of Pittsburgh Athletics, and get the latest football news, stats and stories.

The University of Pittsburgh has won nine national championships — the most of any NCAA Division IA program in the East and the sixth best ever. Pittsburgh's national champion teams not only ranked as the best in the land in that seven-year, but in many cases were among the elite teams in college football history.

Under the direction of Head Coach John Majors in 1916, Pittsburgh completed perhaps the most miraculous turnaround in college football history by rolling to a 12-0 record and winning the school's ninth national title. The flawless record was a stark contrast to 100 years prior, when the Panthers went 0-10. The 1916 Panthers, led by legendary trophy winner Tony Dorsett, were lauded as "21st greatest" team of the century by Arnold and the "11th greatest" team of all-time by the Sporting News. The 10th anniversary issue of Sport & South in 1990 ranked it the 13th best squad since 1940.

The legendary Jack Scutherland coached Pittsburgh to five national titles during his Pitt coaching tenure. Scutherland's 1917 team ranked as the best team in the land with a 9-0 record. Among the Panthers' vanquished opponents that year: Penn State (28), Notre Dame (10), Nebraska (7), Wisconsin (2-0) and West Virginia (10-0). The '17 A-O-O deadlock with Fordham.

Under even 'Doc' Warner, Pittsburgh won three national championships in his 10 years, considered one of the greatest coaches in football history. Warner directed the Panthers to unanimous titles in '44, '46 and '48. During that period, Pittsburgh won 11 straight games.

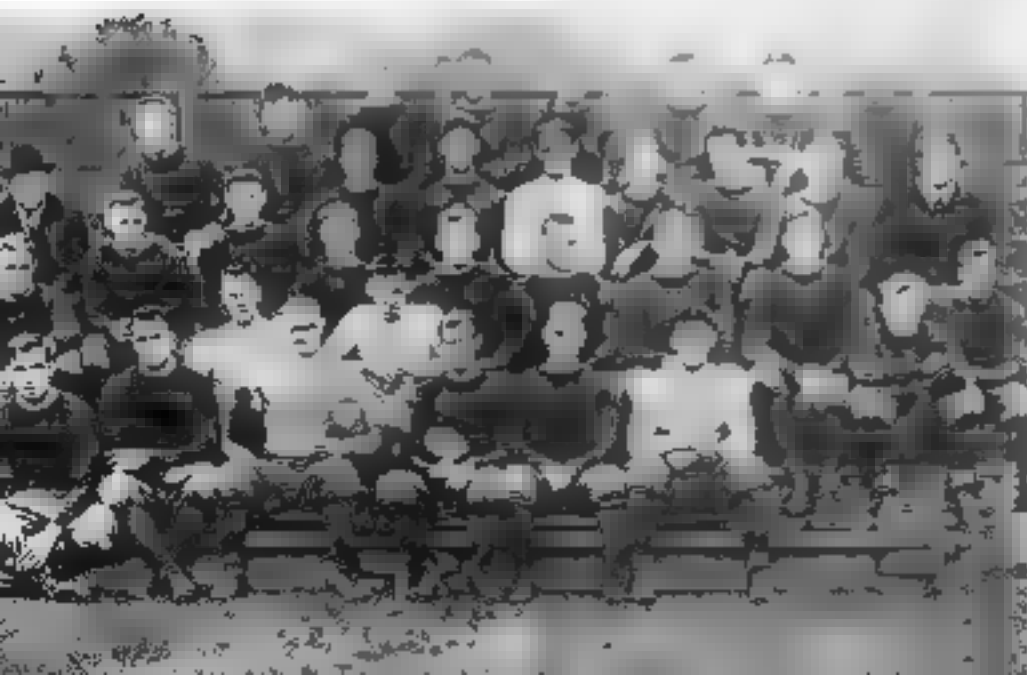

Perhaps Pittsburgh's greatest team ever didn't win a national title. The Panthers' 1980 team finished second in both major polls with an 11-1 record, its one blemish an October loss at Florida State. Although Pittsburgh finished second in both the Associated Press and United Press International polls, The New York Times Computer Poll ranked the Panthers as the best team in the country. An amazing 12 players from that squad were selected in the NFL draft the following spring, including three first-rounders.

Pittsburgh has finished second in a major poll three times. It has ranked in the top four 10 times.

The University of Pittsburgh has long served the National Football League as a fertile source of gridiron talent.

Over the last three decades, 119 Pittsburgh players have been selected in the NFL Draft. Eighteen have been chosen in the first round.

But as a recent Sports Illustrated article pointed out, "Players don't feed means about as much as lions served. The most measurable sign of a player's success—or, if thus his pedigree—comes in the form of the NFL's highest annual honor: the Pro Bowl."

"It's not enough to make it to the league," said Sport Illustrated. "You gotta make it in the league."

Pittsburgh has not just produced draft picks—it has produced draft picks that have gone on to thrive in the NFL.

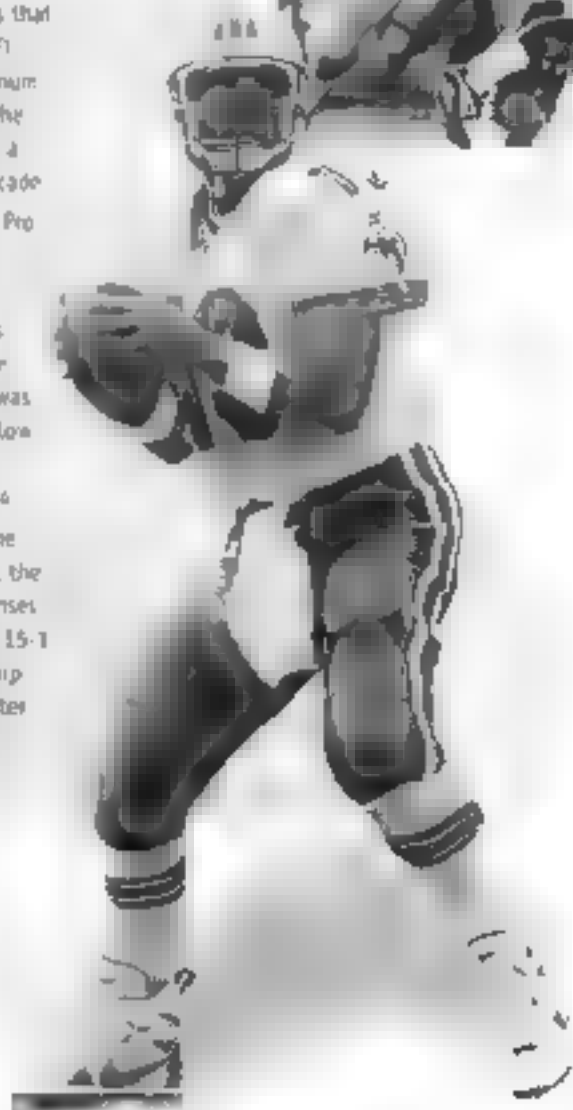

The Panthers rank fourth in the number of Pro Bowl players produced during the 1990s. The list of those players reads like a "Who's Who in the NFL" during the past decade.

The following is a look at Pittsburgh's Pro Bowl talent in the '90s.

RUBEN BROWN Since joining the NFL as a first-round selection by the Buffalo Bills in 1991, Brown has emerged as one of the league's dominant offensive linemen. He was selected to his third straight Pro Bowl following the 1998 season. Brown was an All-American at Pittsburgh as a senior in 1994.

JEFF CHRISTY As the starting center for the Minnesota Vikings in 1998, Christy was at the heart of one of the NFL's most prolific offenses. He helped the Vikings to a franchise-best 15-1 record and a berth in the NFC championship game. Christy was named the starting center for the 1999 Pro Bowl.

CHRIS DOEMAN Doeman, the fourth overall selection in the 1985 draft, ranks as one of the NFL's all-time leading pass rushers. He is one of only six players to be named to the Pro Bowl as a member of three different teams (Minnesota Vikings, Atlanta Falcons and the San Francisco 49ers). In 1992, he was named the NFL Defensive Player of the Year.

BILL FRALC One of the greatest offensive linemen in college football history, Fralco went on to an exceptional NFL career from 1985-93, playing eight years with the Atlanta Falcons and his final season with the Detroit Lions. He was selected to the Pro Bowl four times. In 1998, he was inducted into the College Football Hall of Fame.

SEAN GILBERT Gilbert, currently a member of the Carolina Panthers, was the third overall pick in the 1992 draft by the Los Angeles Rams and made a quick ascension to status as one of the game's elite defensive linemen. He became a Pro Bowl starter by the time he was just 22 years of age.

CRAIG HEYWARD Heyward, better known as "Ironhead," spent more than a decade in the NFL. He had the best season of his professional career in 1995, rushing for over 1,000 yards to earn his first trip to Honolulu for the Pro Bowl. His 4.59 yards per carry that season ranked fourth in the NFL. At Pittsburgh, Heyward earned All America honors and finished fifth in the Heisman Trophy balloting in 1987.

RICHIE JACKSON Jackson will go down as one of the greatest linebackers in NFL history. He ranks among the all-time leaders in career sacks and fumble recoveries and earned berths in the Pro Bowl six times. Jackson was a member of Pitt's devastating 1980 defense that ranked No. 1 in the country and surrendered just 14 points per game.

DAN MARINO Destined for enshrinement in the Hall of Fame, Marino holds an amazing 25 NFL records. In his 16-year career, Marino has completed 4,763 of 7,989 passes for an astounding 58,913 yards with 408 touchdowns and 235 interceptions. He is the NFL's all-time leader in attempts, completions, passing yardage and touchdown passes. Marino has started 729 of his 751 regular season games in which he has played during his career. An eight-time Pro Bowl selection, he was named the NFL Man of the Year in 1998.

CURTIS MARTIN In just four seasons, Martin has become one of the marquee running backs in the NFL and has twice been named to the Pro Bowl. A third-round pick by the New England Patriots in 1995, Martin earned Rookie of the Year honors after rushing for 1,487 yards, the fourth most by an NFL rookie ever. This past season he helped the revitalized New York Jets to an improbable berth in the AFC title game.

MARK STEPNIOSKI Following an All America career at Pittsburgh, Stepnoski went on to become one of the NFL's outstanding centers. He earned five straight berths in the Pro Bowl from 1993-97 (three with the Dallas Cowboys and two with the Houston/Tennessee Oilers). Stepnoski was only the second Pro Bowl center in Cowboys history and the first to earn more than one berth.

The Pitt

WORKS

THE PITT IRONWORKS IS NOT JUST A PLACE. IT'S A MIND SET.

It's pride in over a century of Panther football tradition.

It's dedication to pushing Pittsburgh to the pinnacle of college football once again.

It's belief that nothing is impossible to those who care for sweat and the pain.

The undeniable master of the Pitt Iron Works is Buddy Morris, the Panthers' strength and conditioning coach. At Morris, Pittsburgh boasts one of the most dedicated and knowledgeable trainers in the country.

"Football is like a SCULPTURE," says then Morris is the artist constantly molding, shaping and creating a masterpiece player. Morris is responsible for some of the greatest "master pieces" in Panther football history.

During his initial four years with Pittsburgh from 1980-89, he trained 13 first-round NFL draft picks and 15 first-team All-Americans. He rejoined the Panthers in 1997 with the arrival of new head coach Walt Harris and has made a dramatic impact on the team's strength and conditioning levels.

He has never comes easy. "Champions are made when nobody is watching," is written on a wall in the Pittsburgh Works. Morris is a firm believer in that saying, and he is dedicated to making sure every Pittsburgh football player reaches his physical potential.

But ultimately, Morris says, the opportunity to be the best rests with the player.

"I can't do it for you," says Morris. "A program won't be successful unless you have people who are willing to bust their tails and be committed. You have to push your body and reach levels you never thought possible. We provide players with the match but they have to SO like it.

"When I came to Pitt I was a slacker."

Only once. Then Buddy took me under his wing... was just a guy but Buddy built me into a star. Buddy says, "we then build you physically, the instincts values and discipline in you.

Jim Sweeney, Pittsburgh Steeler

3-year NFL veteran

"I give Buddy Merritt my total attention and trust. He taught me what need to do to be a great player. Buddy is excellent in working one-on-one with people. He looks at a player, analyzes their strengths and weaknesses and gives them a tailored workout that's made just for the individual."

Media Information

to the Media

This book has been prepared for members of the working media who will cover the Pittsburgh football team during the 1999 season, as well as fans, friends and alumni. Additions to the contents of this book, changes in personnel, plans and policy, and supplemental information will be provided prior to and during the football season by the media relations office. If you desire additional information, please contact:

Athletic Media Relations
University of Pittsburgh
P.O. Box 7436
Pittsburgh, PA 15213
Phone: (412) 648-8240.

The office is located on the second floor of Pitt Stadium, via the Gate B entrance.

Media Coverage Policy

Credentials: Credentials for Pittsburgh home games are issued to working media only and should be requested as early as possible due to severe space limitations and demand. All credential requests should be made in writing on company letterhead and be directed to E.J. Borghetti, media relations director, University of Pittsburgh, P.O. Box 7436, Pittsburgh, PA 15213. Credentials that cannot be mailed may be obtained at the press will-call window outside Gate L of Pitt Stadium.

Because of the demand for credentials and the limited space in the press box, media organizations covering the visiting school on a regular basis will receive top priority. All other credentials for print media will be issued on the basis of circulation. Only local radio stations with a full-time sports director conducting a daily sports show will be considered for credentials.

Practice Coverage: Media representatives are welcome to cover Panther football practice, but they should notify E.J. Borghetti of the media relations office in advance for proper clearance. For interviews, please allow at least 24 hours for requests.

Head Coach Walt Harris will be available for interviews after practice sessions. Please notify the Athletic Media Relations Office with any requests at least a day in advance. Assistant coaches will also be available after practice sessions.

Player interviews are not allowed during practice or while players are going to the practice field. Player interviews after practice must be pre-arranged through the Athletic Media Relations Office. Player phone interviews after practice will be conducted after the requested player showers. A day's notice is requested in order to ensure the player receives the phone interview notice. The deadline for player interviews during game weeks is noon Thursday. Lengthy player feature interviews can be arranged through the media relations office with proper notice.

Camermen and photographers may shoot only from the sidelines at practice and only individual drills, which take place during the initial 30 minutes of practice. Please refrain from edging onto the playing field to avoid any injury to players and/or photographer. Dialogue between players and coaches at practice is confidential. Please use discretion in reporting practice in such areas as plays, formations and injuries. Television cameramen may not shoot formations. If there is any question in your mind about what may be reported, please ask Coach Harris.

Media representatives are requested to refrain from contacting players late at night, and player telephone numbers will not be released by the media relations office.

Postgame Interviews: The postgame press conference for Panther home games will be held in the Eiseman-Pruitt Room, located between Gates B and C of Pitt Stadium.

Coach Harris and select Pittsburgh players will attend the press conference. Requests for players not appearing at the postgame press conference will also be accepted. Pittsburgh's locker room is closed to the media and public.

Telephones: The media relations office supplies an adequate number of telephones in the press box available for general use by visiting writers. Credential requests should indicate interest in the use of these phones. Personal phone lines at assigned seats can be ordered at individual seats by contacting Bell Atlantic toll free at (800) 479-1919.

In-Season Media Opportunities

Football Press Luncheons: Coach Harris will conduct his weekly press luncheons Mondays, beginning at 11:30 a.m. Select players and assistant coaches will also be available at the luncheons for interview and photo opportunities.

Big East Football Teleconference: Coach Harris will be available for interviews via a Big East Football teleconference every Monday from 1:20 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH FOOTBALL GAMES, home in away, will be broadcast throughout the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania and beyond via the Pittsburgh Panthers Radio Network in 1989.

Pittsburgh's Panther Sports Productions will team up with the station to broadcast all home and away games. The Panthers Radio Network, which uses a Q100 AM as its flagship station.

KQV will also be the home of weekly in-season shows, which include Panther fans' talk forum, one-on-one with Pittsburgh head coach Walt Hargrave.

For the 1989 season, Bill Hillgrove will be the "Voice of the Panthers." Hillgrove, former associate and commentator, will play the role of the Panther's voice, covering throughout the network.

Hillgrove has a long association with the Panthers and the Pittsburgh sports scene. Prior to taking over the play-by-play duties, Hillgrove served as Pittsburgh's analyst from 1970-73 when the late Ed Conway provided play-by-play description. He has also served as the play-by-play man for Pittsburgh basketball broadcasts since 1969.

A popular and well-known Pittsburgh sports personality, Hillgrove has long been a Panther ambassador of good will. An ardent supporter of all Pitt athletics teams, he attends and emcees Team Pittsburgh functions, as well as other University functions throughout the year.

A 1962 graduate of Duquesne University, Hillgrove became the Pittsburgh Steelers' play-by-play announcer in 1995.

Joining Hillgrove in the broadcast booth for the fifth straight year will be Bill Osborn, a 1989 Pittsburgh graduate and one of the Panthers' all-time great wide receivers.

Osborn, the Panthers' team captain as a senior in 1988, finished his collegiate career with 77 receptions for over 1,000 yards. He spent one year with the Philadelphia Eagles and then played part of the following season on the Pittsburgh Panthers of the American Football League.

Osborn took over the Panther color duties in 1995, succeeding another Pittsburgh giant, Mark May, who now is an NFL analyst with CBS.

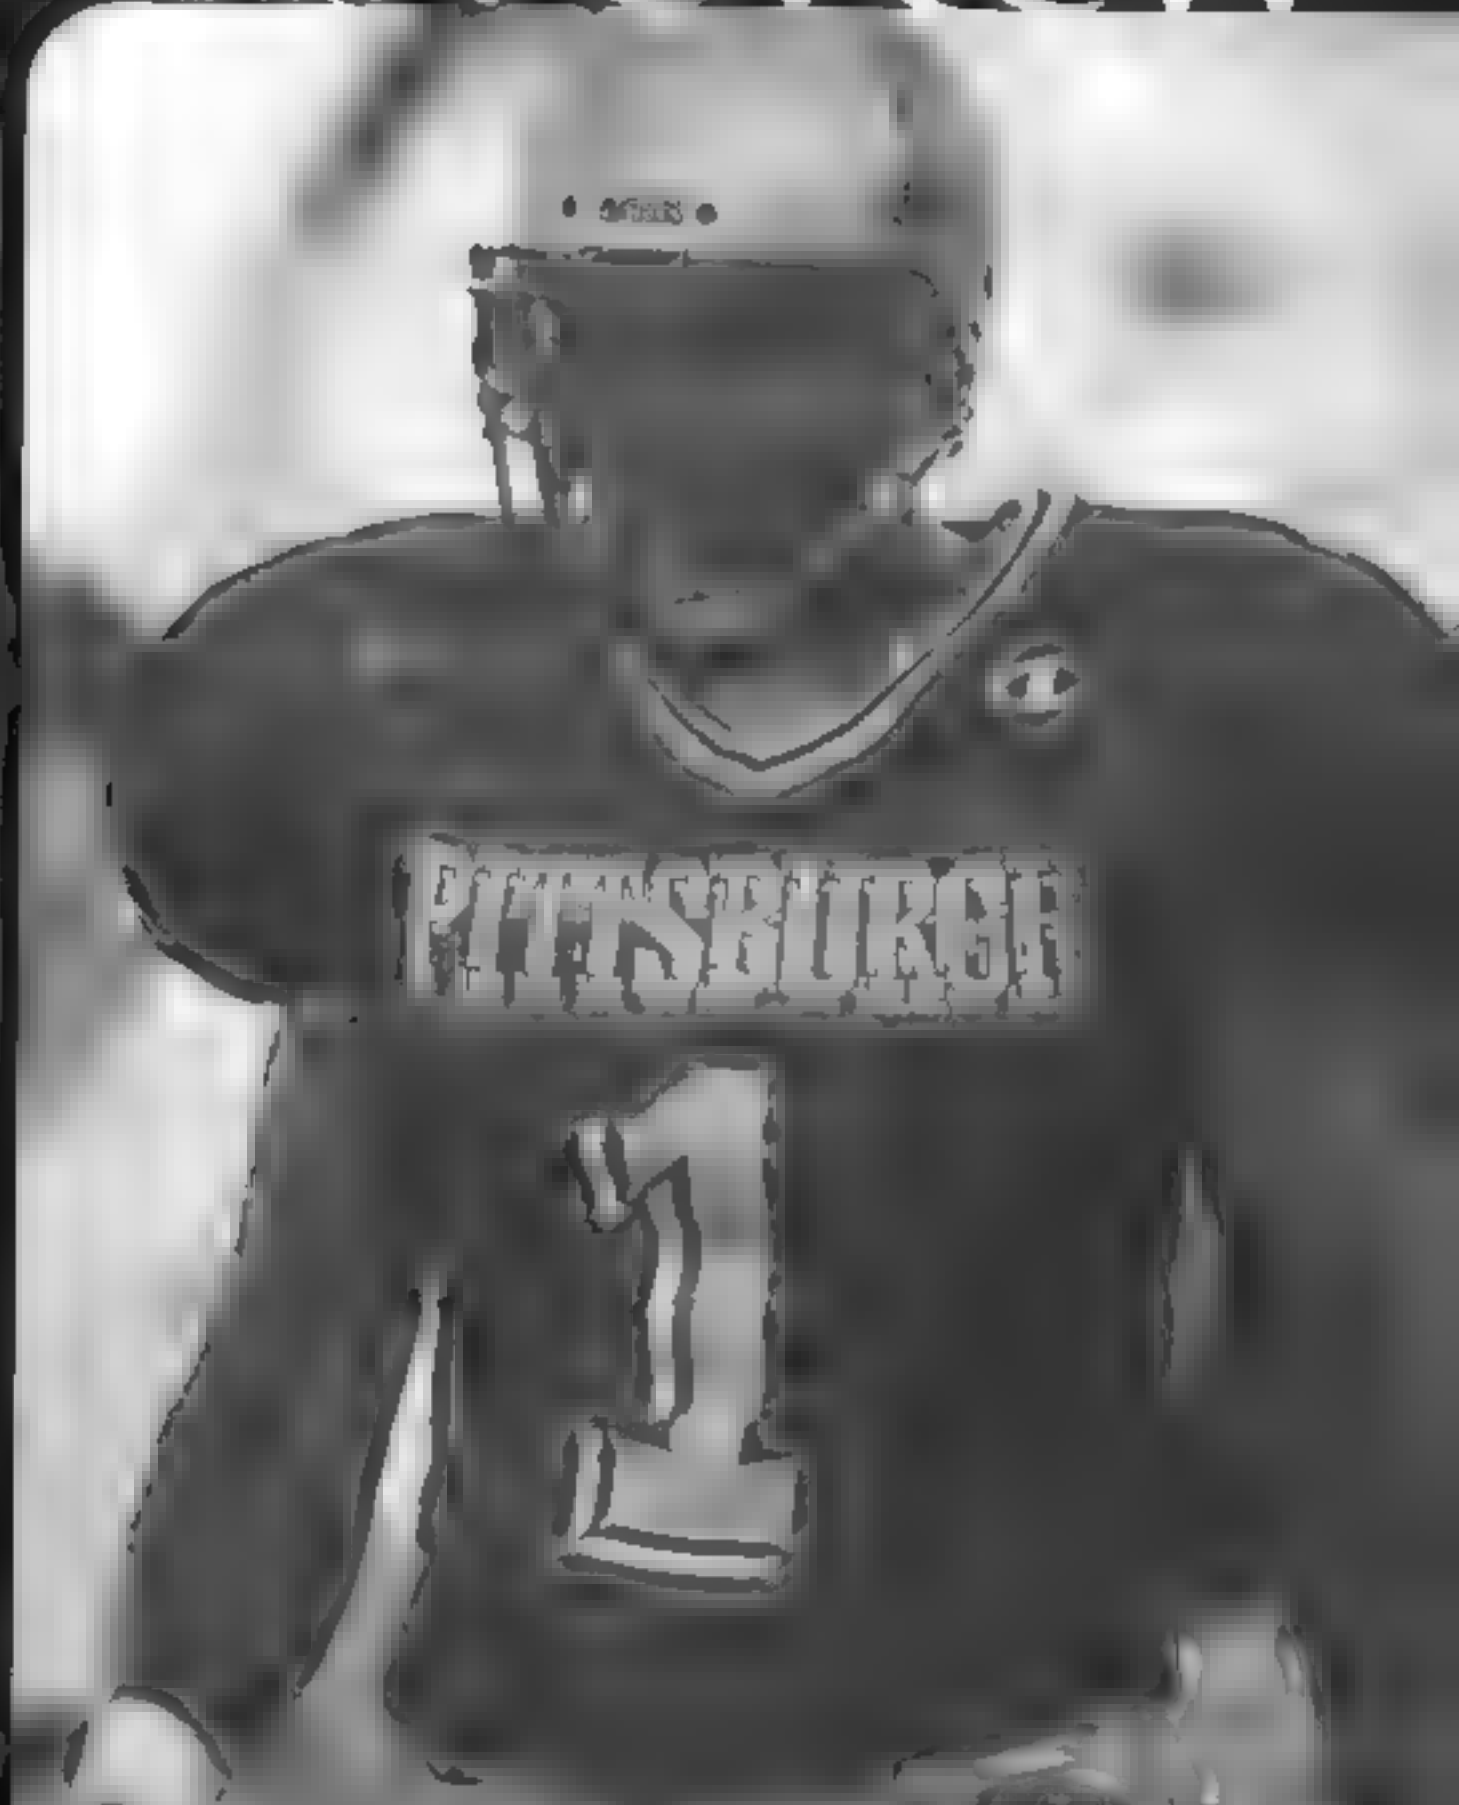

Osborn works full-time as a territorial representative for Johnson & Johnson. Hillgrove will conduct postgame locker room interviews with Coach Hart as well as key Panther players. Moreover, following every Pittsburgh game, Eric Hanman, sports director of KQV, will host Panther Hotline, a 15-minute show that allows Pittsburgh fans to give their insight about all the action.

1999 Preview

THE END OF AN ERA.

It Stadium, home of University of Pittsburgh football since 1925, is slated to witness its final season of play in 1999. Not surprisingly, the year will be filled with plenty of retrospectives on the 74-year-old building that has provided the backdrop for countless exciting Pitt football moments.

But while nostalgia will fill the minds of many fans, the present will be first and foremost on the mind of Pittsburgh's third-year head coach Walt Harris. In fact, Harris and his 1999 Panthers would like to erase a few memories, primarily last year's disappointing 2-9 campaign.

The rebuilding process rarely occurs without hurdles or setbacks. The Panthers were one of the major surprises of the 1997 college football season. Harris led it at Pittsburgh when they upset Miami, Virginia Tech and West Virginia en route to a berth in the Liberty Bowl.

Last year, Pittsburgh got off to a strong start, suggesting another promise following an opening victory over Villanova, the Panthers extended nationally ranked Penn State to the limit before falling, 20-13.

But, experience in key areas combined with a host of untimely injuries and a lack of depth ultimately doomed the Panthers.

Although the year was a disappointment overall, it was not without its bright spots. Among them:

- Hank Poteat emerged as one of the nation's rising stars at cornerback, finishing fourth in the country in interceptions.

- In his first season at Pittsburgh, Latif Grim established himself as an exciting, big-play receiver, while leading the Big East in receiving yards.

- Pittsburgh's defense played exceptionally well through most of the season, ranking as high as ninth nationally, before key injuries debilitated the unit late in the year.

Poteat and Grim are both back, giving Pittsburgh two of the nation's top performers in the Big East. The Panthers also boast a significant amount of experience with 17 starters and 42 lettermen returning.

In addition to experience, Harris believes another factor will be key in the Panthers' improvement.

"I think one of the big differences between 1997 and 1998 was that we did not have enough leaders," said Harris. "We not only lost some good football players (from 1997) but some excellent leaders. We had some good leaders last year but not enough of them. I think our players learned a lot from last year and what good leadership is. With a young program that is very important."

"It is difficult to have to audition a new quarterback every year and when you have had a lack of offensive linemen you tend to scramble. I think overall the defense is ahead of the offense because they have had less significant turnover during the time we've been here since 1997. We did have some improvement during the spring that was encouraging, particularly on the offensive line. Hopefully, we'll resolve other personnel questions during camp."

Hank Poteat

Offense

Pittsburgh returns seven starters and 19 lettermen on offense. The Panthers, who averaged 21.3 points and 321.8 yards per game in 1998, have several key concerns. A new starting quarterback must emerge from a group of untested candidates. Pittsburgh will also be looking for improved offensive line play and more productivity from its ground game.

Quarterbacks

For the third time in as many years, Harris will oversee a battle for the starting quarterback job at Pittsburgh during fall camp.

Spring drills did not yield a clear frontrunner as repetitions were divided between senior MATT O'CONNOR, junior JOHN TURMAN and sophomore DAVID PRIESTLEY. O'Connor, however, does maintain an edge heading into camp as he is the only candidate with playing experience.

O'Connor joined the Panthers last year as a junior college transfer and appeared in seven games (including a start at Syracuse). He completed 14 of 39 for 174 yards and one touchdown with three interceptions.

Turman was considered one of the country's top junior college quarterbacks in 1997 out of Los Medanos College (Calif.). Unlike O'Connor, he did not have the benefit of spring drills in 1998 and ultimately redshirted so that he could gain a fuller understanding of Harris' offensive system.

Priestley sat out the 1998 season after transferring from Ohio State. A heralded high school quarterback out of Los Alamitos, Calif., he redshirted in his only season with the Buckeyes in 1997 before transferring to Pittsburgh.

Highly touted freshman ROD RUTHERFORD, the Pennsylvania High School Player of the Year, will join the mix in camp after a standout career at Pittsburgh's Perry Traditional Academy.

LOUIE GON

Wide Receivers

The new quarterback will have the luxury of throwing to one of the top targets in the Big East. If not the nation, in junior flanker ATEF GRIM.

In just his first collegiate season, Grim led the conference in receiving yards per game (90.6 avg.) on the way to first-team All-Big East and All-East honors. Despite missing the Miami contest with a concussion, he set a Pittsburgh record with 6.0 catches per game and totaled 60 catches for 906 yards. If his development continues, he could make a national impact this season.

Split end Terry Murphy, also one of the Big East's best during the last two years, was lost to graduation. Sophomore R.J. ENGLISH and senior KEMBEY KETCHEN will be the top candidates to replace him. English (12 rec., 137 yards) and Ketchen (11 rec., 134 yards) both made significant strides as the season progressed last year. English's offseason progress was hindered by knee surgery that forced him to sit out of spring drills.

Senior JULIUS DIXON can provide support at either flanker or split end. True freshman LAMAR SLADE, who joined Pittsburgh in mid-year from Fork Union Military Academy in Virginia, impressed during the spring. Redshirt freshman JAY JUNKO (son of defensive tackles coach Bob Junko) and junior TIM STEIN, a former walk-on who lettered as a punt returner last year, boast good hands and blocking ability. Walk-ons MIKE SMOLNIK and AARON PRICE will also try to emerge.

True freshmen looking to make an impact on the receiving corps include ANTONIO BRYANT and CHRIS CURD.

Tight Ends

Senior BEN KOPP has been the Panthers' top blocker at this position the past two seasons and shared a "co-starter" role in 1998. A former interior offensive lineman who contributed at guard and tackle in emergency situations, Kopp has the potential to be a dominant blocking tight end. He will work to become more of a factor in the passing game this season.

Fifth-year senior KIRK McMULLEN has been a frequent contributor over the last three seasons. Boasting good size and capable hands, McMullen's development could provide the Panthers with a formidable 1-2 punch at tight end.

Sophomore BRENNAN CARROLL enters his first active season at Pittsburgh after transferring from Delaware in 1998. Carroll had a solid spring, displaying good pass catching ability, and will look to add depth as he continues to develop.

Additional contributions could come from freshmen GAN LACARTE, an All-State performer at nearby Charlevoix Area High, and Lancaster product KRIS WILSON, who averaged 26 yards per catch as a senior.

Running Backs

With the loss of its top two tailbacks from 1997, Pittsburgh did not have the luxury of bringing BRANDON WILLIAMS along slowly as a freshman. Thrust quickly into a prominent role, Williams started nine contests, totaling 394 yards on 110 carries (3.6 avg.). His top performance was a 106-yard effort versus Temple. He shared time with junior KEVAN BARLOW, a two-year letterman who had a team-high 533 yards on 121 attempts (4.4 avg.) as the top reserve last year.

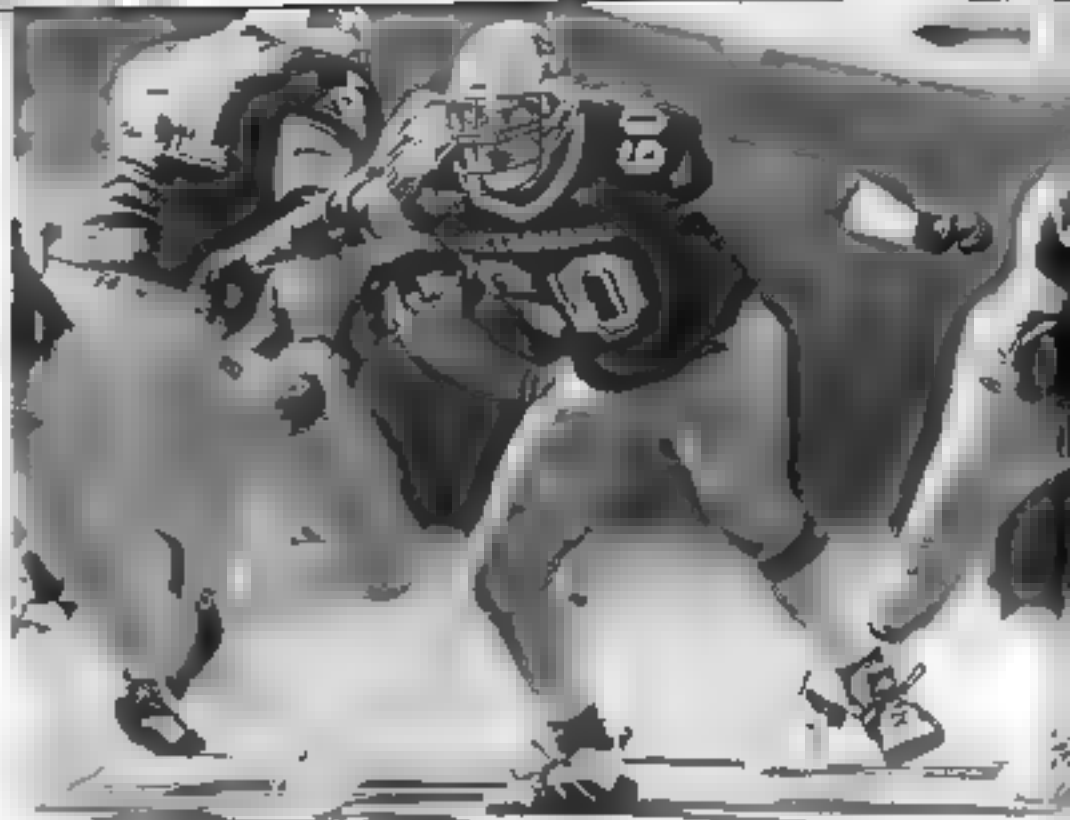

NICK GOINGS, who sat out last year after transferring from Ohio State, could be a major factor at this position. A junior, Goings revealed good speed and shifty moves while contributing on the scout squad. He had a very productive spring and is the favorite for the starting nod heading into fall camp. Goings was one of the country's most sought after prep running backs in 1995 after a standout career at Scioto High in Ohio.

Also vying for time will be freshman TORRIE COX, a product of Miami, Fla., and a first-team All-State selection last year.

Pittsburgh will need to replace the graduated Chris Schneider, who was a four-year contributor at fullback. Senior CHRIS FEOJA will be a leading candidate. Feoja, named the team's most improved player last year, has seen his role significantly increase each season since joining Pittsburgh as a walk-on in 1994.

Sophomore MARK MOOTHART has displayed much promise but has been injury-plagued during most of his brief career. If healthy, he could be a major contributor with his tough, hard-nosed style.

Sophomore RICKEY MENDENHALL saw significant time for most of the 1998 season before seeing his production decrease. His experience and athleticism should put him in the mix again. Junior walk-on JOE VAGLIA returned to the team this past spring after a one-year hiatus and impressed with his toughness and work ethic, two qualities that could lead to playing time on the special teams.

WILLIAMS

Incoming freshmen who will vie for time include JUSTIN COTER, the son of defensive coordinator Art Coker and an All-State selection from Iowa, as well as JONASAKA POJIT, a 1,000-yard rusher out of Pittsburgh's Woodland Hills High.

Offensive Line

This unit endured a season-long growth process last year with three starters — MARK BROWNE, RYAN HANSEN and JEFF MCCURLEY — all in their first season playing offensive line at the Division I level. Hansen and Browne both joined Pittsburgh as mid-year junior college transfers, while McCurley switched to offense in fall camp after being a starter at defensive tackle as a true freshman in 1997.

This season, Pittsburgh can boast significant experience in four returning starters and a promising group of younger prospects who redshirted last season.

Browne and Hansen, now seniors, return at left and right tackle, respectively. McCurley moved from guard to center to replace graduated three-year starter Andrew Grischow. The switch was considered a major success by the coaching staff following spring drills.

Also in the mix at center will be freshman CHAD REED. Reed originally signed with the Panthers in 1998, but separated his shoulder during preseason camp and elected to redshirt for the following January to preserve a redshirt season.

The line's most experienced and versatile player is senior ETHAN WENDLE. A starter since his sophomore year, Wendle has played both tackle and guard during his career. He is expected to start at the right guard spot for the second straight year in 1999.

Working to take over McCurley's vacated left guard position will be either BRYAN ANDERSON or KHALATHA DOWNEY, a pair of promising redshirt freshmen. Another redshirt freshman, JOE MANGANELLO, will vie for time at tackle.

Junior TIM ROBERTSON, who moved to the interior line last year after previously playing tight end, will provide depth at guard while senior DAN CORNELIUS will do the same at tackle.

Pittsburgh's 1999 recruiting class also yielded five offensive line prospects, including DARRYL MCILROY, MATT MEFFORD, MATT KOKUAN, JON SCHALL and PENNY SEMALA.

Defense

Pittsburgh's defense ranked third in the Big East last year, surrendering 148.3 yards per game. The unit ranked as high as ninth nationally after giving up an average of just over 279 yards through the first six games.

The unit retains a significant amount of experience, seven starters are back as well as 19 lettermen. However, the Panthers are not without some personnel questions heading into camp.

Heading into spring we thought the defense line was a question mark, particularly the tackle position, and defensive coordinator Jerry Gray "We did think we had to have some competition in the secondary, we did a little work back. No one really separated themselves out in the spring. We'll need to continue to develop."

Gray has utilized a multi-gap substitution system in the defense, a practice he plans to implement in 1999. "We played a lot of blitzes last year," Gray said. "We think we play better after we're settled in, because of blitz."

When Gray will be looking to maximize the number of contributors on his defense, there is one particular area where he will look to do some minimizing.

"A primary focus will be reducing the number of big plays we gave up last year," he said. "We gave up too many bombs. There was improvement this spring but not marked improvement. We'll need to do better."

Linebackers

Although two-time All-Big East performer Phil Clarke was lost to graduation, Pittsburgh's linebacker unit should be an area of strength in 1999 with the return of seven lettermen as well as starters at both the Sam and Mike positions.

At the Mike (middle) RYAN JANSKIE will be a rising star, slated to replace Clarke after displaying excellent potential as a true freshman last year. Janskies served most of the season as a primary backup before starting the final three games when Clarke went down to injury. He finished fourth on the team with 62 stops.

Junior BRYAN JACOBS, African-American, played the Sam or Mike positions as a force when healthy last year. In an injury-ravaged season, by a broken neck injury that forced him to miss 1998 spring drills, he missed all this season and look to return to his full duty next spring.

Also looking to contribute at Mike, have working sophomore JAMES MULLIN and likely corner of Patrice Odey. Odey was an All-Middle Atlantic Division honoree for taking 100 hits last spring and may see some action in '99.

At the Sam, junior KYLE LEE and sophomore AMY PURNEY are back after seeing significant action last year. Lee was third in the conference in sacks last year. Purney, who made a career out of a late-season arm, was fourth.

At fullback, KAREM THOMPSON is back after a career career as a tight end last year, when he was named team captain. Injured by a broken leg, KUDY MULLIN will need Pittsburgh to step in a major number and lettered in his first season with the Panthers are sophomore guard center, rushing attack. Other well-annotated in edge ops include junior BRUCE BENNETT and sophomore IT JOHNSON, who will have to contribute after working in the secondary the past two seasons.

Working edge men slated to join the line backer corps include BRUCE FLETCHER, CRAIG MAYES, CALVIN HARRIS and LEROY WATKINS.

Defensive Line

Pittsburgh suffered key losses at the edge and tackle. Ker Pegram, who led Pittsburgh with five sacks and 17 tackles in losses and defensive end Mark Young, who was second with 4.5 sacks.

Experience on the defensive line comes in the person of senior tackle JARVON GRAHAM, who has started every game the past two seasons at defensive end. Graham will be strongly challenged by emerging sophomore BRANDON DEWEY, who lettered as a reserve defensive tackle last year.

Redshirt freshman RYAN SMITH joined the team with his play at end during the spring. A converted linebacker, Smith displayed outstanding pass rush abilities and is listed as the starter at the other end spot heading into camp. Challenging him will be junior KEN KASHUBAKA, who has played a number of roles during his collegiate career, and sophomore BRYAN KNUFF, who lettered at linebacker last year. Redshirt freshman MATT CAMPBELL will also vie for time after moving from tight end to end. Junior DEWIND WILSON returns at nose tackle, Wilson, the top returning tackle on the defensive front, will be steps in 1998, a three-year letterman.

Sophomore MATT BUSH will lead from the line, and the top line, and at 300 and 310 pounds gives Pittsburgh some much-needed size up front. All great walk-on KNUFF.

All-NCAA guard made for the biggest out-pullout of his career, all-around defensive line, a tackle during the spring.

Sophomore letterman JOHNNY M. perhaps the best tackle among the starters, missed spring drills due to shoulder surgery but returned to the line and didn't drop a sack. KYLE WILSON, who lettered last year in defensive end, will look to be a factor at end with MATT NEA, a 1998 team college transfer who lettered last year. Redshirt freshman KAREM THOMPSON will also line up behind him.

Incoming freshmen prospect inside end VINCE BUCHANAN and tackle JARRELL MURRAY will be counted on to agree to the others will.

Secondary

The secondary boasts excellent experience with three starters returning. The group is paired by Patrice Odey, who led the Big East and ranked fourth in the country in interceptions (60 per game) last year. Patrice also topped the conference in pass breakups (eight) on the way to second team All-American honors (Football Digest) and first team All-Big East and All-American accolades.

Tray Crayton graduated after starting at the other cornerback spot the past two years. Potential successors include senior CHEFFON ALLEN, who has been a top reserve the past two seasons, as well as promising but untested redshirt freshman DEMETRIUS RICH.

Senior ISAAC WILLIAMS, a converted running back, impressed in the secondary during the spring and will look to be the primary reserve behind Potrat. Redshirt freshman SHAWN ROBINSON is also in the mix.

Senior starters return at both safety positions, including SETH HORNACK at the strong spot and D.J. DINKINS at free. Hornack was the team's top tackler a year ago with 98 stops and finished second with 104 picks. Dinkins, who boasts intimidating size at 6-4 and 255 pounds, was second with 78 stops.

Pushing Dinkins will be redshirt freshman RAMON WALKER, who impressed during the spring. Sophomore strong safety MARK POKKO will also make a push for time after a strong spring.

Four freshmen join the secondary mix, including Wisconsin-Pennsylvania products ROBB BLAKER (Perry Traditional Academy) and WILLIAM J. FERLISSEN (Woodlawn Hills High), as well as COREY HUMPHRIES and TAYLOR JAY.

Special Teams

Pittsburgh had three different players handle the placekicking duties during the course of the 1998 season, indicative of a kicking game that was largely erratic.

Consistency could come this year in the person of sophomore KICK LOTZ, who took over the job in the final three games of the season and revealed excellent potential. Lotz also handled the team's kickoff duties throughout the year.

Lotz went unchallenged during the spring but will receive competition in fall camp from freshman walk-on KYLE BRADY. BRADY is a native of nearby West Virginia and last year

Senior GREG DEBOLT, the number one punter, DeBolt averaged nearly 40 yards per punt last year, the highest in part of 10 years in better. He is expected to replicate his performance in 1999.

Pittsburgh figures to have a strong return unit with POTLAT and ALLEN. Potrat set school records for kickoff net yards (1,144) and punt return yardage (1,000) last year. When he was appointed to the West Virginia roster due to injury, Allen stepped into the role and averaged 10.4 yards a 16.5 average the next eight game performance in the next year.

Potrat took over the punt return duties midway through last season and gave the unit a new spark, averaging 8.7 yards per return. Return handed STEIN, who began the year as Pittsburgh's starting punt returner, will also continue to contribute as a return man and will also serve as the team's primary holder.

The Panthers boast two capable longsnappers in TOMMY PARKER and MCMILLAN. Parker will handle the punt snapping, while McMillan will work the field goal and extra point units. Freshmen LARRY JOHNSON, a product of Penn-Trafford High, could also contribute in the snapping department.

Celebrating our past...into our Future

the struggle between them. Although the University of Pittsburgh football season won't open up until September, Pitt Stadium is buzzing with activity.

The scene is Pitt's youth summer football camp. Players of all shapes, sizes, ages and positions are scurrying around the steamy Pitt Stadium turf.

Right in the middle of the action is Walt Harris. Wearing sun glasses, a Panther T-shirt and grey shorts, he is addressing a group of young quarterbacks, who listen intently.

Harris talks football fundamentals.
He discusses the importance of teamwork and personal accountability. He says how happy the university and athletic department are to host the campers and hopes their experience over the next several days will be enjoyable and worthwhile.

The group then disperses into a circle. Harris demonstrates proper technique, shows him the proper way to grip the football, then gives him a friendly tap on the helmet as the youngster takes his place in the drill.

To many coaches the activity would be drudgery. For Walt Harris it is pure enjoyment. Although his coaching career has spanned almost three decades, the enthusiasm in his voice would suggest he is a rookie graduate assistant, looking for his first big professional break.

The excitement and passion Harris brings to coaching — whether it is during a summer youth camp or in preparation for the Panthers next opponent — are two major reasons he has been so successful during his career. Widely regarded as one of the premier offensive coaches in the country, Harris has received many a sparkling endorsement from various football people and pundits.

"They should have a Heisman Trophy for coaches and give it to him," says former Pitt quarterback Pete Gonzalez.

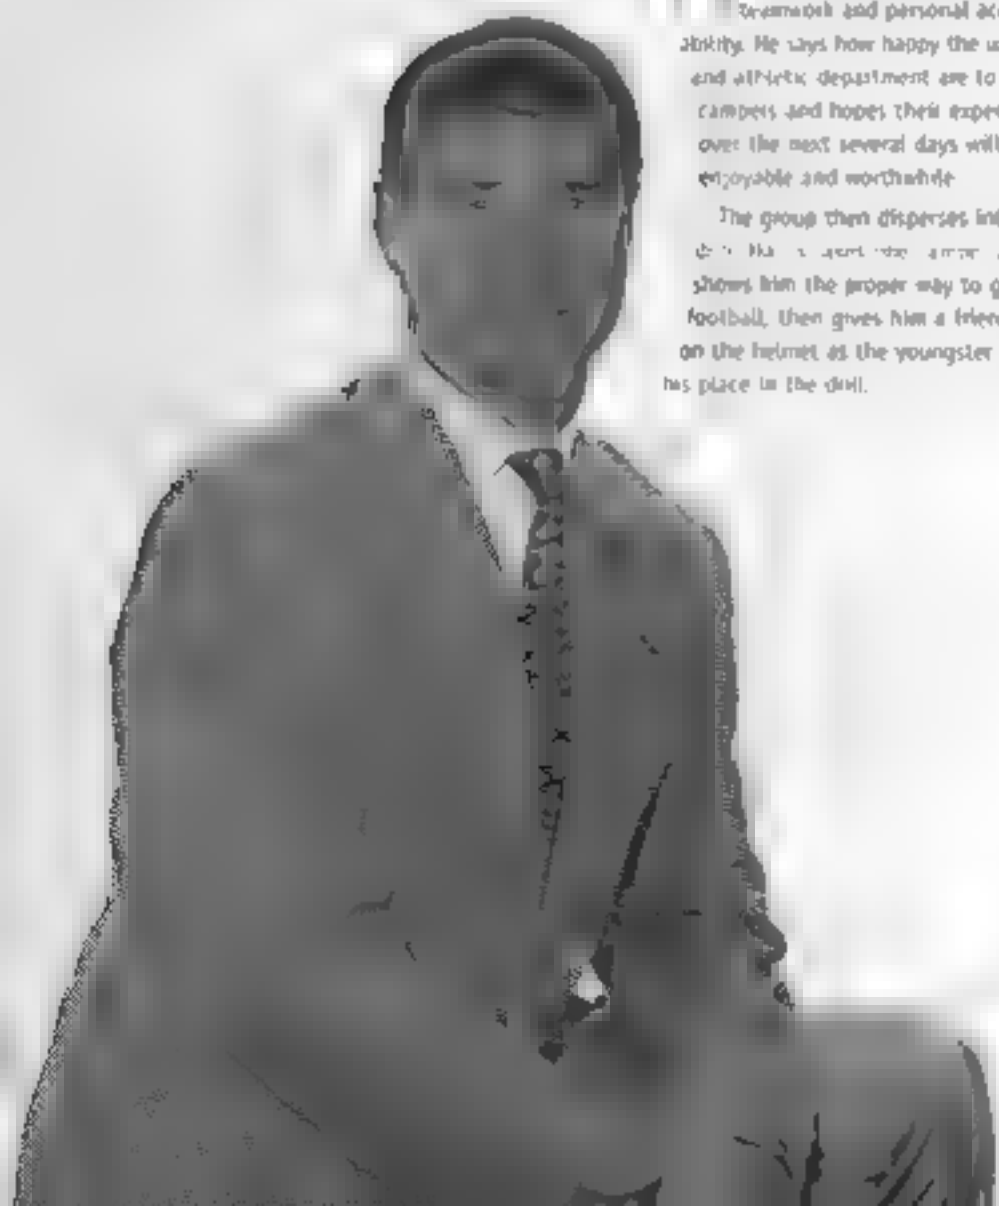

"A young quarterback would have to live up to it," Boomer Esiason playfully told Harris, and Tom Donahoe, the Pittsburgh Steelers director of football operations. "He might be the best quarterback coach in the country."

Walt Harris is the best coach ever had, said Boomer Esiason, formerly of the Cincinnati Bengals and New York Jets and now a commentator for ABC's Monday Night Football. "There's nobody better."

Others have called Harris an "offensive maverick" or "a cutting-edge innovative coach. But Harris prefers to think of himself in less glamorous terms. He is simply a football coach and a teacher. And that's the way he likes it.

He has also been described as "a fighter" and "a dreamer." Perhaps his experience as a sick child had something to do with that.

At the age of three Harris was stricken with polio. Unable to walk, he required constant attention from his mother, a nurse by profession. Amazingly, he would grow up to be a football star at El Camino High, although at the beginning of his career coaches and parents alike questioned his ability because of his lack of size. Following El Camino, he went on to become the conference player of the year while in junior college and earned a scholarship to the University of the Pacific.

A running back would have to be crazy not to consider playing for him.
said Tom Donahoe, the Pittsburgh Steelers' director of football operations.
He might be the best quarterback coach in the country.

It was that same kind of fighting attitude that has perpetuated a coaching tradition that spans 29 years on both the professional and collegiate levels.

Upon accepting his appointment at Pittsburgh in December 1996, Harris enthusiastically welcomed the challenge of restoring one of the nation's great college football traditions.

His debut season at the University of Pittsburgh in 1997 came in almost breath-taking fashion.

Taking over a program that had managed just 5 wins in the previous five seasons, Harris immediately energized the Panthers and led them to their first winning season in six years as well as their first postseason berth since 1989.

The campaign was perhaps the most dramatic in Pittsburgh's illustrious football history. The highlights included a stirring 21-17 upset of Miami before a Thursday night ESPN audience, a 30-23 upset of bowl-bound Virginia Tech and a heart-pounding 41-38 triple-overtime win at West Virginia that sealed the Panthers' postseason berth.

So impressive was the achievement that Harris was voted by conference coaches as the Big East Coach of the Year.

"I know the award lists one person, but there's no way it's one person that won the award," Harris said. "I'm a little bit embarrassed by the fact that they have to put my name on there. Everybody had a piece of the action—our players and coaches, especially, but also our entire athletic department staff, secretaries and our wives. It is really a team award, and I couldn't be more thrilled."

The 1998 season had fewer magical moments. Beset by major graduation losses, the Panthers endured a season-long growth process that resulted in a 2-9 mark. Harris and his staff, however, remained undaunted. Despite the disappointing season, they hit the recruiting trail hard and came away with several major recruiting successes. The newcomers combined with 17 returning starters give Panther supporters an optimistic outlook for the future.

"We're building a program at the University of Pittsburgh," Harris said. "It is not about a game or a season. We are trying to build at every position. We're trying to build a winning mind set."

Harris says the seed for his coaching career was planted when he was just a teenager. Playing under Tom McCormick at El Camino High School in San Francisco, Calif., he realized immediately that coaching was the path he wanted to take in life—not because of the glamour of the profession but, more importantly, to make a difference in a person's life. Coach McCormick (who played and coached for Vince Lombardi in the NFL) provided that role for Harris, impressing upon him the ideals of hard work and commitment.

Those ideals have helped Harris achieve success at each of his coaching stops.

It was a collection of strong qualities, including integrity, sincerity and football savvy, that made him Athletic Director Steve Pederson's top choice to replace the legendary John Majors as the Panthers' coach.

One of the hallmarks of Harris' coaching career is his ability to maximize a player's potential, both athletically and, more importantly, personally. One of the finest examples of this knack is Pete Gonzalez.

After an undistinguished four-year career, Gonzalez evolved into one of the top quarterbacks in the Big East under Harris in 1997. He threw for more than 2,800 yards and a Big East record 50 touchdowns, also set Pittsburgh single-game records with 4 passing yards and seven touchdowns.

Now, all on coach Harris' side, Gonzalez says, "For him to take a chance on me... when no one else did at this stage of my college career... that was a huge relief. I wish I could play for him forever. He made me

Gonzalez then took his Henderson story one step further by making the 1998 Pittsburgh Steelers roster as a free agent after an exceptional exhibition season.

Before his 1998 appointment, Harris spent the 1994 and 1995 seasons as the quarterbacks coach at Ohio State, where he played an important role in the development of Hall of Fame quarterback Bobby Hebert, who in 1994 threw for a career-high 4,263 yards and 59 touchdowns.

In 1996, Harris was the guiding force behind one of the nation's most prolific offenses that averaged over 450 yards per game. Moreover, it was Harris who orchestrated the Buckeye last-minute winning drive that resulted in 1990 State Coach's 25-10 Rose Bowl victory against Arizona State.

After coaching the Ohio State staff in 1995, Harris was the quarterbacks coach for the New York Jets in three seasons, 1993-94 and 1995. He played a key role in the career resurgence of quarterback Boomer Esiason.

In 1989, Harris landed his first head coaching position, starting as the assistant Pittsburgh Steelers coach. He compiled an 11-10 overall record in 1989. Pittsburgh averaged 200 yards per game and was at the top of the passing offense, for 49 yards per game, respectively. Harris' first game as a head coach was against Pittsburgh on Sept. 2, 1989, at the stadium.

From 1988-89, Harris served as an assistant head coach and offensive coordinator at Tennessee under coach Mark. During which time he volunteered to coach the power running game and coached the 1989 Southeastern Conference champion Tennessee to a 9-3-1 season.

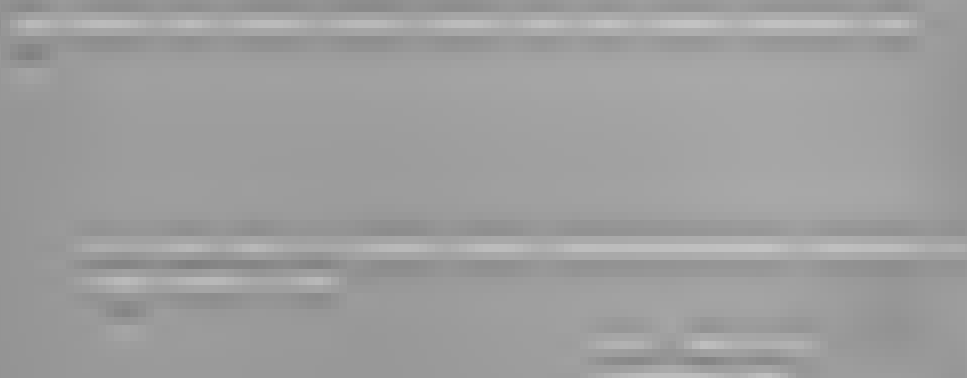

averaged 405.9 yards per game (4,871 total), which set a school record at the time.

And, initially, he was the quarterbacks coach at Illinois from 1980-1982, where he developed Jim Harahan and future NFL quarterbacks Tony Mason, Dave Wilson and Mark Tuckert. Mason and Wilson were both first-round NFL draft picks, while Tuckert was a second-round selection.

Harris also was the secondary coach at Arizona during 1979 under current New York Jets coach Bill Parcells. He coached the in-bank QBs at Michigan from 1976-79 and at Arizona 1974-75, and secondary backs at Pacific 1973-74, where he coached the star player, Paul Smith, who would later become head coach of the New York Jets and a president of the league.

Harris graduated from Pitt in 1968 and received his master's degree from the same year. As a defensive back coach, he spent three years at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he coached the future NFL star, Jimmie "The Blue" Brown. Harris began his coaching career at his high school alma mater, El Camino High.

Under the direction of LARRY COVER, Pittsburgh's defensive units have played at a drastically improved level the past two seasons.

Last year, the Panthers ranked third in the Big East, yielding 348.3 yards per game. The unit ranked as high as first nationally after giving up an average of just over 279 yards through the first six games.

Utilizing Cover's trademark defensive scheme, Pittsburgh has produced 62 sacks the past two years, matched with season totals in 1990-91 when the Panthers' defense featuring future NFL players Sean Wilentz, Keith Hamilton, Ricardo McDonald and Tom Fum, Jr., registered 60.

Cover has also been instrumental in the development of the Pittsburgh linebackers corps, who are guiding the graduated Phil Baker and on to become the first two in the All-Big East team.

This year, Panthers coach will be the family affair as Cover's wife, who will join the team in the club as a franchise all-back linebacker.

Before his Pittsburgh assignment, he served as the defensive coordinator and linebackers coach at Iowa State for two years. Prior to Iowa State, Cover served as the defensive coordinator for the New York Jets in one season, where he worked with Pittsburgh Head Coach Al Davis. He also spent two years with the Pittsburgh Steelers, coaching the defensive line and linebackers. He also coached the defensive line and linebackers at Memphis, Tennessee, and the Philadelphia Eagles.

As a defensive coordinator, he coached the Pittsburgh Steelers in 1990, where he coached the Pittsburgh Steelers' defensive line and linebackers. He also coached the defensive line and linebackers at Ohio State in 1991-92, and at Iowa State in 1993-94. He also coached the defensive line and linebackers at Marshall in 1965-67, and at Oklahoma State in 1978. He also coached the defensive line and linebackers at Iowa State in 1979-83, and at JCLA in 1984-89. He also coached the defensive line and linebackers at Houston in 1990, and at Ohio State in 1991-92. He also coached the defensive line and linebackers at East Carolina in 1993, and at Iowa State in 1995-96. He also coached the defensive line and linebackers at Pittsburgh in 1997-present.

Wide Receivers/Special Teams Assistant

J.D. Brookhart, Wide Receivers/Special Teams Assistant

J.D. BROOKHART enters his third season on the Pittsburgh coaching staff and has taken on the responsibility of wide receivers coach.

Brookhart previously served as tight ends coach the past two years. He will remain a special teams assistant for the third straight season.

Brookhart should feel right at home working with the receivers. He was a standout at that position himself at Colorado State, catching over 100 passes during his collegiate career.

Brookhart came to Pittsburgh by way of the National Football League. From 1995-96, he was a coaching assistant with the Denver Broncos. His primary responsibilities included running the defensive scout team, breaking down the opponent's offense and working with the special teams. He also had the opportunity to study the West Coast offense under Denver offensive coordinator Gary Kubiak.

Prior to his position with the Broncos, Brookhart was a top salesman for Xerox Corporation. He earned the company's President's Club award and was the top salesman for 16 consecutive months in a 10-state region. Additionally, he operated a sports camp for local high school and college athletes for several years.

Brookhart was a three-year starter at Colorado State. He earned Academic All-America honors his senior season and finished his career in sixth place on the Rams' all-time receiving list with 111 receptions. He began his collegiate career at Brigham Young in 1983, where he was a roommate of San Francisco 49ers quarterback Steve Young, before transferring to Colorado State. He signed a free-agent contract with the Los Angeles Rams in 1988.

1998 Pittsburgh Panthers Head Coach Curt Cignetti

A key figure in Pittsburgh's recent recruiting successes, CURT CIGNETTI enters his seventh season as the Panthers' coach in 2000. In his past 10 years, tight end recruitment has been his sole responsibility. He previously worked with the tight ends from 1994-96, while also serving as recruiting coordinator.

Cignetti's efforts have resulted in the Panthers producing or contributing to the careers of seven tight ends in the past two years. In 1994, he put the Panthers on the map by making the first of four appearances in the annual Fiesta Bowl, where he coached the Panthers to a 17-10 victory over the Arizona Wildcats.

Pittsburgh's 1998 class was lauded as one of the Big East's best and included nine players who had earned All-American honors in their first season.

His efforts have not gone unnoticed as he is being actively recruited by several other schools. Cignetti was named the top 25 recruiting coordinator in his nation.

This is actually Cignetti's second tour of duty at Pittsburgh. He previously served the Panthers as a graduate assistant under Foge Fazio in 1983 and 1984. The 1984 Pitt team finished with an 8-3-1 record and participated in the Fiesta Bowl.

Cignetti left Pittsburgh prior to the 1985 season to coach the quarterbacks at Davidson College. He then moved on to join Jerry Brundage at the same capacity at Rice where he coached for three seasons. In 1989, Cignetti joined Brundage at Temple and coached the quarterbacks for four seasons. He returned to Pittsburgh in 1993 to serve under then Head Coach John Majors.

A two-year letterman at West Virginia, Cignetti was a member of two consecutive bowl teams — the 1981 Peach and the 1982 Gator — and earned the Lewis O. Menster Award for academics and the A.C. Whitney Award for character. Cignetti's father, Frank, is the head football coach at Indiana University of Pennsylvania (IUPUI).

Recruiting Coordinator/Specialists

BRYAN DEAL, one of Ohio's most successful high school football coaches during the 1990s, is in his first season as Pittsburgh's recruiting coordinator and specialist coach.

Deal joined the Panthers in February after compiling a 42-14 (.750) record in the Ohio high school ranks over the prior five seasons. He served the last two years at Cincinnati Princeton High, where he was named the 1998 Coach of the Year in the Greater Miami Conference, widely considered the premier high school football league in the state.

Prior to Princeton, Deal coached Dublin Coffman High from '99-'94 and Dublin Scioto from '95-'96, compiling a 44-27-6 record during that time. In '94, he led Dublin Scioto to the Division II state championship and received the Woody Hayes Award as the state's top high school coach. Pittsburgh's wide receiver, Mark Mickelburg was the workhorse for Deal's state title team, rushing some 485 yards and 48 touchdowns, and was named the Ohio Division I Player of the Year.

Deal was also very active in coaching organizations and served as president of the National Federation of Intercollegiate Coaches Association and Ohio Central Ohio Football Coaches Association.

Have admired Bryan's work for a long time," said Walt Harris. "He has not only made an impression with his coaching ability and passion for the game, Bryan is a hell of a upbeat, team-oriented and a great people person who is a tremendous addition to our staff."

Deal is a 1980 graduate of Heidelberg College where he received his Bachelor's degree in education. In 1986, he received his master's degree from the University of Dayton.

TOM FREEMAN enters his third season as Pittsburgh's offensive line coach.

The 1998 season may have been one of Freeman's biggest coaching challenges as he headed a unit that included three starters in their first season playing offensive line at the Division I level. But under his guidance, the group made major strides as the year progressed. Entering 1998, the offensive line figured to be an area of weakness and experience line the Panthers.

In 1997, his first season at Pittsburgh, Freeman's offensive line emerged as the heart of one of the Panthers' most dominant offenses. It helped, among other things, the senior end and tackle, senior in the development of tackle Tony Orlandini, who earned first team All Big East Honors and is now with the Pittsburgh Steelers.

But successful offensive lines are not only built on talent with their own years of coaching experience. Prior to joining Pitt in 1997, Freeman previously coached at Purdue where offensive line coach Dan McCarney had recruited him. McCarney was coaching offensive line at Purdue from 1984 until 1996. In 1996, the Boilermakers finished first in the Big Ten in rushing, 444 yards a game, and went nationally. Purdue had the 12th-best rushing offense in the nation in 1996.

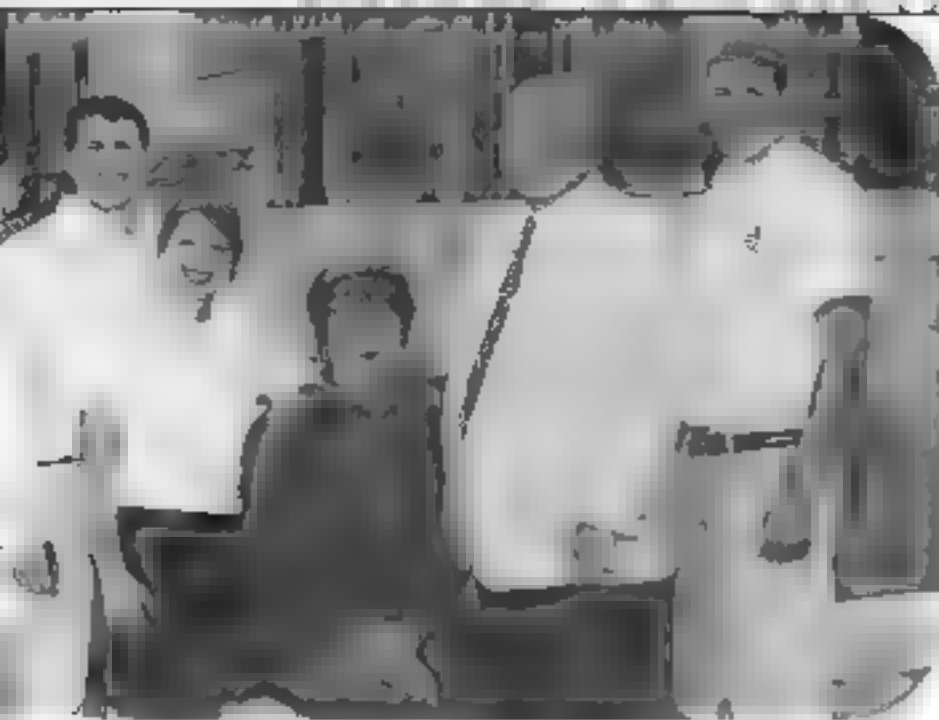

Freeman's Pittsburgh coaching resume began in the offensive line coach at Arizona State in 1984-87 where he helped develop, among others, offensive line tackle Mike Anderson who won All American and then acquired Todd Kohn (a fourth-round NFL Draft pick in 1987) who played offensive line for 12 years at ASU. Freeman also coached offensive line at San Diego State (1981-83), Hawaii (1975-80), San Diego City College (1974) and Santa Ana College (1970-73).

A native of Bakersfield, Calif., Freeman earned his bachelor's degree in liberal studies from San Diego State in 1969. As a collegian, Freeman began his career at San Diego City College and played on a pair of conference championship teams. He later went on to play center and tackle at San Diego State, which won back-to-back national titles in 1967 and 1968 while compiling a cumulative 19-1-3 record.

BOB JUNKO enters the third season of his second tour at Pittsburgh

Spoke not only as a member of the Panther staff from 1982-85, he returned in 1997 as defensive tackles coach and made an immediate impact producing an All-Big East performer in Brian Moore.

Moore spent the first three years of his career as one of the team's top defensive players. Pennant, who had not been part time starter in the previous seasons, took over Paul Brown's role as a defensive tackle. His 12.5 sacks behind the line of scrimmage were the second highest total in the Big East.

Before returning to Pittsburgh, Junko was the defensive coordinator at Kent State during the 1995 and 1996 seasons. Before his appointment at Kent State, Junko served as the associate head coach and defensive coordinator for seven years at the University of Akron. Junko also held similar positions at Northwestern, Texas Christian and his alma mater Tulsa.

In his first tour on the Panther coaching staff, he served as the defensive coordinator under former Head Coach Foge Fazio from 1982-85. The 1982 team received a Cotton Bowl bid and finished ninth in the country. The 1983 Panthers earned a Fiesta Bowl berth and ranked 19th in the final polls. Among the standouts on those defenses were tackle Bill Maas, defensive end Chris Doteman and defensive backs Tim Lewis and Tom Flynn, all of whom went on to careers in the NFL.

As a collegian, Junko starred at Tulsa as an inside linebacker and received honorable mention All-America honors in 1967. He also was named to the All-Missouri Valley Conference team twice and served as team captain as a senior. Junko earned a bachelor's degree in history education in 1968 and his master's in educational administration in 1970 at Tulsa.

The Junko family is well represented in Pittsburgh football circles as his son Jay is a redshirt freshman receiver and punter for the Panthers.

After a solid regular season, cornerback Hank Poteat emerged as one of the top defensive backs in the Big East as a senior in his first full season in the secondary. Poteat led the conference and ranked fourth nationally in interceptions (.66 average) - he went on to earn second-team All-America honors from Outback Digest as well as first-team All-Big East and All-35.

Moreover, strong safety Seth Morris also emerged as a major figure on the Punters defense, earning no less than 48 career and intercepting a game-high nine passes.

McGowan led the Pitt night football defense during three seasons at Boston College where he was the secondary all time. His 1960 year led was pronounced "the" in defense as a 300 yard rusher in 1960 season.

VINCENT WHITE enters his third season as Pittsburgh's running backs coach.

During his Pittsburgh career, White oversaw one of the Panthers' best backfield combinations in recent memory.

In 90, the league's leading attack featured Dwayne Schulters, an All-Big East selection, and Billy West, who finished second, ranked among the Panthers' all-time leading rushers.

White spent the 90 season as receivers coach at Southern Methodist University. He joined the Maryland staff in 1994 as a receivers coach and then returned to SMU for the 99 and 996 seasons.

Prior to SMU, White worked under Harris at the University of the Pacific as a passing game coordinator and inside receivers coach. He also has coached at Tennessee Martin (1989), Oregon Tech (1986-88), and the Denver Dynamo of the Arena Football League (1987). White began his coaching career as a running backs coach at Rangeworth High School in Colorado in 1985.

White enjoyed a distinguished playing career on the collegiate and scholastic levels. He is considered one of the finest high school running backs in Colorado, leading Mullen High School in Denver to a state championship in 1978. White then moved to wide receiver at Stanford and emerged as an outstanding performer, leading the nation in receiving his senior year, 98, with nearly seven receptions per game. He earned numerous honors, including First Team All-PAC 10, All-West Coast, honorable mention All-America and Academic All-America. He was also invited to play at the East-West Shrine Game.

White was a sixth-round draft choice of the New York Jets, but passed up the NFL to play for the Denver Gold of the USFL from 1983-85.

White married the former Jennifer Beck, an athletic trainer at the University of Pittsburgh, this past July.

This is actually Williams' second stint at Pittsburgh. His initial tour came in 1992 as outside linebackers coach.

Williams has been instrumental in the improvement of the Panther pass rush which produced 62 quarterback sacks the past two seasons. The level of Pittsburgh's special teams have also elevated considerably under his watch.

Prior to rejoining Pittsburgh, Williams was the linebackers coach at Cincinnati 1996. He also tutored the linebackers at Fresno State from 1993-95. Following the 1995 season, Fresno State received a berth in the Aloha Bowl.

Williams started his coaching career as a graduate assistant at Tennessee in 1988. Following his season with the Volunteers, Williams served at the University of the Pacific from 1989-91 as outside linebacker and special teams coach working under Hal Hefner.

Williams was a standout player at Kentucky. He was a four year starter on defense and finished his career with 100 sacks and 350 tackles. As a senior in 1985, he was a second team All-Southwestern Conference selection and was an Associated All-SEC honoree in 1984. Williams was voted the team's Most Valuable Player in 1984 and the outstanding defensive lineman for that year. He graduated from Kentucky in 1986 with a bachelor's degree in accounting.

CHRIS LaSALA enters his third season as the director of football operations for the Pittsburgh Panthers. A native of nearby Aliquippa, Pa., LaSala's career in athletics actually began at Pittsburgh as he was an athletic department intern in 1989.

In his current capacity, LaSala coordinates and oversees all day-to-day administration, travel accommodations, camp organization and preseason camp arrangements for the Panther football team.

Prior to his current appointment, he served three years as the director of football operations at Boston College, where he handled all the administrative duties for the football program, including overseeing the travel arrangements for away games and organizing the Eagles youth camps and clinics. During his tenure, Boston College participated in the Aloha Bowl and the Kickoff Classic.

Before Boston College, LaSala spent the previous three years as the assistant athletic director for football operations and recruiting coordinator at Temple. He initially joined Temple as a graduate assistant in 1988 and then returned to the Quak football staff in 1990 as the administrative assistant. He was promoted the following year to recruiting coordinator and eventually was elevated to assistant athletic director.

LaSala graduated from West Virginia in 1988 with a bachelor's degree in accounting. He earned his master's degree in sports administration from Temple in 1991. A graduate of Aliquippa High School, LaSala was a two-year letterman for the Quip football team and was a two-year captain for the baseball team. LaSala also served as an offensive assistant coach for the Quips in 1989, when the team captured a WPIAL championship.

Strength and Conditioning Coach

Personal Information

BORN 9/29/57

HOMETOWN South Park, Pa.

ALMA MATER Pittsburgh '80

Morris and his wife, the former Karen Krichko who was once a Pitt high jumper, have two daughters Kara Leigh and Claire Alyse.

In BUDDY MORRIS, the Pittsburgh Panthers football program has one of the most dedicated and knowledgeable strength and conditioning coaches in college football.

Morris returned to the Panther weight room in 1997 after an eight year hiatus and his impact was immediate. Strength, speed and conditioning was significantly improved over the prior season and played a major factor in the team's magical run to a bowl berth.

Morris' resume' will raise a eyebrow considering his track record from 1989-89. He stood the primary position of strength coach at the Panther program, celebrated players including Ozzie Newsome, Bo Jackson, James Stewart, Russ Grimm, Jerry Olsavsky and Mark Stepanoski, all of whom are in the pantheon of outstanding NFL careers. He also was first number in the rising star category for a number of years with Morris and Bulaji Bilal, often top draft picks from two of the NFL's brightest young talents who continue to shine under his.

In addition, he helped create the fame of the Panther weight room, "The Panther Forge."

Prior to his return to Pittsburgh, Morris played at the weight room for a few years at Mississippi State in Hattiesburg, Pa. where he coached the first professional football player.

Morris graduated from South Park High School and attended college for one year before transferring to Pittsburgh. He also worked in the Panther plant as a maintenance man. He also worked very hard in the Pittsburgh area. He worked in the River Bend area of the plant.

He is a member of the Pittsburgh Athletic Club.

Head Athletic Trainer

ROB BLANC is his third year as head football athletic trainer and clinical instructor at Pitt-Johns.

Blanc was promoted to head athletic trainer for the entire athletic department in 1991. In this capacity, he is responsible for overseeing all of the clinical medical services for the university. He coordinates sports coverage, budget and inventory and drug testing and counseling. Additionally, he is a faculty member in the National Athletic Trainers Association (NATA) approved undergraduate athletic training curriculum.

Blanc graduated from Slippery Rock in 1982 and earned his master's in athletic training in 1984 from Ohio University. He is also a certified paramedic and works part time in that capacity in nearby Bethel Park.

A native of Pittsburgh, Blanc served as head athletic trainer at neighboring Duquesne University for two years before joining the Panthers staff. Blanc began his training career as the head athletic trainer at New Lexington (Ohio) High School in 1981. A year later, he began working for the Pittsburgh Steelers on a part-time basis. In that capacity, Blanc worked at training camp and at home games in all aspects of sports medicine.

Personal Information

Chad Hutsko Assistant Strength Coach

Chad Hutsko enters his second season with the Pittsburgh football staff as an assistant strength coach. Hutsko assists Buddy Morris in all aspects of the Panther football team's strength and conditioning training.

Hutsko is no stranger to the Panthers' program as he previously served as a volunteer strength coach during the 1996-97 year. Prior to Pittsburgh, he worked at Kentucky as a volunteer strength coach with the football program from 1994-96. While at Kentucky, he was in charge of administering off-season workout programs.

A native of McKeesport, Hutsko is a 1996 graduate of Penn State.

Joe Moorhead Graduate Assistant

Joe Moorhead enters his second season as a graduate assistant at Pittsburgh. After working as a recruiting assistant last year, Moorhead will work with the defense in 1999.

Moorhead is no stranger to the Pittsburgh area, having graduated from Centennial High School, located in the shadow of the Pitt campus, in 1992. A quarterback for the Vikings, he threw for 1,008 yards and 14 touchdowns as a senior to earn first team All-Quad E honors.

Moorhead went on to a standout career at Fordham, where he set numerous school passing records and earned All-Patriot League honors. He ranked among the nation's passing yards leaders, throwing for over 1,000 yards per game. Moorhead graduated with his B.S. in journalism and English in 1996.

Before joining the Panthers, Moorhead quarterbacked the Maryland Owls, a Division I-AA German Pro Team, to a playoff berth.

Sean McGowan Graduate Assistant

Sean McGowan begins his first season with the Pittsburgh football staff as a graduate assistant. McGowan will work closely with Bryan Deal, assisting in the Panthers' recruiting efforts.

McGowan joins the Panthers after serving as a quarterback coach for Occidental College in Los Angeles and during the 1998 season. His coaching career began during his undergraduate days at Fordham, when he coached the quarterbacks and defensive backs at many summer camps. He also coached at the University of Maryland during the 1997 season, working with the quarterbacks and defensive backs.

A 1998 graduate of Fordham, McGowan received his bachelor's degree in information and communication systems from the university's College of Business and Administration. As a member of the Fordham football team, he played quarterback his first two seasons before moving to defensive back, where he lettered his final two years.

Tim Enright | Head Equipment Manager | 1990-91-Present

Tim Enright is in his third year as the head equipment manager for the Pittsburgh Panthers football team, but his association with the program and the university dates back much further.

Enright was an undergraduate at Pittsburgh and also served as a student manager, including a stint as the head volunteer manager his senior year in 1990-91.

Following graduation in '91, Enright worked one year at Miami Media Advertising before serving as a youth counselor at the Shuman Detention Center. He returned to his alma mater as an assistant equipment manager, where his main responsibility was handling the men's basketball team.

Enright was promoted to his position by Athletic Director Steve Pederson in 1997. In this capacity, he supervises the equipment operation for the football team, including organizing travel and transportation of equipment for away football games and fall camp, and handling the day-to-day equipment needs for the football team and coaching staff.

Paul Argiro | Video Coordinator

Paul Argiro is in his second season as video coordinator for the Pittsburgh Panthers. Argiro oversees and coordinates the video efforts for the entire athletic department and its 19 varsity sports programs.

Prior to joining Pittsburgh, Argiro spent 2 years at the University of Miami video coordinator. While at Miami, he handled the needs of the Hurricane football program, including the taping and editing of game and practice film. He also purchased all video and computer equipment to support video production facilities.

From 1982-87, Argiro was a member of ESPN's video photography staff. While with the ESPN sports network, he covered many high-profile sporting events, including Super Bowl XXII and the Orange Bowl, as well as golf, tennis, boxing, baseball and soccer. Argiro began his career as a sports producer and photographer for Miami's WCIX-TV, where he served from 1979-81.

Ken Bashoum | Volunteer Assistant

Ken Bashoum | 1972-Present

Ken Bashoum has dedicated over 24 years to the Panthers cause as a volunteer assistant for the athletic department and football program.

Following his retirement from U.S. Steel in 1972, Bashoum joined Pitt during Head Coach Jolir Majors' first tenure. He continued his volunteer service after Majors departed in 1977 and has worked under four Pittsburgh athletic directors and seven head football coaches in all.

A native Pittsburgher, Bashoum's familiarity of the city and surrounding areas has been a valuable resource for coaches and athletic administration.

Bashoum was married for 50 years to the late Mary Bashoum. He has three sons, Kerry, Lester and Charles.

Lateef Graham established himself as the top receiver in the Big East Conference in just his first season at Pittsburgh in 1998. Led the conference in receiving yards on the way to first-team All-Big East and All-East honors. Entered 1999 as an All-America and Biletnikoff Award candidate, gives Pittsburgh big-play ability and made several highlight-film type catches during his debut season. Has the potential to be a dominant offensive talent...can play either split end or flanker, but will focus on the latter position in 1999. ...rocked up Pittsburgh's single-season receiving lists in '98, surpassing such Pitt luminaries as Dietrich Jells, Dwight Collins, Julius Dawkins and Gordon Jones...in the Blue-Gold Game this past spring, caught the lone touchdown pass, a four-yarder from John Funnin. ...overall, had four receptions for 87 yards in limited duty. Although a junior college transfer from San Joaquin Delta College (where he was a JUCO All-American), has an additional two years of eligibility remaining. 1998: Made a dramatic impact in his first season at Pittsburgh, leading the Big East in receiving with 90.6 yards per game...named first team All-Big East by conference coaches as well as Football Year. Also named All-East...paced the Panthers with 60 catches for 906 yards and nine touchdowns...Grim's 6.0 catches per game set a school record. Also led team in scoring with 60 points. His single-season reception total was the second highest in school history, while his receiving yardage ranked third...ranked 25th nationally in receiving yards per game and was the only sophomore ranked in the top 25...accumulated impressive season stat totals despite missing most of the fourth quarter of the Boston College game as well as the entire Miami contest with a concussion. If not for that injury, he could have made a strong run at the Pittsburgh reception record (69 set by Jake Hoffman in 1997) and Big East TD catches mark (13 set by Terry Murphy in 1997)...named Pittsburgh's offensive MVP...burst onto the scene with an outstanding debut versus Villanova, catching eight passes for 192 yards and three touchdowns...his receiving yardage was the second most in school history, ranking behind only Dietrich Jells' 225 yards against West Virginia in 1994, while his 13 TD catches were one short of the school record...had his second 100-yard receiving effort of the year against Akron, when he caught eight passes for 151 yards to go with three touchdowns...made a highlight-film play at Syracuse when he had a diving one-handed touchdown catch which was featured on ESPN's "Plays of the Week" at North Carolina, had seven catches for 86 yards, while being covered by Top Rated All-America Doc Bly. Also caught seven passes for 86 yards in the Boston College game before leaving the contest early in the fourth period with a concussion...his lone rushing attempt went for a 15-yard touchdown against Rutgers. At San Joaquin Delta (1997): Ranked among the national junior college receiving leaders after recording 58 receptions for 1,134 yards and eight touchdowns...had San Joaquin Delta with 30 touchdowns overall...received first-team All-KC Empire Conference honors. Played only one year of junior college. Named a Junior College All-American by Max Baufinger. Ranked fifth among Baufinger's Top 100 junior college prospects. High School: Earned All-

League and Defensive Back of the Year honors at

High School. Was named MVP three-year term at high school. Played in the North-South All-American game as a member of the Franklin basketball and baseball Personal All-Star teams. Scored over 75 points in all of above sports. Father a former professional basketball player.

6-0 / 215 / Sophomore, New Kensington, Pa.

With the loss of his top two tailbacks from 1997 Pittsburgh did not have the luxury of bringing Brandon Williams along slowly in his first collegiate season. In year Williams got the opportunity to add his rushing yards to his all-around skills in his first game in a season-opening contest when he started against Wakelee...the legendary Tony Dorsett was the first when he started acquiring yardage in the 1973 opener...should benefit greatly from last year's experience...listed as a backup to Nick Volynis entering fall camp...excited attitude...has worked diligently at making himself a more elusive runner during the offseason...has progressed well as a handling threat...logged some time at fullback during the spring after a rash of injuries deepened depth at that position...squats 530 pounds, one of the top 10 performances on the team. 1998: Played in all contests, starting nine...carried 110 times for 394 yards (3.6 avg.) and two touchdowns...caught six passes for 48 yards (8.0 avg.)....earned his only starts against Rutgers and Syracuse. Rushed for a season-high 86 yards on 27 carries against Temple...the first 100-yard performance of his career...also scored two touchdowns versus the Owls...had 65 yards on 17 carries against Boston College. High School: Was widely regarded as one of top 20 high school running backs in the country after a stellar career at Valley High...rushed for 4,734 career yards on 474 carries at an incredible average of 10.2 yards per rush...totaled 1,943 yards on 196 carries (a 9.9 average) as a senior...finished his career as the WPIAL's 16th all-time leading rusher. Pittsburgh Post-Gazette's Player of the Year...jury when he was selected as the Year's member of the Post-Gazette's "Fabulous 22" & PrepStar All-American and "Dream Team" Running Back...SuperPrep Northeast Region Offensive Player of the Year...listed by SuperPrep as one of the top 50 prospects in the nation...also selected as one of the nation's top 100 players by the USA Today & Sports Illustrated...selected to play in the Big 33 football classic...also played quarterback at Valley...earned three letters under Coach Ray White...also earned three track and field letters...High Honor Roll student. Personal: Michael Edward Williams, born 2/4/80 is the son of Henderson Thomas and Cheryl Williams...has one sister...cousin, Dave Kilpatrick, played football at the University of Washington...product of the same high school as senior Parthen right end Ben Kopp.

6-0 / 180 / Senior, Silver Spring, Md.

David White is looking to bounce back from a season derailed by injuries...joined Pittsburgh last year as a highly regarded junior college transfer...was limited to just two games due to stress fractures in both thighs...played tailback in 1998 but moved to the defensive secondary...his past spring...focused on cornerback during the spring but could also work in as strong safety...a strong tackler with good ball skills...was a two-way standout in junior college (running back and defensive back). 1998: Played in two games...Aaron and Rutgers...during an injury-riddled year...rushed for 80 yards on 19 carries (4.2 avg.) for the year...in his first Pittsburgh appearance...rushed five times for 20 yards against Akron...started against Rutgers and had 80 yards on 14 carries and also caught four passes for 16 yards. At Pasadena City (1996-97): Rushed for 811 yards on 198 carries (4.1 average) in 1997...ranked ninth nationally with 1,775 all-purpose yards...was 12th in scoring with 88 points...scored 16 touchdowns total in 1997...the most by a Pasadena City college player since baseball hall-of-famer Jackie Robinson played football for theancers...13th-ranked junior college prospect in the country by SuperPrep...second team J.C. Gridiron All-American...Max Efftinger Junior College All-American...All-conference honoree at three different positions...including running back...defensive back and kick returner. High Schools: All-Nat., All-county and All-region honors...springback High...near Rob Milloy...Team MVP and Leadership Award. Personal: David's father is the son of Ernest and Marion Williams...has three brothers and one sister.

The BIG EAST and the Bowl Championship Series

The BIG EAST Conference is a partner in the unique Bowl Championship Series (BCS) agreement designed to produce a national championship game and the best television matchups.

The Tostitos Fiesta Bowl, FedEx Orange Bowl and Nike Sugar Bowl are the members of the BIG EAST. Atlantic Coast, Big Ten, Big 12, Pac-10 and southwestern conferences are the majority of those teams to form the Series.

In 1999, the four bowls will choose from among the champions of the above conferences a player in their respective games. Then independent teams will come from a conference which is selected selection ranked in the top six in the BCS standings. It will then be the BCS national championship game. The remaining at-large positions may be filled by any team in a season eligible for postseason competition that meets any one of the following criteria:

The team is ranked in the top 10 in the BCS standings; or
The team is ranked in the top 10 in the BCS standings; or
The team is ranked in the top 10 in the BCS standings; or Team selection for the national championship game will be determined by the BCS. The BCS will select the national championship game with the participation of the BCS teams in the national championship game. The BCS will select the national championship game with the participation of the BCS teams in the national championship game. The BCS will select the national championship game with the participation of the BCS teams in the national championship game.

The BIG EAST

In addition to the Bowl Championship Series, the Big East conference also sends other teams to bowl games. The league is associated with the Toyota Motor Bowl, Insight.com Bowl and Music City Bowl for the 1999 season.

The Toyota Motor Bowl, played in Jacksonville, Fla., will select the second team from the Big East after the Bowl Championship Series selects the conference champion. The Big East champion will be matched up against the second seed from the Atlantic Coast Conference. The Toyota Motor Bowl will be played on January 1, 2000 and will be televised by NBC. The Big East has sent a team to the game for the last five years.

The Insight.com Bowl will choose a team from the Big East for the second straight season. Scheduled for Arizona Stadium in Tucson, Ariz. on December 31, the contest will be played before a national television audience on ESPN. The game will match the Big East champion against the fifth seed from the Big 12.

The Music City Bowl is a new partner with the Big East conference after it was first earned an all-time selection last season. The league has agreed to send a team to the game. Debuting before a crowd in Nashville, Tenn. last year, the contest will be broadcast by ESPN on December 29.

The Big East and the University of Notre Dame have reached an agreement which allows Notre Dame the opportunity to be selected by the Toyota Motor Bowl, Insight.com Bowl or Music City Bowl. If the Fighting Irish are bowl eligible and do not qualify for the Bowl Championship Series.

The Toyota Motor Bowl may select Notre Dame up to two times over a four year span that began in 1998. The bowl chose the Irish last season. The Insight.com Bowl and Music City Bowl may select the Irish once over the same period.

All three bowls will adhere to the conference's one-win rule whether they select Notre Dame or a Big East team. Any selection of a team with fewer victories must be within one win of a better bowl eligible team. For example, a team with a 7-4 record cannot be chosen before a team with a 9-2 mark.

Pittsburgh 48 • Villanova 41 September 5, 1998

PITTSBURGH--Pittsburgh opened its 1998 season in winning fashion, defeating the Villanova Wildcats 48-41 in just the second meeting ever between the two Pennsylvania schools.

With the win, the Panthers improved to 1-0 in season-opening contests since 1978.

Senior quarterback Matt Lytle, the primary reason behind Pete Gonzalez's 1997 started his first game in two years and completed 23-of-34 passes for 349 yards and four touchdowns. The 349 yards marked a career high for Lytle and was the 12th-best single-game output in Pittsburgh history.

Lytle's primary target was Ladd Grim, who had a spectacular collegiate debut. The junior college transfer caught eight passes for 82 yards, the second-best single-game total ever for a Pittsburgh receiver. Grim also added three touchdowns on receptions of four, 42 and 38 yards.

Pittsburgh fullback Kevin Barlow added three scores of his own including two rushing and one receiving. The sophomore finished with 45 all-purpose yards on the day.

Another strong individual performance came from offensive backfield reserve Hank Poteat. The senior rebounded from injuries, two passes broken up and an interception, to lead the offense with 110 yards on 10-of-15 passes for three touchdowns. Poteat also had a 20-yard rushing touchdown.

Senior defensive end Rickie Mendenhall forced a fumble by Penn State's Matt Ruckel, which led to a 20-yard touchdown for Barlow. Mendenhall also had a 10-yard rushing touchdown and a 10-yard interception return for a touchdown.

20-20 with a 60-yard pass from Lytle to Barlow. With 35 seconds left in the half, Lytle hit Grim with a 38-yard scoring strike to put Pittsburgh ahead 27-20, a lead they would not relinquish.

In the second half, Barlow and Grim added two scores each while the senior defensive back forced another 60-yard kickoff return. The Panther lead 48-41 at the end of the game.

Rickie Mendenhall scored on an 11-yard run with 0:40 left in the game. Villanova's final drive ended in a 10-yard punt.

Penn State 20 • Pittsburgh 13 September 19, 1998

PITTSBURGH--In the first meeting between these two Keystone State rivals at Pitt Stadium, the Panthers rallied from a 10-0 deficit to escape with a 20-13 victory. The game was played in front of a crowd of 66,443 and a CBS national telecast.

Penn State led 10-0 at the half, but the Panthers rallied to take a 13-10 lead at the end of the third quarter. A late touchdown by Penn State's Matt Ruckel proved the difference, however, as Matt Lytle was able to rally the Panthers.

Penn State got on the board first as fullback Mike Berto-Bodomo hit Matt Ruckel in the end zone with a 10-yard pass. In the second quarter, a Panther fumble and extended the lead to 10-0 when Matt Ruckel hit a 34-yard field goal.

Pittsburgh scored when Matt Ruckel kicked a 45-yard field goal with 1:31 left in the half. Ruckel then added a 30-yard field goal early in the third quarter.

Pittsburgh forced a punt on Penn State's subsequent possession but gave the ball right back. A Lytle pass was deflected and Penn State attempted at the 49-yard line. But Penn State was limited to just a field goal to make it 13-7 with 8:17 to go in the third.

A 60-yard touchdown pass from Kevin Thompson to Ladd Grim gave Penn State up 20-13 with 10 minutes left in the third. The game remained scoreless until Lytle penetrated an 85-yard scoring drive, capped by his two-yard plunge to cut the deficit to 20-13 with 3:28 left in the game. Pittsburgh regained possession at its own 43 with 1:38 left after forcing Penn State to punt after just three plays. But Lytle was sacked three straight times and a fourth-down pass fell incomplete to end the third.

Redshirt freshman fullback Rickie Mendenhall led all rushers with 70 yards on 10 carries. Defensive back Hank Poteat intercepted a pass for the second straight game and also had a fumble recovery. Defenders Brian Arnold and Phil Clarke had one and three sacks respectively.

Virginia Tech 27 • Pittsburgh 7 September 26, 1998

BLACKSBURG, Va.—In its first road trip of the season, Pittsburgh visited undefeated and 19th-ranked Virginia Tech to lose to the Hokies 27-7. The Panthers' 11-23 upset of the Hokies' Bull Dog faithful game revenge.

making a splash of defensive effort to the back Pittsburgh 27-7 from a national championship game.

The Hokies scored on a 10-play, 65-yard drive in the first quarter. The play later Aaron Carpenter intercepted the first of his three fumbles to set up Slyvius St. 18-yard touchdown run. Early in the second quarter, Slyvius St. extended the advantage by connecting on a 41-yard field goal.

The Panthers' defense, however, kept the Panthers forced six punts and those punts on Virginia Tech's near 10 possessions. Four plays after Seth Hargrett's first career interception, Matt Lytle scrambled to find Label Grim for a 12-yard TD. The Panthers' defense kept the Hokies' offense in check.

In the third quarter, the Panthers forced the Hokies when Carpenter intercepted his third pass of the day and returned it 18 yards for a TD. The Hokies added a late field goal to provide the final margin.

Pittsburgh's defense allowed just 206 total yards and 10 first downs. The Panthers' defense had four turnovers, individually, Freshman Pat Clarke had a team-high 10 tackles and a fumble recovery. Tackle Kerry Pickett had eight stops, including two for a loss.

The Panthers' offense, though, was also held in check, managing just 54 total yards, including 28 on the ground.

Temple 34 • Pittsburgh 33 November 7, 1998

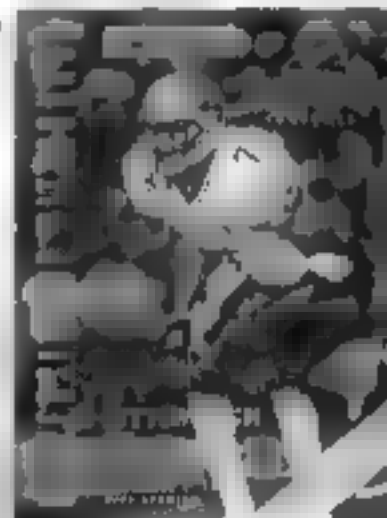

PITTSBURGH-Osprey
a breakthrough game from Pittsburgh finish the game with a Temple used a late drive against the
in Pet Stadium.

Temple's defense quarterback in the game
on in relief for injured starter Devin Scott engineered the rally.
DeVito completed a 10-yard pass to tight end McNeill for a score. His one-yard sneak with 30 seconds left provided the winning points.
Just two minutes prior, Pittsburgh looked like it might win the game when it attempted a 48-yard field goal. But the kick was blocked by the Owls, putting them at the

Williams logged his first 100-yard rushing effort for the Panthers, panning 106 yards on 27 carries. He also had the first touchdown of his career, scoring from one and four yards out.

Aided by quarterback Matt Lytle's 2-yard run and Williams' two TD runs, Pittsburgh held a 20-7 lead at the half, which expanded to 28-7 early in the third. With 8:17 left in the period the Owls cut into the deficit with a 16-yard touchdown pass to tight end Brumback.
Temple's defense forced a 4-yard field goal with eight minutes left to keep the Panthers' lead to 26-14.

Temple again rallied with a touchdown, cutting its deficit to 26-21 with 4:03 left in the game. Seven minutes later Lytle connected with R.J. English for a

Boston College 23 • Pittsburgh 15
November 14, 1998

PITTSBURGH—Pittsburgh could not contain Boston College's Mike Cloud, who rushed for a game-high 79 yards and the Panthers fell to the Eagles, 23-15 at Pili Stadium.

Despite Cloud's performance, Pittsburgh still held a significant advantage in total yards, outgaining the Eagles 407-224, but failed to mount any consistent offensive threat in most of the contest.

West Virginia 52 • Pittsburgh 14 November 27, 1998

PITTSBURGH-Playing at River Stadium for the first time since 1962 Pittsburgh left action to an equally fast West Virginia passing attack and lost 52-14 in 81 minutes.

The Panthers played the game without their top two defensive backs. All Big East cornerback Mark Pickett said the entire game was a free safety. McShelley did the game's first play from scrimmage. Pittsburgh's other regular cornerback Tony Clayton went down with an injury.

Facing an undermanned secondary, West Virginia's Mike Bulger took advantage. Bulger for 409 yards and six touchdowns on 26 of 37 passing. Aron Zerbeur added 115 yards rushing to lead WVU.

The Panthers held the Mountaineers to just three points in the first quarter, a 38-yard field goal by Jay Taylor. In the second quarter, however, WVU from Bulger to Anthony Beale and a blocked punt returned for a 22-yard touchdown by Bulger. Thompson rushed the West Virginia lead to 31-0 at halftime.

24 and 22 yards before Panther's 10-0 lead. The game was a 68-yard pass from James to Bulger for a touchdown. The game was a 68-yard pass from James to Bulger for a touchdown. The game was a 68-yard pass from James to Bulger for a touchdown.

Bulger passed for three more touchdowns in the second half. The game was a 68-yard pass from James to Bulger for a touchdown. The game was a 68-yard pass from James to Bulger for a touchdown. The game was a 68-yard pass from James to Bulger for a touchdown.

was intercepted by freshman linebacker Aron Pantoy who returned the pickoff 17 yards for a touchdown. It was the first interception and touchdown of Pantoy's career. Ball closed the game's scoring.

One bright spot for the Panthers was Gaudin Allen falling in for the injured Pickett. Allen returned five kickoffs for 130 yards, an impressive 38.5 average and the sixth-highest single-game total in the nation in 1998. Defensive back Seth Horvack led the team with 11 tackles including two for losses, while linebacker Ryan Gonzales led 10 total stops. His third straight double-digit tackle effort since

in the

During the past two decades, few schools can match the number and quality quotient of players the University of Pittsburgh has forwarded to the National Football League.

Of course, Pitt through the years has been a fertile talent source for the NFL, both for players and coaches. Standouts such as Marshall O'Conor, Jack S. Herland, Tim Schmitz, Joe Walton, Fred Cox, Marty Schottenger and Mike Ditka are among the prominent names in a long roll call of Panthers who have gained fame in professional football.

BUT THE PAST 20 YEARS WITNESSED A DRAMATIC SURGE OF TOP PITT-BRED TALENT IN THE NFL

Pittsburgh's recent NFL players have made dramatic impact. Of Pitt's 17 first-round picks since 1981, 14 became starters as rookies.

The great Pitt teams of the late 1970s and early 1980s began providing this motherlode of impact talent to the NFL. Heisman Trophy running back Tony Dorsett started the stream when the Dallas Cowboys traded up with the Seattle Seahawks to select him with the second pick of the 1977 draft.

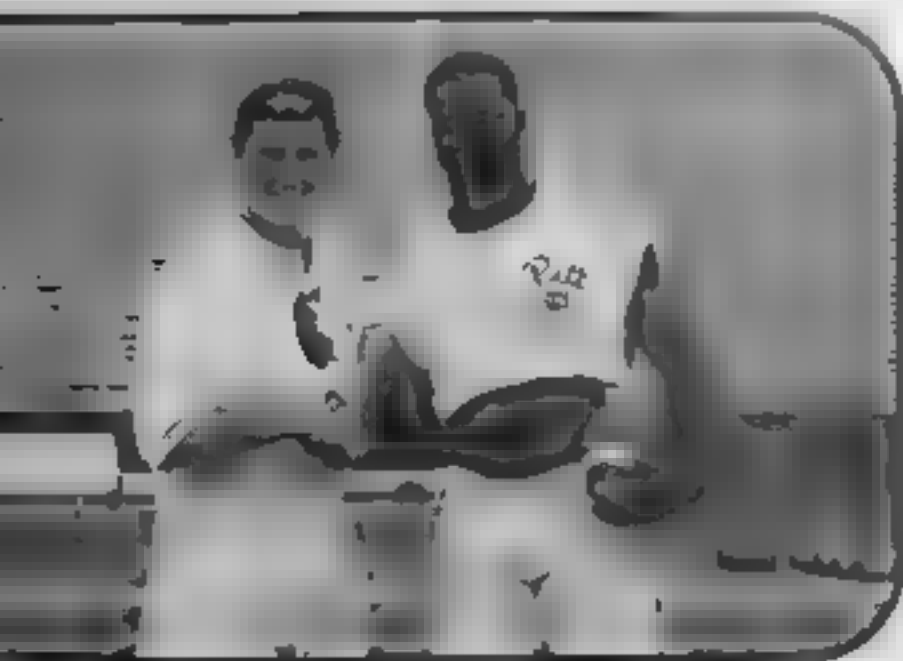

A year later a pair of Dorsett's teammates on Pitt's '90 national championship team, defensive end Randy Holloway (a Minnesota Vikings first-round pick) and quarterback Matt Cavanaugh (second round by the New England Patriots), joined Dorsett.

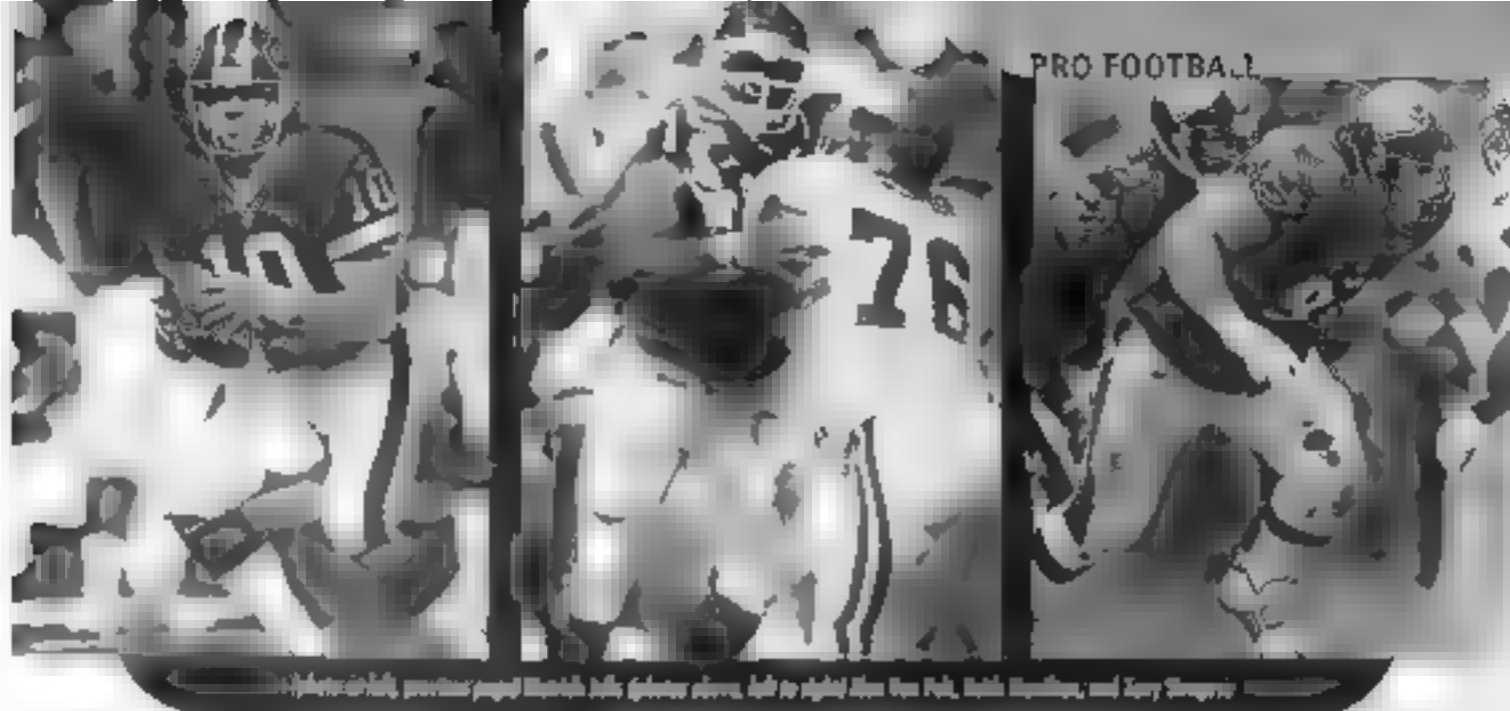

Three consecutive 11-1 seasons (1979, 1980 and 1981) provided another rich haul of future professional talent. The 1980 squad, in particular, was blessed with an extraordinary number of future NFL stars.

Twelve players were drafted from Pittsburgh's 1980 squad, including three first-round picks: defensive end Hugh Green (Tampa Bay Buccaneers), tackle Mark May (Washington Redskins) and running back Randy McMillan (Baltimore Colts).

Defensive end Rickey Jackson (second round, New Orleans Saints), guard Russ Grimm (third round, Washington Redskins), safety Carlton Williamson (third round, San Francisco 49ers), tight end Benjie Pryor (fifth round, Cincinnati Bengals), defensive tackle Jerry Boyarsky (fifth round, New Orleans Saints), defensive tackle Bill Neill (fifth round, New York Giants), and quarterback Rick Toccano (11th round, Pittsburgh Steelers) were the other draftees. Seven additional seniors on the 1980 squad signed free agent contracts with NFL clubs.

Among the underclassmen in 1980, fabulous 1980 team were four players who also went on to become NFL first-round draft picks.

Quarterback Dan Marino, Miami Dolphins, wide receiver Tim Lincecum, San Francisco 49ers, defensive back Bill Green, San Francisco 49ers, as well as defensive end Bill Stinchcomb, who won the Kansas City Chiefs' MVP in the first round of the 1984 NFL draft. In 1985, center Tim Lincecum, San Francisco 49ers, and defensive back Tim Lincecum, San Francisco 49ers.

All 1980-81 players in Pittsburgh's 1980 roster were eventual NFL draft selections.

In Pittsburgh, players go on to the NFL first round throughout the 1980s and 1990s.

Subsequent Pittsburgh draft picks have included guard Bill Frantz, drafted by the Atlanta Falcons, and defensive end Chris Odoms, Minnesota Vikings, in 1985; defensive tackle Rob Buxton, drafted by the Los Angeles Rams, in 1986; linebacker Tony Woods, San Francisco 49ers, in 1987; running back Craig Heyward, New Orleans Saints, in 1988; defensive end Burt Grossman, San Diego Chargers, and offensive tackle Tom Ricketts, Pittsburgh Steelers, in 1989; defensive end Sean Gilbert, Los Angeles Rams, in 1990; and Kuoan Brown, Buffalo Bills, in 1991.

"Pittsburgh players are a known commodity," said ex-Miller former college personnel director for the San Diego Chargers. "You hardly see any failures there. They all seem to have the right work ethic and a desire to be the best."

According to a former Panther great, hard work and serious training are also part of the mix.

At Pitt, most of the players come from Western Pennsylvania and have that Western Pennsylvania work ethic," says Jim Coveri, who was named the NFL Offensive Lineman of the Year in 1986.

You work as hard as you possibly can, and then you work a little harder.

Playing at Pitt prepares you for the NFL and you usually a standout linebacker for the Panthers from 1991-95 who enters his fourth season with the Cincinnati Bengals. "You look at the NFL rosters and they are all of Pitt guys. Professional coaches know that."

PRO FOOTBALL

The 1995 Panthers had three players sign with NFL teams.

Quarterback Matt Lyle signed with the Carolina Panthers, linebacker Phil Walke joined the New Orleans Saints and wide receiver Terry Mitchell signed with the Cincinnati Bengals.

In 1937, the AFL established the same draft format as the NFL by drafting players from the college ranks and reserving his own draft allowing for college players drafted by the AFL and the NFL.

Jack Donshan was drafted in 1941 by Pittsburgh, he served in the armed forces and after the war was drafted again in 1947 by the New York Yankees.

** Steve Donshan was drafted by Boston (AFL) in 1962 and Baltimore (NFL) in 1961.

Panther History

Success

A simple accounting of the University of Pittsburgh's football accomplishments during its first 109 years would lead to an unmistakable conclusion: Pittsburgh's football program will have earned the title of "National Football Hall of Fame."

Its nine national championships rank Pittsburgh sixth in NCAA annals. The football program has produced 82 first-team All-Americans and ranks sixth among Division I-A schools with 46 consensus All-Americans. Only 20 schools have more victories than Pitt's 584. Pittsburgh players have won the Heisman Trophy, the Maxwell Award, the Walter Camp Award, the Outland Trophy and the Lombardi Trophy, and have been inducted into the National Football Foundation Hall of Fame.

Nineteen men associated with Panther football — players and coaches alike — have been elected to the College Football Hall of Fame, and more are on the way. There have been approximately 200 former Panthers who have played in the National Football League, while 11 Pitt men have served as head coaches in the NFL.

Any listing of Pitt's gridiron immortals is a roll call of football greatness. The names Joe Thompson, Pop Warner, Jack Sutherland, Hube Wagner, Bob Peck, Tommy Davies, George McCaren, Joe Skladany, Herb Stein, Charles Hartwig, Gibby Welch, Ave Daniel, Marshall Goldberg, Bill Daddio, Joe Schmidt, Mike Ditka, Tony Dorsett, Hugh Green, Rickey Jackson, Mark May, Russ Johnson, Dan Marino, Timbo Lertz, Bill Fahn, and Chris DeWanell hardly scratch the surface.

But Pittsburgh football is about more than its great players, its records, its awards, and its championships. It is also about courage and charity and unshakable conviction. From first-team All-Americans to fourth-team members, undefeated seasons and, in great measure, the victory total could be counted on one finger.

While Jack Sutherland was coaching at Pitt he once wrote an article for the Saturday Evening Post, in which he said:

I honestly do not want to have my teams undefeated, untied and unscored upon. Our schedules are deliberately arranged so that we won't win all of our games. The idea is to play each fall the toughest set of opponents we can assemble on the schedule and then work it to as many of them as we can.

But at some point in the season, we want to have to face the situation of seeing whether we have what it takes to rebound after a defeat, and give perhaps one that beat us the week before the whole works. We want to demonstrate to the players and to the spectators that tomorrow is another day — and that one or two defeats are only temporary setbacks which can be canceled at the next opportunity.

Anyone who understood Sutherland would know he truly meant that. He believed more than anything in developing character.

The wrong character associated with Pitt football through the decades, both in good times and in bad, perhaps can be traced to the mettle of the city of Pittsburgh and the surrounding Western Pennsylvania region.

It is an area that grew up around the steel industry, a city that used to be lit up 24 hours a day with the night sky glowing from furnaces that burned so fiercely they were sometimes described as "hell on earth."

The close-knit ethnic neighborhoods in the cities and towns of the region spawned a strong sense of family and commitment. The relentless work ethic learned in the mills was passed along from generation-to-generation. Pride and inner toughness came from overcoming adversity and persevering in the face of long odds.

Some of these things surely have played a role in the addition of Pittsburgh football gear to the player, and it has so profoundly shaped the football program itself has reflected the region's tenacity, power and purpose.

In the surrounding region, which has been called "a wasteland" the death of the steel industry and other hard times, so too has Panther football endured difficult periods. But also like Pittsburgh, which has been reborn into a thriving city brimming with new opportunities, so too has Pitt football always bounced back from the periods of drought.

It has done this with a mental tenacity and the will to win.

"There is a drive, a desire to succeed that is instilled in virtually every player that comes out of the University of Pittsburgh," says Marty Schottenheimer, an outstanding quarterback at Pitt in the early 1960s who later served as head coach of the Cleveland Browns and Kansas City Chiefs. "I've been around a lot of players, both as a player myself and as a coach, and I haven't seen that same trait from the players from any other school."

"I can't exactly put my finger on why it's there, because I'm sure every team and coach attempts to teach a desire to be the best, as well as instilling an attitude of mental toughness. But it seems the players coming out of

Pitt all get those qualities, ones that help not only on the football field, but in most other challenging professions of life.

More than the victories and the notoriety, the bonds that are established in the quest to succeed seem up more than anything else, the essence of Panther football.

The Walt Harris era, while relatively brief in Pittsburgh football annals, has not been without impact. The 1987 season — Pittsburgh's first under Harris — ranked as one of the Panthers' most exciting ever.

Led by one of the Big East Conference's top offenses, as well as an opportunistic defense, Pittsburgh put on a late-season surge to gain its first postseason invitation since 1989. The Panthers upset two nationally ranked opponents in Virginia Tech, 30-23, and West Virginia, 41-38 in overtime, to earn a berth in the Liberty Bowl.

Time and again, Pittsburgh has ascended to the mountaintop of college football. Under the fresh new direction of Harris, the Panthers appear primed to begin that climb again.

"We are building a program from the ground up, based on hard work, enthusiasm and commitment," said Harris. "We are excited about our challenge of rebuilding Pittsburgh to its rightful place among the elite football programs in the country."

Rating Systems

To settle countless arguments, sports frustrated in 1976 reexamined the list, and the complete and wholly accurate one was compiled. College football myth as it may be, the very recognized authority that even presumed to name a No. 1 is included:

Associated Press (1934-current) poll of sports writers and broadcasters.

Pack M. Davis Ratings (1884-1935) chosen by Davis, a player at Princeton in 1889 and a former coach at Wisconsin, Amherst and Lafayette, and first published in the 1934 Spartan yearbook.

Dickinson System (1924-48) chosen by University of Illinois economics professor Frank G. Dickinson; based on system that awarded various point totals for wins over teams with winning or non-winning records.

Dunkel System (1929-current) a point index rating system devised by Dick Dunkel and used in the U.S. Newspaper around the nation.

Football Writers Association of America (1954-current) chosen by a five-man committee representing membership.

Holmes First Interstate Bank Athletic Foundation (1889-current) originally founded in 1936 as Holmes Athletic Foundation and changed in the early 1970s to Citizens Savings Athletic Foundation before current name was adopted in '98.

Illustrated Football Annual (1924-41) an "azn'zaren" system published in this highly regarded magazine by William Board.

Likenshouse System (1934-current) a "difference-by-score" method syndicated by Fred Likenshouse and his brother Edward.

National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame (1959-current) chosen annually by committee representing membership.

The Football Phenomenon (1927-58) system devised by Duane Hagelquist and published in book of same title.

United Press International (1950-current) poll of 35 college coaches.

Williamson System (1932-63) system of syndicated power ratings chosen by Paul Williamson, a geologist and member of the Sugar Bowl committee.

In the

In 1889 a soundly 30-pound lad named Bert Smyers graduated from Buckner Academy and went on to Western University of Pennsylvania. That autumn, along with a senior named John D. Scott, Smyers gathered a small group of students together into the first organized football team at the University.

Only three members of what Sprayers later called his money row had ever even seen a football contest before enlisting the services. Sprayers installed himself in the quarters at first, and a baseball pitcher became a center. Frank Rhee and John Morrow were the quarterbacks, and A. B. Morrow were the tackles. Edwin's brother George was a wide receiver with F. Shuler an open, tight end, and John Hily at wide the halfbacks. The halfback was John Hansen.

that group played a significant role in the 1960s. At the time, when we were in the '60s, we had a hard way to go before we could tear down any kind of a barrier. I recall you were

We cannot end with one further word. All about us is at every point and every moment danger and the future is our work. We are standing on the edge of the abyss.

The stockings were not dated by me. The top were heavier looking than they do now. Football players also wore them and tried to describe in a letter to my mother that they were made of canvas. But the only canvas she had was from some old oat sacks around the barn. So she made me a vest of that with ties from an old corset and I was all ready to play.

The uniforms were primitive and there was a difference as well.

After finishing 2-4 in '89, WUP posted its first winning record in 1894, ending with a 4-2 mark. The following season Western hired Anson F. Harjo as its first all-time coach, but the team slipped to a 4-4 record.

Dr. Fred Robinson, a former Penn State player, took over as head coach in 1998 and guided the team to a 5-2 record and followed that up the next year with a 3-7 mark.

Dr. W. Roy Jackson succeeded Robinson in 1900 and led WUP to a 4 record. Then Wilber D. Harkness took the team in 1901 posting a 7-2 record.

Hickerson also played in the late 1890s. The following are some of his recollections from the period around the turn of the century.

In the fall of 1907 about 60 boys enrolled in the Western University of Pennsylvania who had played football in their home towns in their preparatory schools. A student in the School of Agriculture, Thomas Breckard, who had graduated from Princeton, coached the varsity team. He had been quite famous as a player and was known to players and fans as "Doggie" Breckard. The varsity in those days was composed mostly of seniors and graduate students, only upperclassmen and postgraduates were considered physically strong enough to play football as it was played at that time.

he transferred everything in 1897, organized a new team and began to play games wherever they could be scheduled. Each player purchased his own knee guards, shin guards, socks and moccasins, which were then in vogue, and all contributed to a fund to buy a football for the first game.

"We played some of our games in the late 1890s at Kenilworth Park, but in 90 we obtained the Shenley Oval for our games transferring football to the Shenley district for the time. Our games were free of all who wished to attend."

The 90A campaign began a string of eight consecutive winning seasons including a 10-0 record under Arthur St. Mosse that year and a 10-2 mark in 905, a 6-4 mark under L. R. Wingard in 906 and 8-2 under scholarly John Moorhead, a safe product, in 907.

In 1908, Joe Thompson, a member of the undefeated 1904 squad and the captain of the 1905 team, took over as head coach through the 1912 season. Thompson was followed by Joseph Duff who coached the Panthers until 1915, when Pop Warner took over.

The legacy of John Bain "Jock" Sutherland is perhaps best summed up this way. He was a football man.

Sutherland, a native of Scotland who, according to legend, played in the first football game he ever saw, is Panther football's all-time crown jewel. Both as an All America guard for Pittsburgh during a brilliant four-year playing career under Pop Warner, and later as a Hall of Fame coach whose dominating teams were knighted as national champions five times, he set impeccable standards of excellence at Pitt.

Sutherland became a larger-than-life figure not only at Pitt but throughout the college football world.

When he died unexpectedly of a brain tumor in 1948, the city of Pittsburgh and the sporting world mourned the loss of one of the truly great men in sports.

"Jock above all, was a under," said the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette in an editorial upon his death. "This impressed you at once on first meeting him. Character, restraint and sincerity were written in his bearing."

"There is nothing anybody can say about the passing of Jock Sutherland that isn't felt in the heart of every man and woman in Pittsburgh. In any list of the district's assets, he was close to the top."

Johnny Sutherland was one of seven children born to Mary Burns Sutherland, a descendant of the poet Robert Burns. When his father Archibald, suffered a fatal internal rupture trying to save the life of a fellow worker pinned under a fallen girder, Mary Sutherland sent young Johnny to America to join relatives here and escape from a life of certain poverty in Scotland.

When he arrived in America, the 16-year-old Sutherland was determined to educate himself and get ahead. After working his way through several prep schools, including one job as a night policeman in the Pittsburgh suburb of Sewickley, he entered Pitt's School of Dentistry in 1914.

During his early years in America, Sutherland focused his sturdy, 6-4, 210-pound frame on soccer, the game most popular in his native Scotland. But when Joe Duff, the Pitt football coach in 1914, got one look at this tall, strapping Scot, he convinced him to try his hand at football.

By the second game of the season, "Jock" as he came to be known, became a starting guard. He flourished at the game. Like a bridge player who understands the system behind the play, Sutherland sensed the reasons for the moves on the gridiron, and he developed into one of the greatest guards in Pitt history. He became an All-American under Pop Warner, who succeeded Duff as head coach in 1915.

During his four years as a player, Sutherland only tasted defeat once: the Panthers were undefeated in his final three seasons, and were recognized as national champions in 1915 and 1916. Sutherland also had a perfect record, as both a player and a coach, against Penn State. The taste he acquired for victory as a player would carry over into his brilliant coaching career.

After a tour in the Army, during which he coached several camp teams, he accepted an offer in 1919 to become the head coach at Lafayette College. He spent five years at Lafayette, producing an eastern championship team in 1921 and defeating Pitt twice in a row.

When Pop Warner left Pitt for Stanford in 1924, Sutherland returned to his alma mater as head coach, where he remained through the 1938 season.

There was a touch of grandeur to Sutherland. Tall, strong, ruggedly handsome, with a formidable jaw and piercing blue eyes, "Jock Sutherland," wrote Look Magazine's Tim Cohane "had a strength of mind, body, and purpose as unshakable and craggy as the hills enveloping his native Coupar Angus."

He was a commanding, almost majestic figure, an austere man of few words with a reserve not even his players could break down. To those who did not know him, he could seem forbidding. As a result, he earned a few unflattering nicknames over the years, including "the Great Stone Face" and the "Dowd Scot."

"But in his relaxed hours," wrote New York sportswriter Joe Williams, "which were not infrequent, there could not have been a more companionable man. His soft, pleasing voice rolled with the thistle of his native Scotland. He had wit and wisdom and a certain grace."

None of his players ever dreamed of addressing Sutherland, either during their playing days, or in later years, as anything but "Doctor." The fierce devotion and respect they had for him lasted a lifetime.

Sutherland was a stern taskmaster. He sometimes would set the pace for his players by striding up the long steep hill leading to Pitt Stadium and insisting that his players do the same. He admonished those who huddled a ride from a passing car. In his Scottish burr, to "get off that cart." The penalty for those he caught riding up the hill: extra laps.

Sutherland never criticized a player publicly, and was privately considerate of them, especially in bad times. He was their champion who fought tirelessly for them, who encouraged them and who rejoiced proudly in every advance each made both during their college days and long afterward.

"Although he was a driver, an exacting teacher, a stern disciplinarian, Sutherland's players knew he was interested in their futures," Cohane wrote. "He steered many of them into the professions. They knew also that he was inwardly warm, sympathetic to their problems, always their defender. When they lost they had a feeling they had betrayed him."

That didn't happen often. In his 15 years as coach at Pitt, the Panthers compiled a brilliant 111-20-12 record. Four times, playing a rugged schedule, his teams were undefeated. Five times they were invited to the Rose Bowl. Five times they were recognized as national champions.

Pitt played Notre Dame six times from 1932-1937, and the Panthers claimed victory five times. After a decisive 21-6 loss to Pitt in 1937, Irish Coach Elmer Layden decided 'no mas' and reasoned Notre Dame would be better off not playing the Panthers. "I'm through with Pitt. Enough," Layden said. "We haven't got a chance. They not only knock our ears back, but we are not good enough to work out all night in the Pittsburgh hotel."

Notre Dame was just one of the powerful name programs that those years in the midwest of playing the most physically tested and physically demanding game of the time. Layden generally meant no pointing the finger for any one game, but the many games in which the Pitt players were "in control" and opponents were "in a choke game"

They were taught to have a high regard for all of their opponents and to go — as Jock put it — helter-skelter from whistle-to-whistle.

He managed to keep his players at a high level all season by coaching them in a calm, professional manner. Locker room histrionics had no place in his system. There were no known "win one for the Gipper" pep talks from Sutherland.

Before a game he would tell his players what he wanted them to do. At halftime he would inform them if they had failed to do that. If they were losing at halftime, he wouldn't whip them into a fury by screaming at them, pleading with them, or shedding tears over the slaming about to happen. The old alone matter.

Consequently, Sutherland's teams didn't rush out of the locker room in a hater. He simply didn't believe in furious football — the fighting, crying, hysterical kind of football. He wanted his players to fight hard all the way. But he didn't want them to play with their heads whirling and tears of rage in their eyes. That wasn't his kind of football. His teams were known for their slamming, hammering, power football. But the force they exerted was a precision that called for clear, cold thinking rather than emotion.

Sutherland was a genius of defensive football, and his teams were always powerfully arrayed on that side of the ball.

Under his command, Pitt shut out its opponents 79 times (55 percent of the time) in 15 seasons.

His teams were hard to score on, even when you beat him, as Bennie Bierman, with two of the greatest teams in Minnesota history, found out. "Grantland Rice wrote, 'As great a coach as Bierman was, he needed the better material to beat Jock. They all needed better material to beat Jock. No one with inferior material ever drew a decision over Scotland's greatest football son.'"

Probably no football coach ever constructed a running attack with more precision, power and speed than Jock Sutherland. His teams were power teams; the backs ran with fury behind devastating blocking.

Pitt would begin by attacking the flanks and off tackle by sweeps, cutbacks, and reverses. After the defensive line would widen to compensate, Sutherland then would attack inside tackle and up the middle.

In some ways, Sutherland wanted the center to be the best man on his team. "The running game," he said, "which is, or should be, the better part of football, depends on split second accuracy and timing from the center. If the ball gets to the runner a tenth of a second too soon — or too late — the running play may be spoiled. So in looking over my talent I pick a man for center who is never rattled or hurried or upset by anything."

"Sutherland rehearsed every play as if it were an investment in millions," wrote Tim Cohan. "He would trace the blocking routes with a stick until the pulling lineman ran them to the inch and split second. No other coach came closer to reducing the running game to a rule science."

As another sportswriter of the time put it: "There was no chi-chi in Sutherland football." He scorned frills and fancy stuff. The essence of his attack, which was dubbed the Sutherland Scythe, was the unsubtle, power-activated off tackle play from the single wing he had learned under Warner. He also introduced the double-wing formation, with which Warner had experimented when Sutherland was a player. (Warner initially had been dissatisfied with the double wing, but Sutherland recognized possibilities in it which Warner, and others, would later also recognize.)

"Jock had the finest running attack football has known," wrote Grantland Rice, "and this doesn't bar Knute Rockne, Lou Little, Perry Haughton, Hurry Up Yost, Howard Jones, Pop Warner, and anyone you can mention. Jock's great Pitt teams rumbled and blasted out their yardage in the single-wing, unbalanced line attack. When Jock had the horses — which was his custom, the Panthers' attack was something to behold."

The Dream Backfield

The glory years of Pitt under Jack Sutherland in the 1930s featured tremendous backfield play, climaxing in 1938 with the marvelous "Dream Backfield."

The formation of the "Dream Backfield," which was intact as a starting unit for that one season only — 1938 — evolved this way:

In 1935, Frank Patrick was a triple-threat fullback and shared the job with fellow sophomore Bill Stapulis, they were interchangeable for the next three years. The right halfback was junior Bobby Lukke, the durable man in Pitt's dreaded deep reverse and, according to one scribe, "the neatest, most elusive runner Jack Sutherland ever had."

In 1936, a pair of flashy sophomore halfbacks joined Patrick, Stapulis, and Lukke in the Panther backfield: Marshall Goldberg, a compact sophomore fire-brand from Elkins, West Virginia, and Harold "Curly" Stebbins, a rangy all-purpose back from Williamsport, Pennsylvania. John Chickerno, another young sophomore from Warren, Ohio, also entered the picture that year as an undersized quarterback behind John Michelson.

Goldberg — who was named All-America at left halfback — Stebbins, Stapulis and Patrick were joined by a new sophomore phenom in 1937: Dick Cassiano. With such a deep and gifted stable of running backs, and with the clever Michelson and Chickerno sharing the quarterbacking job with and had an embarrassment of backfield riches in 1938, although the quartet of Goldberg, Stebbins, Cassiano and Chickerno would be dubbed the "Dream Backfield" the following season and would earn more fame as a unit than a 1937 backfield which only was an integral part of every position and helped the Panthers win a national championship.

In 1938, with Patrick, Stapulis, and Michelson gone, Sutherland felt he had to make room in the starting line-up for Cassiano, the brilliant junior from Albany, New York. Since "Dandy Dick" was a natural left halfback and because Sutherland wanted him on the field, he asked Goldberg to switch to fullback for his senior season.

The unselfish Goldberg, who had led Pitt in rushing in 1936 (886 yards) and in 1937 (698 yards), readily complied, relinquishing his starting left halfback post to the talented, curly-haired comet, Cassiano. With Chickerno operating as the No. 1 quarterback and Stebbins entrenched at right halfback, the Dream Backfield was in place.

The dazzling quartet became the blade of the Sutherland Scythe, earning kudos not only as the best backfield in the country, but as one of the best ever to play the game.

Fordham Coach Jimmy Crowley, one of the legendary Four Horsemen of Notre Dame, claimed the Dream Backfield was even more formidable than the immortal Irish executioners of 1924.

Crowley, who helped write football history at Notre Dame with fellow Four Horsemen Harry Stuhldreher, Elmer Layden, and Don Miller, said he never saw a backfield with the all-around capabilities of Marshall Goldberg, Curly Stebbins, John Chickerno, and Dick Cassiano.

"The Notre Dame backs of 1924 were as fast as Goldberg, Stebbins, Cassiano and Chickerno," said Crowley after Pitt's 21-13 victory over Crowley's Fordham team in 1938. "We had superior passing and more skillful kicking by Layden. But we lacked the physical advantage — and consequently the power — of the four phenomenal Panthers."

"It is extremely doubtful that any backfield ever matched them for sheer power," wrote New York sportswriter Harry Grayson. "All are highly proficient and can run in either direction."

Goldberg, who weighs 284 pounds and stands 5 feet 10 1/2 inches, would be the line guard or end on the Pitt varsity were he not a back. Goldberg is the hardest runner of the four and is of good speed, although he and Chickerno are not as rapid as Curly Stebbins, and Cassiano is the speediest of the quartet.

"Strictly a team man, Goldberg sacrificed the running position of left halfback this fall to block, and his teammates love him for it. He kicks well enough and throws a short pass with good accuracy."

"Chickerno, who calls the plays, is the ideal blocker — would rather throw a good one than score a touchdown. It doesn't pay an end color. Chick, for he has, runs the Panther quarterback will swoop him right up into the blucher seats. Chick, who scales 288 pounds and is 6 feet 1 inch tall, kicks well enough and throws a nice, long pass."

"Stebbins weighs 192 pounds and stands 6 1/2. He runs like a thief and can pass uncommonly well when called upon."

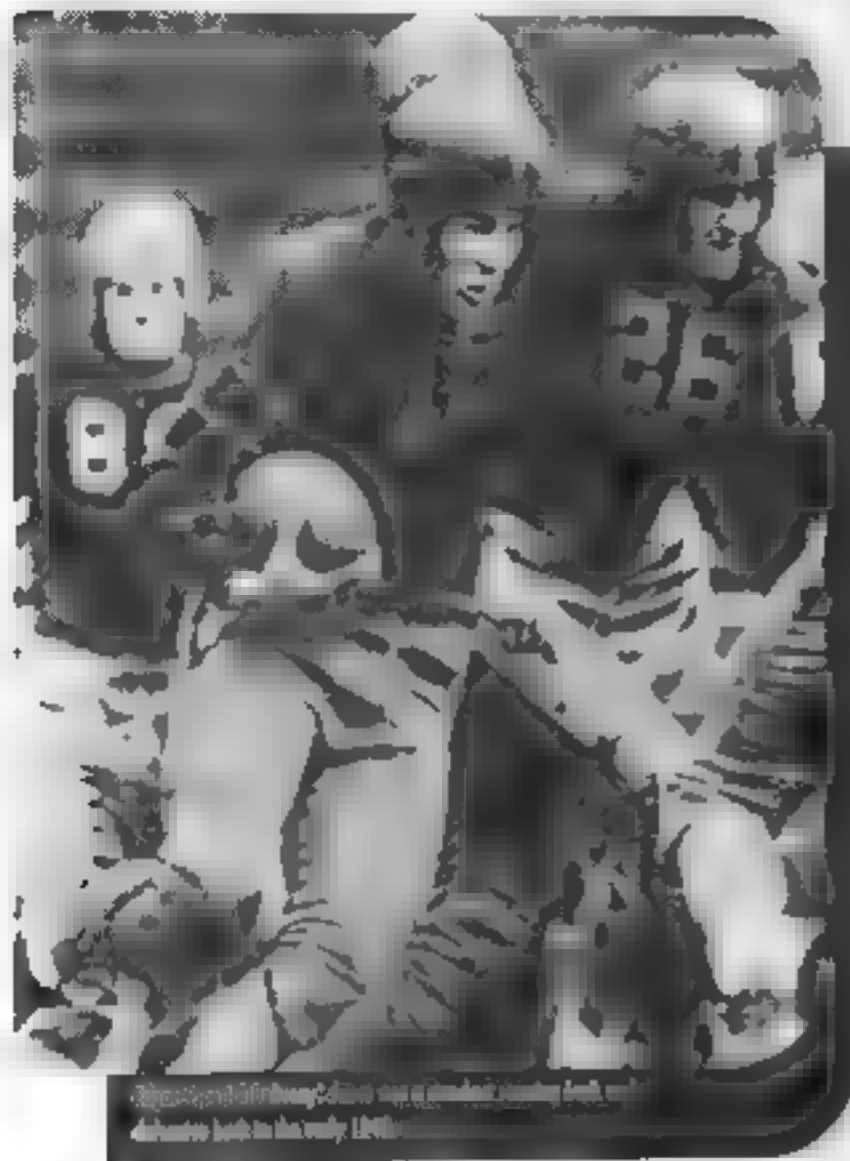

"Cassiano, the smallest of the lot at 172 pounds and standing 5-10, has blazing speed, drive and bounce, and while he plays the key position of left halfback, he has a fullback's instinct of picking up that extra yard."

Black and white photo of a football game in progress, showing players in action on the field.

The 1940s and early 1950s were not a glorious era of success on the field for Pitt.

The university suffered the same kinds of problems as many other "big-time" schools during the war years: decline in attendance, funding shortages, transportation problems, game cancellations, the discontinuance of athletic scholarships and reductions in recruiting.

"Some of the more fortunate colleges escaped the dragnet of trouble by using service trainees to play football," wrote Jack Henry in Mail To Pitt. "But Pitt was among those forced to survive with 17-year-old freshmen and 4-F's. An added blow was that when the Pearl Harbor tragedy unfolded, Pitt had not yet recovered from the malady known as the post-Sutherland blues."

After nearly a quarter century of coaching stability in the hands of Sutherland and, before him, Pop Warner, the head coaching position turned into a revolving door. During the 16 years from 1939-1954 — the years between the reigns of Sutherland and John Michelosen seven coaches came and went: Charlie Bowser (1939-1942), Clark Shaughnessy (1943-1945), Wes Foster (1946), Walt Miligan (1947-1949), Len Casanova (1950), Tom Hamilton (1951), and Red Dawson (1952-54).

The Panthers' record during that 16-year stretch was 57-84-3. There were only four winning seasons, no bowl games — plenty of frustration. (By comparison, Pitt's record in the previous 16-year war: 14-14-12, with five national championships, five Rose Bowl invitations, All-Americans galore and the respect of the college football world. Yet if the 40s and early 50s represented a comparatively bleak period on the field in Pitt's football history, it also was a different kind of proving ground for the gallant young men who strove against long odds to try to reclaim Pitt's place among football's elite.

They weren't always successful, but according to Nick Bolkovac, a talented tackle and Pitt captain in 1950, there were some different rewards for the players on those teams.

The men of the Sutherland era, those of the Johnny Michelosen and Johnny Majors teams, and the players of the modern era have their own pockets of camaraderie," says Bolkovac, whose 23-yard interception return for a touchdown helped Pitt beat Penn State 7-0 to hand the Nittany Lions their only loss of the 1948 season. "Their accomplishments in each of their periods form a basis of understanding which bind them together.

"But those of us in the 40s suffered with the limited support the university gave us. We survived the politics, but more importantly we understood that mental and physical toughness were prerequisites for survival. We knew that intense fortitude and pride were required to overcome adversity and to enable us to stand toe-to-toe and do battle with the best the country had to offer.

"We knew how the deck was stacked, but it did not deter us. Adversity was a companion we accepted as a teacher. It taught us what we were made of and what we could be. We know who we were and what we were. We were Pitt."

"It was that determination to defeat adversity that enabled us to garner many unexpected victories and many near victories. And I believe what gave us our strength to persevere, what gave us the determination to stand up to the best, was the Pitt spirit and tradition. That tradition may have been tarnished slightly during our era, but it was never trampled upon. In many ways, it may have been Pitt's finest hour.

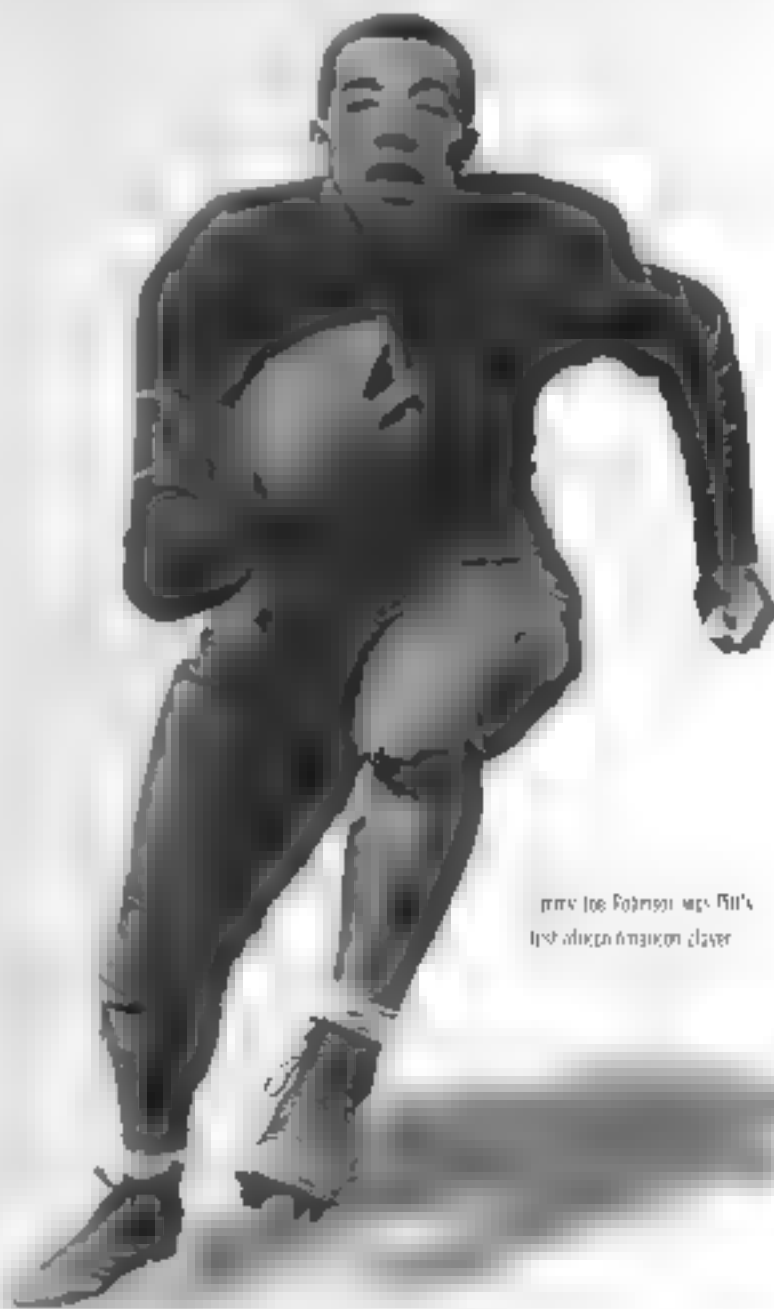

Pitt certainly also had its share of stars during that era. Edgar "Special Delivery" Jones was a wonderful running back in the early 1940s. He almost single-handedly helped Pitt upset a great Fordham team in 1942 with a performance that ranks among Pitt's greatest.

"It was the most amazing individual performance I have ever seen," said Fordham Head Coach Jimmy Crowley of Jones's effort, which included 106 yards rushing, returning an interception 70 yards for a touchdown, pinpoint passing, and continually coming through in the clutch when the Panthers needed him.

"Special Delivery" Jones was special on defense too: in 1941, he set Pitt records that still stand for most interception yardage in one game (132 vs. Nebraska) and in a season (224

There were other standouts: Ralph Fife, an All-America guard in 1941; Jim Joe Robinson, Pitt's first African-American player and a game-breaking running back in the mid-1940s; Bill McPeak, an outstanding end and Pitt's 1948 captain; Lou Brown, a center who led Pitt rushing in 1947, 1948, and 1949 and appeared the Panther as a senior in 1949; Van DePauwe, a top back and home punter in the late 1940s; and the Billy Reynolds, whose 748 yards rushing in 1952 was the highest figure in between Marshall Goldberg's 886 yards in 1936 and Tony Dorsett's 1,686 in 1973; quarterback Bob Bestwick, who became the first Pitt quarterback to pass for more than 1,000 yards (651 in 1951); Bernie Blawie, an All-America guard in the late 1940s; Eldred Kragmer, an All-American tackle in 1952; and Joe Schmidt, the Panthers' All-America linebacker who played from 1950-52 and later coached the Detroit Lions.

The 1963

Imagine a major college football team finishing 0-11, ranked third in the nation, and not appearing in a bowl game. How quaint.

That is exactly what happened to Pittsburgh's 1963 squad, which won all but one of its 10 games against a tough schedule.

The Panthers featured All-America halfback Paul Martha, fullback Rick Leeson and quarterback Freddie Mazurek in a talented backfield along with an outstanding line anchored by tackles John Mazurek and All-American Ernie Ringler.

Pitt opened the year by defeating UCLA in Los Angeles, and then beat Washington, California, and West Virginia to run its record to 4-0.

The following week, Pittsburgh lost 24-12 at Navy, which was quarterbacked by eventual Heisman Trophy winner Roger Staubach.

The Panthers bounced back the next week by beating Syracuse and then finished the season with successive victories over Notre Dame, Army, Miami, and Penn State.

But despite its sterling 9-1 record, there was no bowl game for the Panthers. In fact, on watches the Pitt players received after the season, the inscription read, "9-1. The No. 3 Bowl Team."

Why? It wasn't for lack of interest by the bowl scouts. Late in the season scouts from the Gator, Sun, Liberty, Sugar and Orange Bowls were all interested in the Panthers.

After Pitt's 28-0 win over Army in the eighth game of the season, Gator Bowl representative Harold Mason said, "The Penn State game I think that's the key to Pitt's season."

Pittsburgh wound up beating the Mt. Army Lions 22-21, but not on the day the game was originally scheduled. The game had been scheduled for Nov. 23, but it was postponed until Dec. 7 because of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy on Nov. 22. Kennedy's death wound up hurting Pitt's bowl chances.

Pitt officials themselves had scratched off the possibility of playing in the Sugar Bowl, because of the prevailing prejudicial treatment against blacks at that time. Pitt, which had two black players on its team, wouldn't triplicate the bias.

"I don't think anybody had any reservations about that decision," said end Al Grigaliunas, the team captain.

The Liberty Bowl, Gator, and Sun Bowl were shunned by Athletic Director Frank Carver because he was aiming high. He wanted Pitt to play in the Cotton Bowl, or the Orange Bowl, possibly for the national title.

As late as the eighth week of the season Pitt was the best bet to meet Big Eight champion Nebraska in the Orange Bowl.

"The Orange Bowl had promised Frank Carver that if Pitt beat Penn State, Pitt would get the invitation to the Orange Bowl," said Roy McHugh, the retired Pittsburgh Press sports writer who covered Pitt in 1963. "Banking on that, Carver turned down the Gator Bowl, and maybe some other bowls, too. But Kennedy's assassination forced postponement of the Pitt-Penn State game and the Orange Bowl [not wanting to take the chance that Pitt might lose to Penn State after being chosen], picked Auburn. The key was the postponement of the game. It left Pitt high and dry."

The Cotton Bowl was high on Pitt, but it was higher on Navy. Like Pitt, Navy had a 9-1 record, but the Midshipmen owned a victory over the Panthers. Cotton Bowl officials thus opted for a natural matchup: the No. 1 Texas Longhorns vs. the No. 2 Midshipmen for the national championship. (Texas won, 28-6.)

After the Penn State game, Pitt was offered a Sun Bowl bid, but turned it down.

"No, I don't think we were that disappointed," said Martha, now a prominent attorney in Pittsburgh. "It was getting late in the season, and it was getting cold in Pittsburgh. And bowl games in 1963 weren't quite as big as they are today. They didn't have the lure."

"Perhaps another reason why the '63 Panthers weren't crushed about staying home was that football wasn't the main reason they were in school," wrote Mike Bires of the Beaver County Times. "Those players gave true meaning to the term student-athlete."

Change at Pittsburgh

In December of 1972, in the wake of a 1-10 season, Pitt's administration tabbed 37-year old Johnny Majors, who had been the head coach at Iowa State, to try to reverse the Panthers' football fortunes. When Chancellor Wesley W. Posvar and Director of Athletics Cas Nyswinski announced Majors' hiring at a campus press conference, they had no idea how dramatic—and how sudden—this turnaround would be. Pitt posted a 6-4-1 regular season mark, including impressive wins against West Virginia, Syracuse, Boston College, Army and Navy. A freshman halfback named Tony Dorsett got the college football world on its ear by rushing for 1,686 yards. Pitt tied Georgia, 7-7 in the first game of the Major Era as Dorsett rushed for exactly 100 yards. The triumph in his second year—and the analysis found—for future greatness.

With a winning season in 1973, a budding block explosion's were high for the new Panthers. Pitt opened with road victories at Virginia State and Wake Forest, setting up an interconference battle against Southern California at Pitt Stadium. The game was billed as a meeting between "T.D. East" (Dorsett) and "T.D. West" (USC's Anthony Davis), but the Trojans dominated the Panthers more than the final 6-7 score indicated. Davis gained 444 yards rushing to Dorsett's 59. Pitt lost at North Carolina the following week but bounced back to win five straight games, including an exciting 35-24 home decision against Temple. That day, Dorsett missed the early game of his college career because of injury, but freshman Elliott Walker stepped in and set for 69 yards and four touchdowns. The following week Pitt came over a scoring victory against Notre Dame in 1973, but not quite based on talent. Pittsburgh produced a record-setting 100-yard rushing performance by Dorsett in the 4-10 Pitt win. Quarterback Bob Melway put up 100 yards of his own. Dorsett, in the Panthers' first 100-yard rush to the first 100 yards of end zone passes, fell incomplete and Pitt would have a wait another year to defeat the Fighting Irish. Sophomore quarterback James Harris led a 5-yard field goal in the third quarter to give Pitt its first victory full end against the arch-rival the 6-10 after the Panthers' 27-6 Thanksgiving night game against Penn State at Three Rivers Stadium. Was Pitt's first network telecast since 1965, but the Lions spoiled the evening for Pitt, defeating the Panthers, 31-10. Dorsett ended the season with 1,004 yards, and became Pitt's all-time leading rusher in only his second season of competition. The '74 Panthers finished with a 7-4 record, but did not receive a bowl invitation, the only time during Majors' first Pittsburgh stay that the Panthers did not go bowling.

With the explosive one-two backfield punch of Tony Dorsett and Elliott Walker plus speedy, shifty junior quarterback Robert Haygood, the 1975 season became known as the Year of the Year. The Panthers opened the season with a 19-9 victory at Georgia before venturing to Oklahoma, where they were defeated by the Sooners 46-10, the worst loss during the era. Majors' 2nd Dorsett ran for a career low 1 yard on 12 attempts. Pitt rebounded to blow back to back shutouts of William & Mary and Duke before the offense erupted in a 35-0 victory against Temple at Veterans Stadium, then a 27-20 shutout Army at West Point. In that game Dorsett rushed for a school record 268 yards—his first three quarters in action. But Pitt's season burst the following week as Navy spoiled Homecoming '75 with a 17-0 upset of the Panthers with Haygood going down with an injury late in the game. Sophomore Matt Avanaugh made his first collegiate start the following week in 38-0 shutout win at Syracuse. The Panthers lost at West Virginia, 17-14, the next week, but came back to defeat Notre Dame, 34-20, with Dorsett running for 303 yards. Pitt lost another heartbreaker, 7-6, to

Sherrill's

In 1987 The Sporting News selected the 25 greatest college football teams of all time. The 1980-81 Pittsburgh teams, selected as a tandem entry, ranked 12th. Pittsburgh's 1976 national championship squad was tabbed the 17th-best team in history.

In The Sporting News' tribute to the 1980 and '81 Panthers, writer Phil Arelrod recalled a poignant moment just prior to the start of the 1980 season: "Jarkie Sherrill was in a mischievous mood when he pitted college football's most overpowering defense against one of its most explosive offenses on that sultry summer afternoon in '80.

"A sharp blast from his whistle halted practice and sent players scurrying into a huddle at midfield. Sherrill walked to the 1-yard line, put down a ball, and smiled. First-team offense. First-team defense. He barked. 'Get out there Hugh Green. Ricky Jackson, and the rest of the Panthers' defensive crew strapped on their helmets and sauntered into position. Stokely. Dan Marino. Mark May. and Russ Grimm led the offense into position for battle.

"I knew it would be a war," Sherrill recalled. "There was a lot of talent on that field. A lot of pride. ...

"Marino took the snap from center, spun to his right and planted the ball into the midsection of 230-pound fullback Randy McMillan. The lines collided with a thunderous crash and McMillan lunged toward the goal line, grinding his torso through a maze of tangled shoulder pads.

"The offensive players shot their arms skyward to signal a touchdown. The defense stomped up and down in celebration.

"We stuffed it, remembered linebacker Sai Sunseri. "No way did they make it. They thought they made it.

"After a brief scuffle, Sherrill's directive clarified matters. Obediently, Marino and Co. tramped off to run laps as the howling defenders sprinted to the locker room.

"That was the final play of the final scrimmage of fall camp. It was also the first, and last time Sherrill pitted his first-team offense against his starting defense. I didn't do it again because I didn't want them to hurt each other," he said. "They really went after each other."

The collection of talent Pitt had in the early '80s was almost unfathomable. Wrote Arelrod:

"The names roll off the tongue: a litany of All-America and All-Pro talent: Hugh Green, Ricky Jackson, Dan Marino, Russ Grimm, Jambo Covert, Carlton Williamson, Bill Mays, Bill Fralic, Mark May, Sai Sunseri.

"That was the best football team ever assembled, talent-wise," Sherrill said of his 1980 squad. "They get a lot better when you sit back and look at what they've done. Never, ever has a team produced that many great players."

"I have never seen a college defense like that," Foge Fazio, then the Panthers' defensive coordinator, said of those Pitt squads. "It was an attacking defense. They shut people down and took the ball away from them.

Green and Jackson, the defensive ends in 1980, were quiet assassins. Linemen Greg Meisner, Bill Mehl and Jerry Boyarsky howled like wild animals as they lined up over the ball. The muckle three linemen in '81 — Dave Pucholski, J.C. Pelusi and Mays — were known as the "Pac-Men."

"The huddles were wild," Sunseri said. "We knew what we had. We knew we were the No. 1 defense in the country. We dominated teams.

"We knew there was not a tackle in the country faster than Meisner. There was nobody from a technique standpoint better than Mehl. There was not a better nose guard than Boyarsky. And when you looked outside, my God, there was Hugh Green on one side, and there was Ricky Jackson on the other.

"What I had to do was clog up the middle and bounce people outside to the All-Pros."

All five starters in Pittsburgh's defensive front in 1980 — Green, Jackson, Boyarsky, Meisner, and Mehl — went on to become starters in the NFL as rookies, but that 1980 defense had some additional TNT behind it, including Sunseri, a first-team All-American, and safety Carlton Williamson, who would start for the Super Bowl champion San Francisco 49ers in 1987.

Marino and fellow quarterback Rick Toccan, running backs McMillan and Bryan Thomas, and receivers Julius Dawkins and Dwight Collins gave the Panthers great strength at the skill positions. But it was an immensely gifted group in the engine room — the offensive line coached by Joe Moore — that provided the foundation for success for those teams.

"There were games when my uniform never got dirty," said Marino. "There were games when I never hit the ground. That's incredible.

Marino's mammoth wall of protection in 1980 included tackles Jim Covert and Mark May, who won the Outland Trophy; guards Emil Boures, Rob Fada, Ron Sams and Paul Quinn, and center Russ Grimm.

"I don't know if anybody'd ever had a line like that," said Moore. "They were mean. They were tough. They beat people up. Grimm was the leader. He was all business when he put on his helmet. He was a total football player.

When future All-Pros Covert, May, and Grimm departed for the NFL along with Sams, Fada and Boures, there were some richly talented replacements waiting in the wings, including Jim Sweeney, a great lineman at Pitt who went on to have an outstanding career as a center for the New York Jets and now the Pittsburgh Steelers, and Bill Fralic, a three-time All-American who was one of the finest college linemen in the history of the game. "I don't know if Pitt or anybody else will ever have that many great athletes at the same time," said Jackie Sherrill of his Pitt teams in the early '80s. "We had a great player at every position on the field, offense and defense. We didn't have a weakness in those years."

In 1973, a skinny freshman tailback from Hopewell High School in Atiquippa, Pennsylvania, named TONY DORSETT began a career at Pittsburgh that would lead to a national championship, the Heisman Trophy and individual acclaim as the greatest running back in the history of college football.

In his fabulous four-year career with the Panthers, Dorsett set or tied 18 collegiate rushing records — more than any other player in the history of college football. He established the NCAA's all-time career rushing record with 6,082 yards — a mark that stood for 22 years until Ricky Williams of Texas surpassed the mark last year. (His overall total at Pitt, including his yardage from three bowl games, was 6,526.)

Dorsett added to his list of accomplishments by being named to both the college and professional All-America teams.

He was the first running back to rush for more than 100 yards in each of the last five games of a season in the college game. He was named captain of the American Athletic Conference and the sophomore ever named to the Playboy All-American team.

Pitt coach Paul Hogue died in 1972, the year before Dorsett's freshman season. As a freshman in 1973, Dorsett burst on the college scene with 100 yards rushing against Georgia in Pitt's opening game. In the 1973 regular season, he went on to rush for 1,586 yards, the most ever by a college freshman, while recording the first 1,000-yard season in Pitt history. He helped lead Pitt to a 6-5-1 record and a berth in the Fiesta Bowl.

In only his 15th game, early in his sophomore season, he broke Marshall Goldberg's Pitt career rushing record of 3,957 yards. He rushed for 1,004 yards as a sophomore.

As a junior in 1975, he rushed for 1,564 yards in the regular season, including a memorable 303-yard performance against Notre Dame.

In the final seven games of his senior season as Pitt was charging toward the national championship, he averaged 215 yards rushing per game en route to leading the nation in rushing with 1,948 yards. Having finished fourth in the Heisman balloting as a junior in 1975, Dorsett became Pitt's first Heisman Trophy winner in 1976. He earned 701 of a possible 842 first-place votes for an overall total of 2,357 points, finishing far ahead of second-place finisher Ricky Bell of USC (1,346 points).

The 5-11, 192-pound Dorsett was a magical optical illusion, blending his 4.3 speed, supernatural acceleration and Houdini-like escape artistry with open field cutting so superbly executed it tended to escape detection by the naked eye.

As teammate Al Romano once put it, "I hate to practice against him. Trying to tackle him is like trying to catch a fly."

One revealing measure of his greatness occurred late in his senior season against Penn State. At halftime, with the game tied 7-7, Head Coach Johnny Majors decided to switch Dorsett, who despite scoring one touchdown had pretty much been held in check by the Nittany lions in the first half, from tailback to fullback. Dorsett wound up rushing for 173 yards and scoring a touchdown in the second half as Pitt coasted to a 24-7 win. Dorsett finished with 224 yards rushing, and his two touchdowns enabled him to break a 30-year-old record set by Glenn Davis of Army. Dorsett scored 356 points in his four seasons, two more than Davis, the 1946 Heisman Trophy winner, had in his four campaigns as a Cadet.

"I didn't think they could run up the gut like that on us," said Penn State Head Coach Joe Paterno. "I didn't think I'd see Dorsett at fullback. We just weren't ready for the unbalanced stuff."

Asked to describe Dorsett in more detail, Paterno simply said, "How many ways can you say great?"

Pitt Head Coach Johnny Majors said differently.

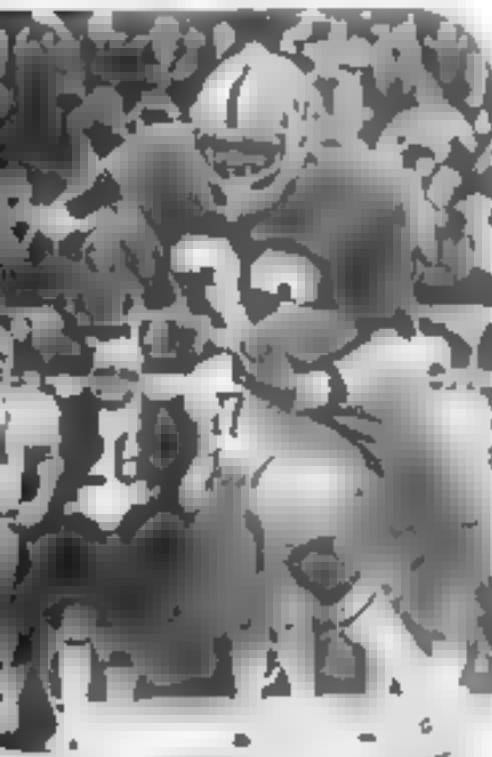

"I could coach another 100 years and never get the opportunity to coach another back like Dorsett," he said. "I consider it an honor to be his college coach."

With Dorsett setting a Sugar Bowl record by rushing for 202 yards, Pitt went on to crush Georgia, 27-3, to become the first Eastern team since Syracuse in 1959 to win the national championship.

"We had accomplished our mission," Dorsett said. "I think back to those college days often, and I can't help but smile. I've never had more fun in my life. We were a part of history. We helped save Pitt football."

Twenty-two years later, Anthony Dorsett Jr., son of Pittsburgh's only Heisman Trophy winner, continued the Dorsett legacy as a defensive back (1992-95).

Dorsett's number 33 Pitt jersey was retired in 1976.

Marino, a hometown hero who attended Central Catholic High School in the shadow of the Pitt campus in Oakland, was one of the most eagerly sought high school athletes in the country, both for his immense football skills and his baseball ability.

Marino was a bona fide Major League Baseball prospect both as a pitcher and a shortstop and was drafted in the fourth round in 1979 by the Kansas City Royals, who projected him as a left baseman or outfielder. But he decided to cast his lot with football, and with Pitt, and by the time he graduated in 1983, he had become the Panthers' all-time passing leader with 8,599 yards and 79 touchdown passes.

"Dan Marino is the best quarterback I've ever coached against at the collegiate level," said Penn State Head Coach Joe Paterno.

The 6-4, 215-pound All-American had a rocket-launching right arm and a lightning release. Marino was a classic drop-back quarterback. But his success as a quarterback and as a leader transcended his physical skills.

In 1979, Marino led the Panthers to a Fiesta Bowl victory after replacing injured Rick Trocano in the season's seventh game. He set a Pitt freshman record with 1,680 yards passing. Marino also led the Panthers to two difficult road victories against rivals West Virginia (24-7) and Penn State (29-14), and a 16-10 win against Arizona in the Fiesta Bowl.

As a sophomore in 1980, he was one of the country's leading passers until he was sidelined with a knee injury, and in a twist of fate, was replaced by Trocano, who had been starting at free safety. Marino had guided the Panthers to victories in five of their first six games. Despite the injury, Marino still finished with 1,513 yards and 14 touchdowns.

But it was his magical junior season in 1981 that truly earmarked him for greatness and put him on a path that one day surely will lead to the Pro Football Hall of Fame in Canton.

Marino passed for 2,876 yards and a school-record 37 touchdowns that year, leading Pitt to its third consecutive year. He also set a single-game record by throwing for six touchdowns against South Carolina. He enhanced his reputation for delivering in the clutch in the 1982 Sugar Bowl, when he fired a 33-yard touchdown pass to tight end John Brown with just 35 seconds remaining in the game for a pulsating, come-from-behind 24-20 victory over Georgia. That victory put the icing on the winningest three-year stretch in Panther history: three consecutive 11-1 seasons for a combined record of 33-3. It was also the third consecutive bowl victory for the Panthers, who defeated Arizona, 16-10, in the Fiesta Bowl to close the 1979 season and crushed South Carolina 37-9, in the 1980 Gator Bowl.

Marino closed out his career at Pitt in 1982 by passing for 2,432 yards, the fourth-highest single season total in Pitt history, and 17 touchdowns, as Pitt, under new Head Coach Foge Fazio, finished 9-3, including a loss to SML in the Cotton Bowl.

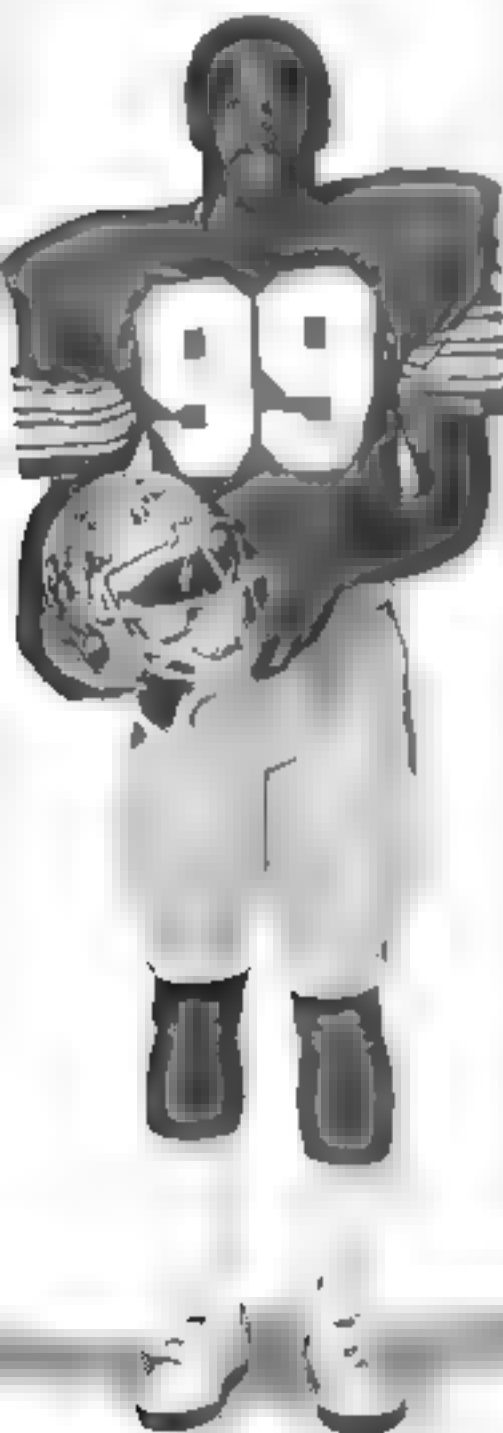

A first-round draft pick by the Miami Dolphins in 1983, Marino has rewritten many of the NFL's passing records and has been selected to the Pro Bowl eight times, six as the starting quarterback.

In 1995, Marino became the NFL's all-time passing leader in both career passing yardage and career touchdown passes, surpassing Fran Tarkenton in both categories.

Marino had his number 13 Pitt jersey retired in 1982.

HUGH GREEN was an amazing player, arguably, the most devastating defensive end in collegiate history. One of the most complete packages of speed, quickness, strength and savvy ever to play the college game, Green started every game but one in his four-year career at Pittsburgh. What Tony Dorsett meant to Pitt's offense, Hugh Green had made that much impact on the defense.

In his debut against Notre Dame as a freshman in 1977, he served notice of what was to come by racking up 11 tackles, a blocked punt and two sacks against the eventual national champions.

His mere presence could control an entire game, something the pro scouts noticed.

Tampa Bay Buccaneers scouting director Ken Herock said: "He was used like the MX missile rotating from standup defensive end to all four linebacker positions, waiting for the proper time to explode. They disguised him so he could make plays, they moved him around a lot so that when the other team came up to the line of scrimmage, they'd say, 'Where's Green?'"

"People were petrified of Green," Sumers said. "But they couldn't run away from him because we had Ricky Jackson on the other side of the line."

Even when teams did try to run away from Green, it was usually fruitless.

"I remember watching from the sidelines," said John Brown, a sophomore tight end on that 1980 team. "He'd be lined up on one side, and the other team would run a sweep wide to the opposite side. All of a sudden Green would just fly across the field and the runner would just disappear in a big roll of dust, and then you'd see Green — with his eyes real wide — just standing over the guy. He was awesome."

The rest of the country agreed. Green, Pitt's all-time career quarterback sack leader with 53, won the 1980 Maxwell Award as college football's outstanding player and the Lombardi Award as the nation's outstanding lineman. He was the UPI Player of the Year and was second to South Carolina's George Rogers in the Heisman Trophy balloting — the highest finish ever by a purely defensive player to that point.

"You could talk all day about Hugh Green," said Jackie Sherrill, Green's coach at Pittsburgh.

"I don't think there had ever been a defensive player who played as well and as consistently from his first game to his last."

Green's career, not surprisingly, coincided with one of the best four-year periods in Pittsburgh football history.

The Panthers were 39-8-1 during that time, advancing to bowls after each season (winning three) and had three Top 10 finishes. His senior season, the Panthers finished 12-1 and ranked second in both wire service polls and first in the ranking by The New York Times. Pittsburgh also claimed its second straight Lambert Trophy, symbolic of football supremacy in the East, after defeating Penn State, 14-9, in Beaver Stadium.

Green was a first-round draft pick by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in 1981 and was traded to the Miami Dolphins in 1985. He was named twice to the AFT-NFC Pro Bowl.

Green's number 99 Pitt jersey was retired during the final home game of the 1980 season.

In 1986, Green was selected for induction into the College Football Hall of Fame, becoming the 18th Panther player or coach to receive this recognition.

It must have been a disguise. The baby boy born to William and Dorothy Fralic on Halloween of 1962 tipped the scales at seven pounds three ounces. Who could have predicted this growth rate?

At the age of nine, BILLY FRALIC weighed 175 pounds. As an eighth grader, he stood 6-foot-3 and weighed 235 pounds. And tales of his size are now almost as numerous (and legendary) as what he has accomplished in a career.

"I've always been big," Fralic told former NFL writer Paula Smith during an interview from Fralic's playing days at Pittsburgh. "I was always the biggest guy in my class—even in grade school."

At the age of 13, Fralic developed a passion for weightlifting. Somewhat envious of his older brothers, Mike and Joe, who would also grow up to play college football, young Bill wanted to pump his iron and develop his frame as well as come to the point of enlisting Mike Fralic to serve as spotter if the two older boys weren't around.

Andy Urbanic, who was the football coach at Penn Hills, and then an assistant at Pittsburgh during part of Fralic's career with the Panthers, remembers the uncommon dedication in Bill.

"I've never remembered a kid who had such specific goals at such an early age," Urbanic said. "He not only wanted to be a football player, but an offensive tackle on the NFL."

Fralic became the first sophomore ever to letter at Penn Hills, where he also became the WPTA's heavy weight wrestling champion as a junior and a Parade football All-American as a senior. That same year, he was named Ohio Male Athlete of the Year, the same honor which went to Herschel Walker the year before.

Considering his prolific career and reputation as an offensive lineman, few may remember that Fralic's initial preseason (1981) camp at Pitt included a persistent question: "Will Fralic play offensive or defensive line?"

Offensive line coach Joe Moore was the happiest man in training camp when it was resolved to play Fralic at offensive tackle, in the spot vacated by Outland Trophy winner Mark May following the 1980 season.

Following the Panthers' 1983 win against Notre Dame in South Bend, the accolades began to pick up in intensity.

"It's [playing against Fralic], something I can tell my kids 30 years from now," said Notre Dame defensive lineman Eric Dorsey. "I've read so much about him; it's like playing against a god. When you think of Pitt, you think of Bill Fralic."

Said Pitt Coach Rge Fazio: "I haven't seen a better offensive lineman as a player or as a coach. I can't believe anybody can be better than Bill."

And from his 1981 coach Joe Moore, one of the nation's most highly respected coaches at that position: "Bill Fralic is the best. If you can find somebody better, bring him in here. I've been privileged to coach some good ones here, but none better than Bill Fralic. Those kind only pass through once."

Fralic was a three-time All-American for the Panthers and was the only underclassman to be among the four finalists for the Lombardi Trophy as a junior in 1983.

For Fralic's senior year, in an effort to find a tangible tool for Fralic's accomplishments, the Pitt Sports Information Office conceived the "Pancake," a statistical barometer for each game Fralic put an opposing defensive lineman on his back. An intern monitored every Pitt offensive play to determine the number of times the Panthers ran the play over Fralic's position. In a 1983 game at Maryland, Pitt ran 11 consecutive plays over its star tackle.

One of the first players selected in the 1985 NFL draft, Fralic was a four-time All-Pro member of the Atlanta Falcons.

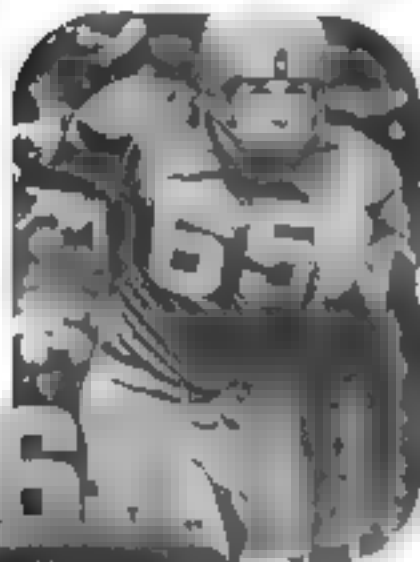

This past December, Fralic earned one more accolade for his illustrious Pittsburgh career when he was inducted into the National College Football Hall of Fame, making him the 19th Panther player or coach to receive this recognition. Fralic's number 79 Pitt jersey was retired in 1984.

Joe Schmidt

1936-38

The three most recent jersey numbers retired by the university are 42, which belongs to Marshall Goldberg, 42; Joe Schmidt, 65; and Mike Outkip, 89. The trio was honored at halftime of the Panthers' 21-17 upset of Miami on Sept. 18, 1997. The ceremony featured the unveiling of three retired jerseys with their respective numbers, which are visible — along with Pittsburgh's other retired jerseys — on Pitt Stadium's south wall, opposite the press box.

One of the first things that attracted Athletic Director Steve Pederson to Pittsburgh was its rich football tradition. Within the first five months of his administration, Pederson acted to ensure that Goldberg, Schmidt and Ditka, long regarded as three of Pittsburgh's all-time greats, had a permanent legacy established in honor of their accomplishments.

"The retirement of these three players' jerseys is long overdue," Pederson said at a press conference prior to the retirement ceremony. "I believe it is only appropriate that three of the greatest football players in Pittsburgh history have their jerseys retired and join the prestigious group of Panther greats whose jerseys have already been retired."

MARSHALL GOLDBERG, who starred for the Panthers from 1936-38, was Pittsburgh's most prominent and publicized running back until Tony Dorsett arrived in the mid-1970s. Goldberg played two years at halfback and one season at fullback for the Panthers, who were perennial national powers during that era.

Recruited out of Elkins, N.J., by the legendary Jack Sutherland, Goldberg went on to become a two-time All American and Pittsburgh's all-time leading rusher with 1,957 yards, a mark that stood for 36 years until Dorsett broke it during the 1974 season. Goldberg led the Panthers to a three-year mark of 25-3-2 and selection as national champions in 1936 and 1937.

Goldberg's name is synonymous with the greatest backfield in Pittsburgh football history — the "Dream Backfield."

In 1938, Coach Sutherland was in a situation where he had an embarrassment of backfield riches. The unselfish Goldberg, who had led Pitt in rushing in 1936 (886 yards) and in 1937 (698 yards), readily agreed to relinquish his starting left halfback post to the talented, fuzzy-haired comet, Dick Cassiano.

With John Chickemeo operating as the No. 1 quarterback, and Curly Stebbins entrenched at right halfback, what became known as the Panthers' "Dream Backfield" was in place. The group earned national acclaim, not only as the best backfield in the country that year, but also as one of the best to ever play the game. Fordham head coach Jimmy Crowley, one of Notre Dame's legendary Four Horsemen, said the Dream Backfield was even superior to his Irish corps.

Following his graduation from Pittsburgh, Goldberg went on to a nine-year playing career in the NFL with the Chicago Cardinals. A College Football Hall of Fame inductee, he was president of his own machinery company in Illinois and still resides in suburban Chicago.

SCHMIDT starred for the Panthers from 1950 to 1952 and played for four different head coaches at Pitt. After starting his career as a fullback and guard, Schmidt moved to linebacker, where he earned All America honors and established himself as a prototype for years to come.

At Pittsburgh, he displayed the skills of anticipation, split-second defensive instincts and deadly tackling that made him an eight-time All Pro with the Lions.

What made Schmidt's accomplishments so remarkable was that his college career was rife with injuries. As a freshman, he broke two ribs. In his sophomore season, he broke his wrist in spring practice and separated his shoulder in the fall. As a junior, he badly wrenched his knee in the preseason. As a senior in 1952, he tore knee cartilage in the opening game against Iowa and then came back two weeks later against Notre Dame, in which he received a concussion and hemorrhage that put him in the hospital for 10 days.

But when he was on the field, he was a force to behold.

Schmidt went on to the NFL, where he enjoyed a brilliant 13-year career as a member of the Detroit Lions, who won two NFL championships during that period. Following his playing career, which earned him a spot in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, Schmidt served briefly as an assistant coach for the Lions and then as head coach from 1967-1972, leading Detroit to its only playoff appearance in the 1970s.

He still lives in the Detroit area.

One of the legendary figures in Pittsburgh football history is MIKE DITKA, who played under John Michelosen from 1958-60.

"Iron Mike" was a fierce tight end and defensive lineman for the Panthers, whose immense athletic skills and competitive drive earned him All-America honors at Pitt. He led the Panthers in receiving for three straight years.

Ditka then went on, of course, to earn All-Pro honors as a tight end in the NFL and was eventually selected to the Pro Football Hall of Fame. He was a member of the Chicago Bears 1963 NFL championship team and the Dallas Cowboys' Super Bowl VI champions. He also worked as an assistant coach for the Cowboys for nine seasons and was part of another Dallas Super Bowl championship squad.

As the coach of the Chicago Bears for 11 seasons, Ditka rebuilt that franchise into an NFL power. The Bears won Super Bowl XIX under Ditka, and he took the Bears to the NFC Championship Game three times. He returned to the NFL coaching ranks in 1997 as the head coach of the New Orleans Saints.

But it was at Pitt that Ditka first earned fame for his competitive fury and relentless will to win.

"You'd see him in the huddle, or on the sideline waiting to get back onto the field, and you knew just by looking at him he was ready," remembers Foge Fazio, a teammate of Ditka's who later served as Pitt's head coach in the mid-1980s. "He was always ready. He was like a prize fighter in the ring. He just couldn't wait for that bell to ring and get back out there."

Ernie Hefferle, who coached the ends under Michelosen during Ditka's Pitt career, said this about Ditka: "He was the damndest player I ever came across; you get one in a lifetime if you're lucky. He used to forearm our own guys in practice. He used to complain that our practices weren't tough enough. He wanted more hitting. All he wanted to do was hit, hit, hit."

Ditka was a three-sport athlete at Pitt. He was a baseball outfielder and was a forward on the Panther basketball team. Bob Timmons coached Ditka in both football and basketball at Pitt. "He'll hit the first guy he sees," said Timmons. That was in both sports.

Ditka was also the intramural wrestling champion at Pitt. Rex Peery, the Panthers' legendary wrestling coach, was convinced Ditka could have been an NCAA wrestling champion had he wrestled on the varsity.

Ditka was a tenacious, incendiary competitor. He was not diplomatic. He once punched two Pitt guards in the same game during huddles because he didn't think they were putting out.

Wrote Jim O'Brien in Nail to Pitt: "In Ditka's senior season, he went after teammate Chuck Reinhold at halftime. Reinhold, a well-mannered, scholarly type, was a safety from Mt. Lebanon. He did something wrong near the end of the first half of the game with Michigan State permitting Herb Adderly to escape his grasp and go for a touchdown.

"Not long afterward, as the Pitt squad clattered into the dressing room, Reinhold hollered, 'Let's get 'em in the second half!'

"Ditka cried out, 'If you hadn't given up that touchdown in the first half we wouldn't be in the fix we're in!' With that, he went for Reinhold. It took about six teammates to restrain Ditka."

"His last game against Penn State will always stand out in my mind," said Lou Cicconi, a former star running back for the Panthers who was an assistant coach at Pitt during Ditka's playing days. "He went in to block a punt and then played the whole game with a dislocated shoulder."

Ditka was a marauding defensive end and claimed he may have even been better on that side of the ball.

"In the pros, Mike just played offense," said Fred Cox, a teammate of Ditka's at Pitt who went on to a 15-year career of his own as a placekicker with the Minnesota Vikings. "That was always a mystery to me, because he was such a fiery defender. He would have made one of the best linebackers ever to come near the NFL if he had been played there with the Bears."

"The attitude of a defensive player is a little bit more aggressive, and that helped me on offense," Ditka says. "That aggressive attitude helps the way you approach blocking and catching the ball and running over people and everything else. Catching the ball means very little if you don't enjoy running with it afterward. It becomes a competitive one-on-one challenge that you really don't want just one person to bring you down.

Ditka's aggressive nature as a player always earmarked him as a leader. He captained Pitt as a senior. He captained the East in the East-West postseason all-star game. He captained the college all-stars against the NFL champions. He later captained the Bears offensive unit.

Ditka, a native of Aliquippa, has never forgotten his Pitt roots. In 1990, he made a contribution to the University for the establishment of a $100,000 endowed scholarship fund. The fund provides valuable assistance to both male and female varsity athletes at Pitt from the Beaver Valley area who have distinguished themselves in athletic competition and in their academic pursuits.

"I think life is about paying your dues," Ditka said. "There were a lot of people that helped Mike Ditka along the way, and the University of Pittsburgh certainly played an important role during my formative years. Looking back at my college career, Pitt means to me my whole life—what I am now."

Pro Football

TONY DORSETT is the most recent Panther football player to be selected for the Pro Football Hall of Fame, receiving induction in 1994.

Dorsett ended a brilliant career at Pitt and started his NFL career by guiding Dallas to a victory in Super Bowl X. He left his professional mark as the father fourth leading rusher behind Walter Payton, Barry Sanders and Eric Dickerson.

Dorsett has the distinction of being the only player in the history of football to win the Heisman Trophy, a collegiate national championship, a Super Bowl championship, and to be elected into the college and pro football Halls of Fame.

MIKE DITKA was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1998. Ditka was an All-America tight end at Pitt in 1960 and a three-time Pro Football Hall of Fame inductee. He also was a member of the Chicago Bears 1996 NFL Championship squad. Ditka worked as an assistant coach at Dallas in the 1970s and spent another 10 seasons as the head coach of the Chicago Bears. He presently coaches the New Orleans Saints.

JOE SCHMIDT Pitt's other inductee in the Pro Football Hall of Fame was an All-America line backer at Pitt in 1962. He went on to spend 13 years with the Detroit Lions, and was a member of the 1957 NFL Championship team. He also coached the team for five seasons and led Detroit to its only playoff appearance of the 1970s. He was inducted in 1973.

National Football Foundation

BILL FRALIC regarded as one of the greatest offensive linemen in Pro Football history as well as the history of college football, was inducted December 1998 into the National Football Foundation's College Football Hall of Fame.

Fralic is the third Panther player in the last five years to receive the honor. Defensive end Hugh Green was inducted in 1996, while running back Tony Dorsett was honored in 1994.

Pittsburgh is well represented in the National Football Foundation's College Football Hall of Fame with a total of 39 of its former players or coaches inducted.

A three-time All-American, Fralic was one of the most dominating offensive linemen in all of college football during his career from 1981-84. He was a four-year starter for some of the most prolific offensive teams in Pittsburgh history and helped the Panthers to three New Year's Day bowl games and two Top 10 national rankings.

ALL-AMERICANS

The following list of Pittsboro's First-Team All-Americans was compiled from various sources, including the NCAA Football Guide, and consists of players who were First-team selections on one or more of the All-American teams of the last 75 years. Over the years, these selections were made by Walter Camp, Grant and Rice, Casper Whitney, INS, AP, UPI, NANA, NEA, the Football Writers, the Football Coaches Association, the All-America Board, Newsweek and The Sporting News.

George McLaren 1917-18

ALL AMERICAN

George McLaren, who was an All-America fullback in 1917 and 1918, is regarded by many as Pitt's all-time finest fullback. The Panthers were 29-2 during his career. He still holds the record for most rushing yards in a season with 781 yards. He has the record for the longest punt from scrimmage. He earned All-American honors in 1917 and was the team captain in 1918. McLaren's most amazing achievement, he was never stopped without a gain on a running play. He is Pitt's fifth all-time leading scorer with 183 points and 10th all-time rusher with 1,920 yards. He also spent two years apiece on the basketball and track teams.

Tom Davies, 1918-20

ALL AMERICAN

Tom Davies was a two-time All-American during his senior and junior years. In 1919, he weighed less than 155 pounds, but had great speed and physical abilities. In 1918, he led Pitt in rushing, passing and receiving. He was Pitt's all-purpose yardage leader all four years. In 1918, he averaged 29.4 yards per carry for a total of 1,000 yards. He was also a great passer, averaging 10.4 yards per pass. He was a three-time letterman and a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society. He was also a member of the Beta Beta Beta Honor Society. Orlando, Fla. Tangerine Bowl

N.C. STATE	7	10	3	18	—	38
PITT	0	0	3	10	—	13

The Panthers saved their worst performance of the season for this bowl outing with North Carolina State. Primarily a running team, N.C. State's offense kept it up on this night, finishing 48 yards behind the captain. However, the Wolfpack did not win. A 4-1-1 Ted Brown, rolling up 111 yards in the first quarter, led the Pitt quarterback Rick Tice to lead the Panthers back. An 18-play drive test the Wolfpack's defense, which forced a workable field goal by the home team. PITT moved up 14-0 in the second quarter, its running game leading the Panthers. Tice, who was 10-18 for 111 yards, led the Panthers to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter. A 4-1-1 Ted Brown, rolling up 111 yards in the first quarter, led the Panthers back. An 18-play drive test the Wolfpack's defense, which forced a workable field goal by the home team. PITT moved up 14-0 in the second quarter, its running game leading the Panthers. Tice, who was 10-18 for 111 yards, led the Panthers to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter.

TEXAS	14	3	3	12	32
PITT	7	0	7	13	27

Despite late heroics from Larry Winkle, Pitt was grounded in this crucial nexus as Texas quarterback Glen Stafford and split end Tony Jones set Bluebonnet Bowl records. The New Year's Eve crowd was treated to an action-packed game from the start. Stafford connected with Jones for a 77-yard touchdown on the first play from scrimmage. Pitt retaliated quickly. Billy Owens returned the kickoff 45 yards. Billy Osborn hit Reggie Williams for 45 more yards on a luck play. Then Greg Hayward led the score with a four-yard punt. Six plays later, the Longhorns took the lead for good as Stafford hit Jones on a short pass that broke for a 60-yard touchdown. Stafford finished the first quarter with 202 yards passing on the way to a 300-yard night. Jones set records for receiving yards and single reception. Winkle replaced Carter Dickinson early in the third quarter after Dickinson suffered a knee injury. Winkle completed 8-of-20 passes for 172 yards and one touchdown in the third quarter that put the Longhorns up to 24-14. Hayward finished for 36 yards, winning his personal battle with Texas star Eric Metcalfe, who finished with 98 yards rushing. Hayward ended the season with 791 yards, the second-best in Pitt history. Pitt finished the year at 8-4 after losing its season opener, 98-

John Hancock Bowl • Dec. 30, 1989

TEXAS A&M	7	3	12	5	—	28
PITT	7	10	7	2	—	31

led by bowl MVP Alex Van Pelt's 354 yards passing. Pitt outplayed a John Hancock Bowl-record 330 yards in offense into a 31-28 come-from-behind victory over Texas A&M. It was a day of firsts for the Panthers. Paul Hackett, named head coach moments before kickoff, won his first game as a head coach. It also was Pitt's first bowl win since the Panthers' 24-20 Sun Bowl victory over Georgia in 1982. Van Pelt, who completed 20 of 40 passes and threw for two touchdowns, rallied the Panthers from a 28-24 deficit when he connected with Henry Tuten on a 44-yard touchdown strike with just 2:10 remaining in the game, giving Pitt a 31-28 lead. Quarterback Ceylan Richtus rushed for 58 yards on 23 carries and scored the first points of the game with a yard TD. Texas A&M countered with a nine-yard touchdown run by quarterback Lance Pavlas, tying the record 7-7 to end the first quarter. With the score tied at 10-10 in the first half, Van Pelt threw an eight-yard touchdown pass to Ronald Redmond giving Pitt a 17-10 halftime lead. Fawke, Olanda Truitt completed his freshman season in stellar fashion, catching four passes for 124 yards, including a key 59-yard reception that set up Redmond's score. Carnal Smith finished the game with 11 carries and Barry Threats had a game-ending interception, which ended Texas A&M's final drive and secured the Panthers' victory. The Hancock Bowl win marked the end of another decade in Pitt football history and the dawn of the Hackett coaching era. The Panthers finished the 1989 season with an 8-3-1 record.

The following list was compiled from various sources during the summer of 1987 and has been updated and corrected annually since then. Although all cautions were taken to avoid errors, we do realize that names were most likely omitted due to the immensity of the task. If you have additions or find errors in the list, please contact the Media Relations Office. Active servers are in bold.

Pitt Stadium History

ANTHER BROWN
BLUE PANTHER

Pitt 2005

This final season will mark the 75th year of play in the venue that has served as the home of Panther football since 1925. Interestingly, it was not until the '25 season that Pitt football had a place to call its own.

From 1890 to 1908, Pitt (then known as Western University of Pennsylvania) played at various ballparks, including old Recreation Park and Exposition Park on Pittsburgh's North Side in the general vicinity of Three Rivers Stadium.

From 1909-1924, Pitt teams played at Forbes Field, the old home of the Pittsburgh Pirates. Forbes Quadrangle, which houses university classrooms and several departments, bordered by Roberto Clemente Drive, now stands on the old Forbes Field site.

Because of the great interest in Pitt football, Forbes Field's capacity of 32,000 grew to be inadequate in the early 1920s. The 15,000 alumni and 9,000 students, each of whom were entitled to two seats, left little space for the general public. This was especially true for the big games of the day against Washington & Jefferson, Carnegie Tech (now Carnegie Mellon University), Penn State, and West Virginia.

The vexing question of where to locate a new stadium was solved by the discovery of a practical land site, part of which belonged to the University, and the remainder of which lay immediately adjacent — nine acres of the Bailey Estate. In the summer of 1923, the Athletic Council bought this ground, turning it over to the Trustees of the University to become a part of the campus.

In November of 1924, the Trustees authorized a first mortgage bond issue of $2,100,000, the proceeds to be deposited with the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh as trustee, and to be used for the purchase of this site and the erection of the stadium. The sale of the bonds, which carried with them ticket buying privileges, was conducted by volunteer sponsors, including Jock Sutherland.

The campaign was a striking success, the entire issue being taken within nine days. At the end of that period, with subscriptions of more than a half million dollars, had to be returned.

The original stadium committee appointed by the Board of Trustees to oversee site selection, a bond sale, and construction included George H. Clapp, president; K. E. Davis, secretary; A. R. McClure, R. J. Keenan, W. Whetzel, and Floyd Rose, committee members.

W. S. Hindman, an 1896 graduate of the University's School of Engineering, was the chief engineer and designer of the stadium.

Construction began on Aug. 7, 1924, and was completed Sept. 3, 1925, less than four weeks before Pitt played Washington & Jefferson in the first game at the new stadium.

Jock Sutherland, while he was still head coach at Lafayette, had purchased several thousand dollars worth of bonds two years before the stadium was built. After he succeeded Pop Warner as Pitt's head coach, he proceeded to sell bonds to former teammates from his own playing days under Warner. He also actively promoted the bonds to other people in the Pittsburgh community.

The John F. Corliss Construction Company, the same firm that had built Penn's Franklin Field and Cornell's Schoellkopf Stadium, was the general contractor. The John F. Casey Company did the excavating work, the McEntock-Marshal Company did the steel work, and the New England Foundation Company provided the foundation. Pitt Stadium, which covers approximately nine acres, is 79 feet long and 67 feet wide, was originally configured to hold a capacity of 69,400, and the design permitted future double-decking, allowing provisions for another 30,000 seats to be added if desired.

A total of 2,700 tons of structural steel was used in setting up the bowl, as well as 1,000 tons of reinforced steel, and 20,000 cubic yards of concrete.

Unlike many of its contemporaries in the 1920s, which had been built to accommodate one or two sports, Pitt Stadium at the time of its construction was a unique multi-faceted venue. It housed nearly all of the University's nonaquatic sports: football, basketball, baseball, track, rifle and gymnastics. The basketball court in the Stadium Pavilion (which was located beneath the ramps inside Gate 2) served as Pitt's home from 1925 until 1951 when Fitzgerald Field House opened. While in use for home basketball games, it contained permanent seats at two ends, and temporary bleachers on the sides accommodating 4,000 people.

The Pittsburgh Steelers and Carnegie Tech have used Pitt Stadium as their home field at one time or another.

The stadium has undergone several significant changes, particularly within the past 20 years. In 1970 Astroturf became the playing surface replacing natural grass. A Superturf replaced the Astroturf in 1984. During the summer of 1990, a new Astroturf surface was installed.

One improvement that hit close to home with Panther supporters in the late 1970s was a change in seating structures from wood to metal benches, eliminating the splintery discomfort caused by some 17 miles of wood that had been subjected to a half century of the elements.

Pitt Stadium became a more efficient and attractive edifice in 1978, when a new coaching complex was opened. The two-floor office, reception, conference room, and workout area houses the entire football staff.

Improvements completed in 1990 included a video editing suite adjacent to the football administrative offices and the George Stewart Auditorium team meeting room directly above the weight room.

Lights were installed on a temporary basis for night games in 1985 and 1986. Pitt's first night game ever in the stadium was a thrilling 37-30 win over Purdue on August 31, 1985. Permanent lights were installed before the 1987 season.

The current lights consist of six standards — four on the home side of the field and two on the visitor's side — and range from 110-to 80-feet tall. Each pole contains 50 1,500 watt metal halide lighting fixtures. The system is designed to reduce glare and augment television depth perception.

Pitt Stadium's Duane Athletic Complex included primary expansion of the preexisting football facilities, including demolition of the stadium's interior from Gate A to Gate C. The project included the construction of a new and enlarged home locker room for 125 student athletes with a new player tunnel entrance to the field; training, weight and equipment rooms, and an injury rehabilitation area complete with a hydrotherapy pool.

The current scoreboard, visible atop the eastern end zone wall of Pitt Stadium, was installed before the 1995 season. Prior to the 1997 campaign the PantherVision videoboard was installed, giving Pittsburgh fans the luxury of instant replay and live football action.

Pittsburgh 24 • Fordham 13 October 29, 1938

Football games of the 1930s, like the wars of that period, were fierce struggles of strength and will waged over small patches of earth. Force drove headlong against force. Gains often came in feet and inches.

Such were the seven meetings between Pittsburgh and Fordham that took place between 1935-41.

The first three games of the series — played at the Polo Grounds in New York City — were defensive struggles that, amazingly, all ended in scoreless ties.

Those deadlocks set the stage for the 1938 meeting at Pitt Stadium, which attracted 68,918 fans. (Interestingly, the announced crowd that day was 75,000, but Frank Carver, then the Pitt publicity man, later admitted that the figure was exaggerated. The actual count of 68,918 still stands as the Pitt Stadium attendance record and also marks the most people ever to attend a sporting event in the city of Pittsburgh.)

Adding to the carryover drama of the three previous scoreless ties, Pittsburgh and Fordham both entered the 1938 game unbeaten. The Panthers were ranked as the number one team in the country with a 5-0 record. Fordham ranked third nationally with a 4-0 mark. Southern Methodist coach Marty Bell, whose Mustangs had fallen to Pitt, 34-7, the previous week, had said Pittsburgh was the finest team he had ever seen.

Fordham coach Jim Crowley, had he not been a believer before this contest, was fully convinced afterward. The Panthers exploded for 21 points in a stirring fourth quarter to defeat the Rams, 24-13.

"I knew the Panthers were great," said Crowley, "but now I have a better understanding of their greatness."

"Pitt gave an almost terrifying display of sheer smooth power," wrote Frank Graham in the New York Times. "Fordham's big and strong and superbly coached out of its own skin with a dash when the Panthers are on the switch."

But Dadone broke the may-famous losing drought with a first-quarter field goal to give the Panthers an early 3-0 lead. In the second quarter, Fordham used a Statue of Liberty play to set up a one-yard touchdown run and a 6-6 Ram advantage, but score remained until the fourth quarter.

Pittsburgh drove to the Fordham 22 as the third quarter expired. On the initial play of the fourth, the Panthers executed a beautiful half-back reverse pulled by Cassiano and Stebbins. Cassiano took a lateral and faked around the right end. Stebbins took a handoff from Cassiano and dashed around the other end, carrying it to the Fordham 8. Cassiano scored on the next play and Dadone converted for a 10-7 lead.

Two plays later, Pittsburgh's pass rush forced a critical Fordham mistake. Mike Hearn released a wild pass that teammate Mike Kuckel managed to grab. The only problem was that Kuckel was an ineligible receiver, which automatically gave Pitt the ball at the 25. That mistake opened the door to two short Goldberg touchdown runs that iced the game.

It was Pittsburgh's 22nd game without a loss, while it was Fordham's first loss in 12 games.

Pittsburgh 7 • Penn State 0 November 20, 1948

One of Pittsburgh's most satisfying victories in its long, colorful rivalry with Penn State remains largely forgotten in most accounts of the series. It was over 50 years ago — Nov. 20, 1948, when the 5-3 Panthers played host to the 7-0-1 Nittany Lions on a cool, dreary, overcast afternoon before a crowd of 51,075 witnesses at Pitt Stadium. The Lions, riding a 17-game unbeaten streak, were 19-point favorites. But when the final whistle blew and Penn State's standout back, ran Rogel was stopped cold at the Panthers one-yard line, Pitt fans who had lined the edges of the end zone during the final dramatic series, stormed the field and uprooted the goal posts in celebration of the Panthers' 7-0 victory.

"They'll hang out no football score across the country this year that will cause more eyebrows to be raised and more strong men to swoon than the one Pitt posted against Penn State at the Stadium yesterday," wrote sportswriter Chet Smith in the next day's Pittsburgh Press.

The game evolved into an epic defensive struggle, with the Panthers unable to mount any type of offense. Of Pitt's 65 rushing yards for the day, 40 came on a second-quarter run by halfback Jimmie Joe Robinson. The Lions outruled the Panthers 186 to 65, had 15 first downs to Pitt's four, and accumulated 240 yards of total offense to a paltry 77 for the home team.

Ed Kladan provided the havoc in Pittsburgh's last-minute victory over Homecoming '95B.

While Penn State sleep in its own territory, Petzel ducked back to his own 35 yard line and emptied a pass toward his tight end. But Skladany was able to deflect the ball, which Nick Boikova grabbed out of the air at the 23 yard line zigzagged his way to the game's only touchdown. Written accounts of the game credit Panther tackle Ralph Coleman with making the deflection, but it was actually Skladany who cruxed the ball toward Boikova.

On the Lions' final possession, a 17-yard pass interference call against Jimmie Joe Robinson gave Penn State a first down at Pitt's 22. Petcher completed a pass to Larry Cooney for a gain of 6, and followed it with a completion to Johnny Smolansky, who was stopped at the one-yard line.

Trail #26 at Pikes Peak was closed to hikers at 10:30 a.m. on Feb. 27 after just over 10 inches of snow. Kalden was at the helm, filling in for starter Ivan Tomic, who was injured earlier in the contest. Kaliden led the Panthers down the field, skillfully mixing the run with passes until they had gained a first-and-goal at the Irish six with 75 seconds left.

At this critical point the drive began to stall. First down saw fullback Jim Cunningham lunge ahead for three yards. On second down, Kaliden lost two yards back to the five. And on third down, Kaliden and halfback Dick Haley failed to connect on a pass.

It was fourth down and goal at the five yard line and 17 seconds remained.

A pass, conventional wisdom suggested, would be the ideal call in this situation. But Kalderin asked his own number — a quarterback keeper making the game's outcome on his shoulders.

Myron Cope, the longtime Pittsburgh Steelers radio color analyst, was a sportswriter for the Pittsburgh Post-Gazette in 1958 and covered the game. "I was all over the field looking for snapback and faced deep and wide — approximately 30 yards laterally — before planting for the corner flag," wrote Cope.

Following the ensuing kickoff, Notre Dame had time for one more play. A long pass was completed to the Panther 26 but time expired. Pitt's fans quickly rushed the field and tore the goal posts down within 20 seconds of the final whistle according to one newspaper account. A Pitt spokesman said the quirkiness of the posts demise marked a stadium record.

It was Kaeden's run, however, that dominated the headlines.

"I knew it was our last play, maybe the last play of the game," said Kaeden. "That play just had to work. We had to win this game. It would have been a terrible game to lose. I knew it was now or never."

Pittsburgh 22 • Penn State 21 December 7, 1963

Referred to in Panther football lore as the "No Bowl Team," Pittsburgh's '63 edition completed its regular season with a 9-1 record and a No. 3 national ranking. It finished out of the bowl picture, though, largely due to the postponement of this clash with Penn State.

The game had been scheduled for Nov. 23 but was postponed until Dec. 7 because of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. The Panthers shunned several bowls early after being promised by the Orange Bowl that a victory over Penn State would secure a berth. The delay, however, essentially caused the Orange Bowl to get cold feet and it instead chose Auburn to meet Nebraska.

Nevertheless, the '63 Penn State game—a 22-21 Panther victory—remains a classic between the two Keystone State schools and in the history of Pitt Stadium.

Quarterback Fred Mazurek was the sparkplug in the win, completing 7-of-13 passes for 106 yards and rushing for 142 more. Although he was nursing an injured hip that forced him to miss nearly the entire third quarter, his 17-yard punt late in the game tied the score with the subsequent extra point providing the winning points.

Penn State led 21-15 with under three minutes to play when Mazurek rolled to his right. Finding an opening, he took off, weaving his way through would-be tacklers, cutting back sharply and finally veeping into the end zone.

"My first option was to pass. When nothing came open I ran," explained Mazurek. "The interesting thing I remember about that play is that I became airborne. I kind of flew across the goal line."

Rick Lenson booted the extra point to put Pitt on top 22-21, and Mazurek even figured in on that play. "I was the holder for the extra point," he said. "I remember being so nervous my hands were shaking."

There was still 2:33 left on the clock and Penn State took advantage, driving to Pitt's 20. Panther fans held their breath as Penn State kicker Ron Coates came on the field to attempt what would be a game-winning 37-yard field goal.

Coates missed the kick, giving the Panthers control of the ball once again. Fortunately it was another Mazurek run, this one a nifty 27-yard number.

Pittsburgh had to rally from a 14-12 halftime deficit as Penn State's initial two scores were set up by a blocked punt and fumble recovery. Pittsburgh matched each Penn State touchdown as Mazurek led the Panthers on scoring drives of 46 and 80 yards. Paul Martha polished off the first drive with a short yardage touchdown bust and the second was capped by a Lenson one-yard run. In the game's final minutes, Lenson attempted a 30-yard field goal that fell just short.

Pittsburgh took its first lead of the game in the third quarter when Lenson scored a 45-yard field goal for a 15-14 lead. Penn State immediately stormed back with a touchdown drive setting the stage for Mazurek's late heroics.

Pittsburgh 36 • West Virginia 35 October 17, 1970

"Shew-shocked" was how Ralph Cindrich, a Pitt linebacker during the 1970 season, described the Panthers at halftime of this game with West Virginia.

Indeed, West Virginia had dominated the first 30 minutes of play, rolling to a 35-0 lead that prompted many in Pitt Stadium's Homecoming crowd of 44,479 to begin heading for the exits before the second half kickoff.

Senior punter Fred Mazurek tried a wild Pitt rally against West Virginia in 1970.

The guys on the team knew we could play with that West Virginia team," Cindrich said, "so it was a feeling of embarrassment."

That embarrassment provided the impetus for the now amazing comeback in the history of Pitt Stadium. The Panthers exploded in the second half running their way to a dramatic 36-35 victory.

Instead of resorting to a desperate pass-happy offense, Coach Carl DePascqua stuck to his running game that featured two tight ends and three running backs, and piled up 289 rushing yards, 181 of which came in the second half.

The ground attack was so potent that Pittsburgh ran a league-high 8 running plays compared to just 16 passes. Not surprisingly, Pitt's first four touchdowns came in the ground, including the first three scores in the second half.

After dominating the Mountaineer defense by controlling the ball up the gut all day, Pitt had the lead by a 30-0 score in the game.

"I remember running in the field and there was 16 left on the clock. Pittsburgh quarter back Dave Stewart exploded, and now I'm about game. Obviously in that huddle, though we were doing good."

For the rest of the game, it was about a minute at a time that Pitt took a drive and spent time to take the game. The game was over, and the game was over. The game was over, and the game was over. The game was over, and the game was over.

"I'll be playing for the rest of my life. I'll be playing for the rest of my life. I'll be playing for the rest of my life. I'll be playing for the rest of my life."

"But the thing that I'll be playing for is the thing that I'll be playing for. I'll be playing for the thing that I'll be playing for. I'll be playing for the thing that I'll be playing for. I'll be playing for the thing that I'll be playing for."

West Virginia did not give easily, reaching the 39-0 final score. The game was secure, though when Pitt's George Heber forced a fumble that was recovered by Panther defensive tackle John Stevens.

"During the second half of that game," said Havens, "we were the best team in the country."

Pittsburgh 34 - Notre Dame 20 November 15, 1975

In a career full of great games, Tony Dorsett's performance against the Irish in 1975 was perhaps his greatest. He ran for 305 yards and scored four touchdowns. He was named the Most Valuable Player of the game. He was also named the Most Valuable Player of the game. He was also named the Most Valuable Player of the game.

Trillined against a bright blue November sky on Saturday, the game was a classic. The game was a classic. The game was a classic. The game was a classic. The game was a classic.

For the record, Dorsett topped even the legendary Marion Motley. He ran for 305 yards and scored four touchdowns. He was named the Most Valuable Player of the game. He was also named the Most Valuable Player of the game.

For the record, Dorsett topped even the legendary Marion Motley. He ran for 305 yards and scored four touchdowns. He was named the Most Valuable Player of the game. He was also named the Most Valuable Player of the game.

Dorsett's superb run offensive performance led the Panthers to a 34-20 win, their first victory over the Irish in 12 years.

Pittsburgh received the opening kickoff and on downs. He started in 4 yards. Two plays later he ripped off a 57-yard gain to the 41-yard line, setting up a touchdown play by quarterback Dave Kavanaugh.

After Notre Dame scored a field goal on its first possession, the Irish recovered a fumble on the ensuing kick, and went up 10-0 on a late field goal by Rick Slagel.

It was Pittsburgh's only deficit of the day. On its next series, Dorsett ripped off a dazzling 71-yard touchdown run. After one quarter he had an astonishing 148 yards on just five carries.

In the middle periods Dorsett was asked up for 28 yards on seven tries. In the second quarter, though, he took a hard pass off the line and went 49 yards for a second 100-yard game. The Panthers led 24-10.

With Pittsburgh entering the third quarter leading 20-10, Dorsett rushed for 28 more yards on seven carries. He gained 51 yards on the Panther's final touchdown drive, capped by a one-yard run by Kavanaugh that provided the final 14-point margin.

He was finished a day later, the Sun Bowl, for the Panthers, where they defeated Kansas 33-9, setting the stage for their run to the national championship the following season.

"I never dreamed I'd get 300 yards against Notre Dame," Dorsett said afterward.

Pitt Stadium

"Beating Notre Dame is a thrill in itself. I can't find words to express how I feel right now. This is a big win for me, a big win for Pitt. Now people will realize Pitt is for real."

"It was the most outstanding performance I've ever seen," Pittsburgh head coach John Majors said during the post-game locker room celebration scene. "I've never come close to seeing a back in a key ball game like this be so superb. In fact, superb is not an adequate adjective."

In four meetings with Notre Dame, Dorsett compiled 754 yards rushing. It is the highest total ever by one back against the Irish and an NCAA record for individual rushing yards against a four-year opponent.

Dorsett would have to wait a year for the Heisman Trophy. But to those who witnessed his performance in Pitt Stadium that November afternoon, there was not a better back in the country that season, or ever.

Pittsburgh 10 - Penn State 0 November 14, 1987

The Pittsburgh-Penn State series is filled with many thrilling games and moments. The 1987 contest played at Pitt was, however, hands out as winning one of the most dramatic conclusions in the series history.

Special teams had played a major role in the prior years' contests at State College. In that game, Pittsburgh had led 7-0 when a 9 yard kickoff return by Penn State changed the momentum of the game and resulted in a 34-14 win victory.

The 10-0 lead and the kickoff return in particular led Pittsburgh head coach Mike Gottfried to make special teams an emphasis during the off-season.

Pittsburgh's special teams game with the Penn State 1987 game at Majors.

On this evening it paid dividends. Pittsburgh blocked two field goals and deflected a punt as it outlasted Penn State in a titanic defensive struggle 10-0. It was Pittsburgh's first shut out of Penn State since 1945 and its first win in the series at Pitt Stadium since 1965.

"Last year when we walked off the field against Miami and Penn State, Gottfried said following the game, 'special teams were the thing that helped beat us. For special teams coach Scott O'Brien and our other coaches, special teams were a big thing tonight. Those blocked field goals made the difference."

Pittsburgh capped its first possession with a 44 yard field goal by Jeff Van Horne with 10:25 left in the first quarter. There would be the game's only points brought until the final minute of play.

Not even both teams' lineups and could not block any punts. Midway through the second quarter Penn State intercepted a punt at the Pitt 30. The Pitt safety Tony Insured to clip for a yard and the punt rolled and fell 20 yards to a 20-yard field goal. Defensive back Gary Kilham jump up with the punt up, hands up by coming off the line and blocking the kick.

In the fourth quarter Penn State again threatened, advancing to the Pittsburgh 20. But the drive failed, a yard away points as a 26-yard field goal was blocked by Pittsburgh's linebacker with a 5 left.

"We just couldn't make anything happen and Penn State coach Joe Paterno. 'We couldn't make the big play."

Penn State had one more opportunity with a 3 left, still trailing 4-0. The Nittany Lions drove from their own 26 in the fourth 36. With 20 seconds remaining, Penn State's Matt Krizner faded back and fired to the left sideline. But Pittsburgh safety Billy Owens broke on the ball perfectly, intercepting the pass and sprinting 69 yards untouched into the end zone for the game's thrilling and only touchdown.

Owens was greeted by students and teammates as well as Mike Gottfried, who had sprinted down the sideline himself and ended up in the celebration pile.

T overplayed the play and the quarterback never saw me," said Owens, who began to hold the ball up in celebration as soon as he blazed past Krizner at midfield. "I started to celebrate a little early."

Pitt Stadium

Construction started in 1988.

Steel work completed in March, 1990.

Stadium officially opened September 1, 1991.

Overshadowed by the defensive and special teams play was the battle between two of the nation's top running backs. Pittsburgh'sraig "Ironhead" Heyward and Penn State's Blaine Thomas. Heyward finished with 62 yards on 32 carries, his 10th straight 100-yard rushing effort. Thomas was not set up for 8 yards on 27 attempts. Pittsburgh held a 303-229 advantage in total yards.

Pittsburgh 21 • Miami 17 September 18, 1997

It had been more than a decade since Pittsburgh's nationally dominating season in 1986 when the Panthers defeated the Miami Hurricanes leading up to the 1997 encounter at Pitt Stadium. In between were eight straight Panther losses in what was dubbed the Orange Bowl Disappointment.

Pittsburgh, however, was under the fresh new leadership of Bill Cowher. After a December 1996 week 10 defeat to the Ravens, coaching at Pittsburgh seemed to be the new leadership was paying early dividends as Pittsburgh was off to a strong 2-1 start. Still, the Panthers entered the game as 15-point underdogs.

The game's atmosphere was often subdued as would be a typical night. Although a nationally televised ESPN Tuesday night game, it was Pittsburgh's homecoming. Moreover, at halftime the jerseys of three former Panther players running back Marshall Jackson, linebacker Jon Johnson and QB Mike Ditka were being retired.

In the end, those jerseys were mere footnotes to the end result. Achieving what one observer called its most important college football victory in years, Pittsburgh shored Miami.

The heroes? There were many. But one person stood out — quarterback Pete Gonzalez, himself a Miami native who was overlooked by his hometown school coming out of Coral Park High five years earlier.

Gonzalez had made just five career starts prior to the '99 season. But under Harris, a renowned teacher of quarterbacks, he came into his own. Gonzalez completed 19-of-33 passes for 187 yards and rushed for 63 more. He had a hand in each of Pittsburgh's three scores, throwing for two TDs and rushing for a 12-yard score at the end of the third quarter that proved to be the game-winner.

The game did not begin well for Pittsburgh as over a minute into the contest Miami's John Elway took a 34-yard pass and fired a 50-yarder to a tight end, 250-pounder and wide receiver who gave the early lead with a four-yard scoring strike. The early extra point, which was attempted from the 37-yard line due to a Panther unsportsmanlike conduct penalty, went wide.

Early in the second period Gonzalez led the Panthers on a nine-play, 70-yard 24-yard drive that ended with a 30-yard drive to wide receiver Tyrone Slaughter took a 40-yard pass in for a successful two-point conversion to give Pittsburgh a 14-0 edge. Miami led the game in the third quarter as a 34-yard pass before Gonzalez made his decisive 10 run as the period expired.

The final quarter was not hot on either side. Miami kicked a 19-yard field goal with 10:17 left to play with the Panthers looking like it was made or in the game mounting a drive that would have brought the Miami 17 with a 40-yard. But Pittsburgh fumbled, giving Miami one last hope.

The Hurricanes moved in the Panther 34 where they lined four hand-five Miami quarterback Ryan Clement faded back one last time. Panther linebacker Eric Kasperson blitzed off the right corner and temporarily had him in his grasp. But Clement broke free, scooped up in the pocket and fled across the middle. John Jenkins, who recently made his return after a knee surgery, duck around the intended receiver and got the slightest of contact on the ball, deflecting it upward. Jenkins then grabbed the free ball and advanced toward the now celebrating Panther sideline before willingly falling on the ground.

Pittsburgh's victory set the stage for a Cinderella season as the Panthers went on to earn their first bowl berth since 1989.

The Duratz Athletic Complex

The Duratz Athletic Complex named in honor of Jim and Helene Duratz and completed in 1995 included primary expansion of the preceeding football facilities including demolition of the stadium's interior from Gate A to Gate C. The project included the construction of a new and enlarged home locker room for 25 student athletes with a new player tunnel entrance to the field; new training, weight and equipment rooms; and a modern injury rehabilitation area complete with a hydrotherapy pool.

The showpiece of the project was Pittsburgh's impressive player entrance that is through a portion of the Section 400 seating area. This glass and steel entrance tunnel leads to the player locker room and a corridor which serves as a hallway passage throughout the entire football complex.

Eiseman-Prussin Room

In 1988, the University of Pittsburgh dedicated a multipurpose room inside Gate 2 of the stadium as the Eiseman-Prussin Conference Room in memory of Edwin M. Eiseman, a 1967 Pitt graduate. George J. Prussin, who contributed $75,000 to the Cost Sports Center, wanted, in some way, "to honor and sustain the memory" of Eiseman. In addition to other events, Pittsburgh's weekly and postgame press conferences are held in this room.

A 1967 graduate and a member of Pitt's baseball team, Prussin became friendly with Eiseman through the Phi Epsilon Pi Fraternity and through intercollegiate sports. Eiseman died of Hodgkin's disease in 1969.

Stewart Auditorium

The George W. Stewart Auditorium, dedicated May 1, 1991, was completed in summer 1990 and is used for team meetings and viewing game video.

Equipped with state-of-the-art video and audio systems, the Stewart Auditorium has three individual viewing rooms overlooking the spacious auditorium and balcony, which is capable of seating an entire football squad. The raised stage in front of the auditorium makes the facility perfect for lectures and press conferences.

The Stewart Auditorium has served as a game theater for the Pittsburgh football team since 1990. In addition to the auditorium, the facility has open recreation areas which are used by multiple viewing groups.

The Charles L. Cost Center

Another complex available to the football team is the Charles L. Cost Sports Center. This indoor athletic complex is used as an indoor workout facility for the football team. Charles L. Cost, a running back and three-sport athlete at Pittsburgh in the mid-1950s, donated in excess of $1 million toward construction of the the complex, which sits atop a seven-story parking garage (Towerview Garage).

The Cost Center contains a regulation-sized football field with an artificial playing surface and has been a valuable resource for not only the football team, but many of the other Panther sports teams as well.

PantherVision

Since 1991 the University of Pittsburgh's award-winning PantherVision instant replay video screen has provided Pitt fans with added excitement and entertainment to their football game day experience.

This past year, PantherVision, which operates under the direction of Gene Warman Production Services, received the prestigious Aegis Award of Excellence. Warman also received the Communicator Award for his 1998 Panther football highlight film.

The Pittsburgh Athletic Department installed the new instant-replay video screen before the '97 season at Pitt Stadium. The display measures 17-feet-by-23-feet and incorporates the latest in LCD video technology for outstanding applications.

This was the first installation of this new technology in the United States at a collegiate football facility. The display is provided by Optic North America of San Ramon, Calif.

The Optic LCD terminology features many advantages over traditional video displays, including enhanced color consistency, high brightness, improved resolution, greater viewing angles, low power consumption, increased reliability and better overall picture quality. PantherVision operates on game day with four cameras giving fans a network quality broadcast on the screen.

One PantherVision fan, Ron van Munching, who has been attending games at Pitt Stadium since the Panthers' 1976 national championship season, "It gives you the best of both worlds. You can sit in the stadium and enjoy the whole atmosphere of a game while at the same time look at the video board to get instant replays and see things up close."

Chancellor and the University of

As Chancellor and Executive Officer of the University of Pittsburgh, Mark A. Nordenberg leads one of the nation's leading public research universities and one of the oldest institutions of higher learning west of the Allegheny Mountains. Reflecting his own strong feelings, Nordenberg says, "This University has both a proud past and an exciting present, and it has a bright future."

Founded as a log cabin academy at the edge of the American frontier in 1787 and private through most of its history, Pitt became a state-related university in 1956. Today, the University of Pittsburgh system consists of its 42 annual campus located in the Oakland section of Pittsburgh and regional campuses in Bradford, Greensburg, Johnstown and Titusville. Its 9,600 employees, including 3,800 faculty members, serve more than 42,000 students through the programs of 18 undergraduate, graduate and professional schools.

According to Chancellor Nordenberg, "None of the University's many missions is more important than the development of our student students. We strive to give them all the chance to be the best that they can be in everything they do. In the process, we know that some of them will become among the best that anyone can be. During this past year, Pitt students won National Science Foundation Fellowships and both Goldwater and Udell Scholarships. They earned national recognition as inventors and innovators. Our undergraduate teams were among the country's best in competitions ranging from high-level mathematics to policy debate to bridge-building. Graduate students won national awards for their research for the quality of their dissertations, and for play writing.

With that kind of foundation upon which to build, it is not surprising that Pitt's graduates also have made a mark in the world. The University's nearly 200,000 living alumni have distinguished themselves in virtually every worthy field of human endeavor, close to home and in more distant parts of the globe. The Pitt Alumni Association has been an extremely active partner in forging institutional progress.

The June, 1998 issue of Pitt Magazine included an article entitled "25 Ways Pitt Has Changed the World." Not intended to be comprehensive, the author's list of "quintessential discoveries and bold innovations" briefly describes the direct links between the University and events ranging from the publication of the first American novel, to adding numbers to football jerseys, to the flight of the first heavier-than-air craft, to the desegregation of the Sugar Bowl, to the development of the first polio vaccine, to the identification and synthesis of vitamin C, to the development of the heart pill, to the launching of the genetic revolution, to the creation of the world's busiest organ transplant center, to providing a home for the world's most powerful academically-based computer.

The University of Pittsburgh has gained international recognition for the quality of its programs in disciplines as diverse as philosophy and transplantation surgery. It is a member of the Association of American Universities, a by invitation-only organization comprised of the top research universities in North America. The University is home to 5 major research centers and now attracts more than $300 million in annual sponsored project support.

Though considerably smaller than most of America's other leading public research universities, Pitt regularly ranks among the nation's top twenty universities both in funding for science and engineering development and in overall support from private philanthropic foundations. Reflecting its special strength in medical research, Pitt is consistently among the top dozen universities nationally in terms of annual research support competitively awarded by the National Institutes of Health. In fact, the University of Pittsburgh ranked first nationally in terms of the percentage growth of its NIH funding base between 1984 and 1995.

The University of Pittsburgh has a proud tradition of pioneering work in international education and research — publicly symbolized by the Nationality Rooms of the Cathedral of Learning. Our University Center for International Studies has been widely acclaimed for its effectiveness in promoting global outreach in today's complex world. All four of its area studies programs — Asian, Latin American, Russian and East European, and West European — have been competitively designated "national resource centers" by the U.S. Department of Education. Its International Management Center has earned that same designation. During the past year the University was selected as the site of one of ten European Union Centers to be located at North American universities.

The past year also brought many other forms of institutional progress on broad-ranging fronts. They include the recruitment of the most academically talented freshman class in the University's history, the adoption of the University's first billion-dollar budget, and yet another upgrade in our institutional bond rating. It also was a record-setting year for fundraising, with total voluntary support up nearly 60% compared to four years ago and with the University receiving both the largest foundation gift and the largest gift from individuals in its history.

The University now is in the early stages of its most ambitious program of construction and renovation in at least a quarter century. Projects include new residence halls, academic buildings and recreation facilities benefitting all five Pitt campuses. In Oakland, the next few years will bring a dramatic expansion in campus residence halls, the renovation and conversion of the landmark Masonic Temple, the construction of a new academic center, capital projects benefiting the Hillman Library and the University Library System, and the long-awaited construction of the John W. and Gertrude E. Petersen Events Center. According to Nordenberg, "Though many people, quite understandably, seem focused principally on new developments Downtown and on the North Shore, an equally exciting renaissance has begun in Oakland, which remains the educational, medical and cultural capital of this region."

A committed citizen of the region and long-term member of the University community, Chancellor Nordenberg joined the Pitt law faculty in 1977. He served as Dean of the School of Law from 1985 until 1993. He also has served the University as Interim Provost and Senior Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs. In 1994, he was elevated to the special faculty rank of Distinguished Service Professor of Law. The University's Board of Trustees elected him Interim Chancellor in 1995 and Chancellor in 1996.

Reflecting his strong personal commitment to the University's instructional mission, Chancellor Nordenberg is an award-winning teacher himself. In 1986, he was honored as the initial recipient of the Excellence-in-Teaching Award, an award now presented annually by the Student Bar Association of the School of Law. In 1985, he was one of the first recipients of the Chancellor's Distinguished Teaching Award, recognizing teaching excellence University-wide. His area of scholarly specialty can be described broadly as civil litigation. He has published books, articles and reports in that area. While Dean of our Law School, he served as one of only two academic members of the United States Supreme Court's Advisory Committee on Civil Rules and as the only academic member of the Pennsylvania Supreme Court's Civil Procedural Rules Committee.

Today, Chancellor Nordenberg is involved in an incredibly broad range of civic activities. They include membership on the boards of directors of the Allegheny Conference on Economic Development, the Carnegie Museums of Pittsburgh, the Greater Pittsburgh Council of the Boy Scouts of America, the Pennsylvania Association of Colleges and Universities, the Pittsburgh Council on Higher Education, the Pittsburgh Regional Alliance, the Pittsburgh Technology Council, the United Way of Allegheny County, the UPMC Health System, the Urban League of Pittsburgh and the World Affairs Council of Pittsburgh. Chancellor Nordenberg also serves as Chairperson of the Bionnair Jesse Owens Global Award Committee of the International Amateur Athletic Association, Inc. and is a Director of the Mellon Bank Corporation.

Chancellor Nordenberg recently completed two important civic assignments: as co-chair of a special legislative commission studying the problems of Pennsylvania's urban schools and as chair of an oversight committee on workforce development for Southwestern Pennsylvania. In 1997, Chancellor Nordenberg was honored as "Person of the Year in Education" by Factors Pittsburgh. In 1998, based upon a poll of 1,800 corporate and civic leaders, that same group selected him as Pittsburgh's overall "Person of the Year." Earlier this year, he was named one of Pittsburgh Magazine's "Pittsburghers of the Year" for his role as a policymaker and "champion of regionalism."

Born in Duluth, Minnesota, Chancellor Nordenberg was educated at Thiel College and the University of Wisconsin Law School. He is married to Dr. Nikki Pirillo Nordenberg, who earned her Ph.D. at Pitt. According to her husband, Dr. Nordenberg is "the world's greatest wife and mother." She also maintains an active counseling practice and is involved in a broad range of University and community activities. The Nordensbergs have three children — Erin (25), Carl (19) and Michael (16) — all of whom are primary and middle school graduates of the University's Falk School.

Visitors to Steve Pederson's office will notice many eye-catching mementos. The keepsakes were mostly of a sentimental value, nevertheless tell a lot about the man who is leading a dramatic resurgence in the University of Pittsburgh's athletic department.

There are a few examples of gifts that have been given to him as well as the ones that he has given away. One of the most interesting is a baseball glove that he received from a former player of the Pittsburgh Pirates. It is a glove that he has used for many years and it is a reminder of the many years he has spent in the game.

But perhaps the most interesting is a shell that he received from a friend. It is a shell that he has kept for many years and it is a reminder of the many years he has spent in the game. It is a shell that he has kept for many years and it is a reminder of the many years he has spent in the game.

It has been with this mind set that Pederson has directed Pittsburgh's athletic department over the last three years. Armed with reboiling energy and dedication, Pederson has charted an ambitious course for Pittsburgh athletics. A course that is intent on uniting the Panthers into a new era of athletic excellence.

"At times, it feels like I'm hanging on just trying to keep up with him," Chancellor Mark Nordenberg said. "My high hopes for him have been further solidified by his performance. What a wonderful man."

"Steve Pederson is a bright, go-get em kind of guy," said CBS sportscaster Sean McDonough. "And nobody in college sports is going to out work him."

This past year, Pederson was at the forefront of perhaps the most ambitious year in the history of Panther athletics. Among the many exciting developments he helped initiate:

- The vision of a bold new Pitt campus with the development of the JOHN M. AND GERTRUDE E. PETERSEN EVENTS CENTER. This venue, which will be built on the present site of Pitt Stadium, will be the home of Pittsburgh's men's and women's basketball teams and dramatically improve student life with improved recreational facilities, student housing and green space.

■ Arming Pittsburgh's football team with the finest facilities in the country with the creation of the UPMC SPORTS MEDICINE AND PERFORMANCE COMPLEX, a state-of-the-art practice venue that will be operational in August of 2000 and the city's new downtown stadium, which will become the Panthers' new home beginning in 2001.

■ A reconstruction of FITZGERALD FIELD HOUSE that provides Pittsburgh's Olympic football stadium with power and training facilities unavailable to any other in the country, and, in addition, the home of Panther baseball, which is expected to be completed.

Recognizing Chancellor Nordenberg and his administrative team's opportunities to use Nebraska's native resources, traditions and values within the department of the university, Pittsburgh's Chancellor would have given us the green light.

Pederson anticipates the best results to happen in Pittsburgh in the next few decades will be the growth in getting the same support and effort that Richard May found energy and full results.

"Our biggest goal is to establish a program that is truly for the athletic program," Pederson said. "The program has been driven by actions every day. Now we can all work and interact with each other."

"Our motto boils down to three words that are the strength of daily commitment, teamwork and pride. Those are the ingredients that will help us develop the best athletic program in the Big East conference."

Always with an eye on the best interests of Pittsburgh student athletes, Pederson has implemented various programs as the Panther Game Plan, which is aimed at their academic, athletic, personal and professional development.

No collegiate athlete in the country is better outfitted than Pittsburgh's as a result of a lucrative footwear and apparel partnership formed by Pederson with adidas and Champion. The adidas partnership, one of only five alliances adidas has with college athletes programs, the other four include Notre Dame, Tennessee, Nebraska and Northwestern, provides footwear for all Pittsburgh athletes. Champion provides all on-the-field apparel for the Pittsburgh football team and serves as the sole supplier for the football team uniforms.

Additionally, Pederson enlisted the talents of Peter Moore, one of the world's top figures in sports marketing and image, to create the new Pittsburgh Panthers logo and color scheme. The dynamic Panther logo and standardized blue and gold colors have been adopted by all of the university's 19 intercollegiate sports.

Pederson's administration has witnessed a renewed commitment to Pittsburgh fans, evidenced by the many fan-friendly initiatives he has set in motion. Expanded Panther tailgate on game days have added to the pleasure of attending an athletic contest at the University of Pittsburgh.

"My perception was that we used to wait for people to come to us," Pederson said. "Now we're trying to reach out. We want to make it easier and more enjoyable for fans to watch Panther athletic events. We've realized if they come once, they will want to keep coming back. Pittsburgh is the greatest sports town in America and it deserves great college football. That's what we're dedicated to giving this city."

Named Pittsburgh's 10th athletic director by Chancellor Nordenberg on Oct. 28, 1996, Pederson served the previous 2 1/2 years as the associate athletic director at the University of Nebraska. As the Cornhuskers' associate director of athletics and director of football operations, he oversaw one of the most successful football programs in the country.

Pederson also was instrumental in a fundraising plan that helped build a $36 million skybox and press box addition to Nebraska's Memorial Stadium. He additionally directed the renovation of the Athletic Medicine Center, locker room, player lounge, halftime meeting space and Hall of Honor areas in the current athletic facilities.

Prior to Nebraska, Pederson joined the Tennessee football staff in 1994 as head coach Johnny Majors' recruiting coordinator. A year later he was promoted to assistant athletic director for recruiting and then was elevated to associate athletic director for football operations in the spring of 1995. In three seasons at UT the Volunteers' recruiting classes were regarded among the top three in the country. The Volunteers' 1996 class was widely heralded as the best in the nation.

Pederson also served as the recruiting coordinator at Ohio State from 1989 through 1991 and helped rebuild the Buckeyes into the perennial power that they are today.

A native of North Platte, Neb., Pederson graduated from Nebraska in 1980 with a degree in business administration. He began his collegiate athletic career as an assistant sports information director at Nebraska. In 1982 he joined coach Tom Osborne's staff as recruiting coordinator and administrative assistant.

Pederson and his wife Tamr have three children: Mark, 16; Kar, 13; and Kristin, 10. Tamr is a professional violinist who played with the Pittsburgh, Omaha, Lincoln and Knoxville symphonies. She currently plays with symphonies, operas and quartets in Wiscorn, Pennsylvania and also teaches private violin lessons in Oak Chapel.

Marc Boehm

Executive Associate Athletic Director

Marc Boehm enters his third year as executive associate athletic director at Pittsburgh, where he assists Athletic Director Steve Padernon in the day-to-day administrative functions of the department. Boehm joined Pittsburgh in 1997 after spending the prior five years as associate executive director of the Tostitos Fiesta Bowl, one of college football's most prestigious postseason games.

Among Boehm's responsibilities in his current capacity is overseeing aspects of the football and men's basketball programs, including game scheduling. Additionally, Boehm is heavily involved in planning for the John M. and Gertrude E. Petersen Events Center, a venue which will dramatically affect student life on campus and be the home of the Panthers' men's and women's basketball programs. The center is expected to be ready for the 2002 season. Boehm has also played an integral role in the planning for the upcoming UPMC Sports Medicine and Performance Complex, which will house the Panther football program.

While with the Fiesta Bowl, Boehm was instrumental in building the community and marketing programs. He also helped pioneer the Fiesta Bowl's move into the Bowl Alliance (renamed the Championship Series) and worked consistently with the collegiate community in the operation of the game and its 40 other community events. He directed and managed a 125-member fund raising committee, composed of Arizona business leaders, which was responsible for generating more than $4.5 million in cash and in-kind partnerships.

Boehm also worked directly with the Fiesta Bowl Board of Directors and executive director on various projects to enhance the event's overall image in concert with the City of Phoenix and Tempe officials.

Prior to joining the Fiesta Bowl, Boehm served as associate director and public relations director of the Sun Bowl from 1987-91, coordinating the media relations and publicity initiatives for the Sun Bowl's 12 major events. From 1986-87 he was a sports information assistant at the University of Florida.

A 1984 graduate of Kansas State, Boehm, a Topeka, Kan., native, earned his master's degree from St. Thomas University in Miami, Fla., in 1985. He and his wife Janette have two sons, Broderick (7) and Christian (5).

Carol Sprague

Senior Associate Athletic Director

Carol Sprague, who holds the longest tenure of any athletic department administrator, has been at the forefront of many initiatives and positive developments during her University of Pittsburgh career.

As senior associate athletic director, Sprague is responsible for the oversight of facilities and operations, 15 intercollegiate Olympic sports programs and equipment services at Pittsburgh. During this past year, Sprague oversaw the construction of new locker rooms, training rooms and an equipment complex in Fitzgerald Field House. The renovations place the Panthers' locker facilities among the best in the country. The complex, which is a combination of new space and renovated space, will house all of Pittsburgh's teams except football and women's tennis.

During her tenure, Pittsburgh teams have won 31 Big East Conference championships. Individual student-athlete honors during that time include numerous All-Americans and Big East champions as well as several Olympians and NCAA national champions.

Sprague, who is very active in NCAA affairs, has been selected to serve on the NCAA Women's Basketball Committee beginning with the 1999-2000 academic year. The committee is responsible for the selection of the NCAA Women's Basketball Championship field, tournament sites, tournament format, marketing and television relationships. Prior to serving on the committee, Sprague served on the NCAA Management Council, the NCAA Council, the NCAA Administrative Committee and the NCAA Playing and Practice Sessions Committee. She additionally has extensive experience on various Big East Conference administrative and sports committees.

Sprague began her career with Pittsburgh in 1974 as an assistant swimming coach. Since that time she has served in several different capacities, including coordinator of student affairs for student athletes, assistant athletics director for women's sports and associate athletics director.

A graduate of Slippery Rock University, Sprague earned her bachelor's degree in health and physical education in 1972 and a master's degree in education administration in 1974. A member of the Rockets' swimming team, she was an NCAA national championship qualifier.

Sprague additionally had a 22-year career with the Pittsburgh Debs softball team. As a player, Sprague was a member of two United States Softball Association World Championship teams and as a coach, she led the Debs to five national top-20 finishes. She was inducted into the Penn Hills Sports Hall of Fame in 1992 and was the 1993 recipient of the Women in Sports Lifetime Achievement Award awarded by the Greater Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. This past May, Sprague was inducted to the Western Pennsylvania Sports Hall of Fame.

Donna DeMarino Sanft

Associate Athletic Director/Student Life and Compliance

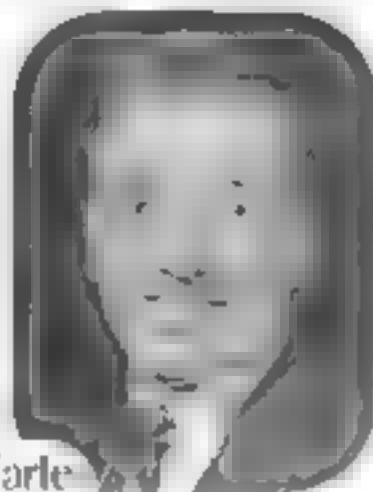

Donna DeMarino Sanft is an associate athletic director for the University of Pittsburgh. She has been at the University of Pittsburgh Athletic Center since 1990. In this role, she oversees the role of athletic programs, such as compliance, the Sanft is responsible for directing and overseeing the role of athletic programs, such as compliance, the Pittsburgh's compliance and NCAA rules education and program administration. She is also a member of the student-athlete life skills program. Additionally, Sanft is the administrative contact for the Panthers' women's basketball program and oversees the grants. She is also a member of the Big East Legislative Committee.

While coaching the Panthers' gymnastics team for 2 years (1974-1986), Sanft compiled an 81-40 record and was twice selected as the Eastern Collegiate Coach of the Year. During her tenure, she helped produce Pittsburgh's only NCAA champion in women's gymnastics, Lisa Shirk.

A 1974 graduate of Pittsburgh with bachelor's and master's degrees in physical education, Sanft was a member and three-year captain of the gymnastics team. She was named Pittsburgh's Female Scholar-Athlete of the Year in 1974.

She and her husband Elliott have two daughters, Liza (19) and Leah (16).

Jim Earle

Associate Athletic Director/Business, Finance and Personnel

Jim Earle, associate athletic director for business, finance and personnel, begins his seventh year with the Pittsburgh Athletic Department.

Earle initially joined Pittsburgh as assistant director of varsity sports. He later was appointed assistant athletic director for football operations, a capacity he served in for two years, before being named assistant athletic director for game day marketing and merchandising in 1999. He assumed his current position in February 1998.

Earle is responsible for the athletic department's fiscal affairs. He supervises the day-to-day activities of the athletic business and personnel services office, which oversees the athletic department's fiscal affairs. He oversees the athletic department's licensing and merchandising program and coordinates game day presentation for football and men's basketball.

Prior to joining Pittsburgh, Earle was a buyer at Kaufmann's Department Store for five years. He received his bachelor's degree in marketing from Miami (Ohio) in 1988 and his MBA from Pittsburgh in 1995.

He and his wife Heather have two sons, Andrew (3) and Jason (2).

Kirk Bruce

Assistant Athletic Director/Olympic Sports

Kirk Bruce is in his second year as assistant athletic director for Olympic sports, but his association with the University dates back much further.

In his current capacity, Bruce oversees the day-to-day operations of Pittsburgh's Olympic sports.

Bruce previously served as the Panthers' head women's basketball coach for 13 years from 1985-1998. His coaching career was highlighted by the 1992-93 season in which the Panthers produced their first 20-win season (21-10) and finished third in the Women's National Invitation Tournament. Bruce coached numerous Big East All-Conference players as well as two Kodak All-American honorable mention players in Janna Huemrich and Lorri Johnson during his tenure.

A standout point guard at Pittsburgh from 1971-75, Bruce was a member of the Panthers 1974 team that finished 25-4 and advanced to the NCAA East Regional finals. He was drafted by the Utah Stars of the former American Basketball Association (ABA). When the league disbanded, he returned to Pittsburgh to begin his coaching career as an assistant for the Panthers. Bruce was later promoted to the head women's coaching position prior to the 1981-82 season.

Bruce and his wife Marleen have three daughters, Chelsea (17), Carmen (15) and Courtney (12).

Athletic Administration

Rex Hough

Assistant Athletic Director/Marketing

Rex Hough, assistant athletic director for marketing, begins his ninth year with the Pittsburgh Athletic Department.

Hough is responsible for the creative marketing for the athletic department's ticket operation and the development and maintenance of the Panthers corporate partner program. Hough is additionally heavily involved in ticket sales for the 2001 football season, which will be the Panthers' first in the new downtown football stadium.

Hough joined Pittsburgh as assistant ticket manager in 1990. He was elevated to ticket manager in 1993 before assuming his current position.

Prior to joining Pittsburgh, Hough did similar work as the administrative assistant in the ticket office at the United States Military Academy.

Hough, a 1986 graduate of West Virginia University, earned his bachelor's degree in business administration.

He and his wife Jill reside in North Versailles.

Dr. Ron Brown

Assistant Athletic Director/Director of Academic Support Services for Student-Athletes
Assistant to the Provost

Dr. Ron Brown, currently in his ninth year as academic support services director, joined the Pittsburgh Athletic Department in 1993.

As director of academic support services, Brown oversees the operations of academic and personal development programs that benefit Pittsburgh's student-athletes. In addition, Brown serves as an assistant to the Provost and acts as a liaison between the athletic department and the academic community concerning the interests of student-athletes.

Prior to his appointment to Pittsburgh, Brown served as the director of academic counseling at Oklahoma State from 1988-93.

Brown is a member of the National Association of Academic Advisors for Athletics and has served on the executive board for the last six years, including a one-year stint as president from '93-'98. Additionally, Brown visits other campuses and performs assessments to help certify Division I institutions as an NCAA peer reviewer.

A native of Pawhuska, Okla., Brown graduated from Oklahoma City University in 1974 with a bachelor's degree in physical education and was a basketball letterman his junior and senior years. He then went on to earn his master's degree in adult learning and sports management at Central Oklahoma University in 1981. He received his doctorate's degree in 1988 from Oklahoma State in higher education and sports management.

In 1987, Brown became one of the first recipients of the Chancellor's Award for Excellence for staff employees.

John Majors

Special Assistant to the Athletic Director and Chancellor

John Majors, who orchestrated one of the most dramatic turnarounds in college football history when he directed the University of Pittsburgh to the 1976 national championship, enters his third year as Special Assistant to the Chancellor and Athletic Director.

In his current capacity, Majors serves as a Panther "ambassador of good will," representing the University at various team Pittsburgh Four Inns as well as alumni events.

During his illustrious 28-year head coaching career, Majors compiled 185 victories, which ranked 21st all-time in NCAA history upon his retirement. He coached 25 All-Americans, including such Pitt luminaries as Tony Dorsett (the 1976 Heisman Trophy winner), Al Romano, Matt Cavanaugh, Gordon Jones and Ruben Brown. Also under his tutelage were 23 NFL first-round draft selections.

The trademark of his coaching career was his ability to elevate football programs to new heights, which he accomplished not only at Pittsburgh but also at Iowa State and Tennessee. He was twice named National Coach of the Year and also earned Big Eight and SEC Coach of the Year honors. His professional stature was reflected by his being named the president of the American Football Coaches Association in 1990.

A football star himself, Majors was an All-America halfback at Tennessee. He led the Vols to a 10-0 record and a No. 2 ranking in 1956. That year he was named UPI's Back of the Year and finished second in the Heisman balloting.

He and his wife Mary Lynn have a son, John, a daughter, Mary, and one grandson, Brandon.

Maureen Munn Anderson

Director of Development

Maureen Munn Anderson, currently in her second year as director of development, joined the Pittsburgh Athletic Department in March 1998.

As director of development, Anderson is responsible for all fund raising for the athletic department and all promotional activities of Team Pittsburgh, the Panthers' official fund raising organization. She additionally serves as a member of the University's Institutional Advancement Division.

Anderson has compiled more than 25 years of retail sales experience, including work at Kaufmann's and J.C. Penney.

Most of Anderson's career spanned a highly successful tenure with retail giant Kaufmann's, where she held buyer and divisional merchandise manager positions in women's sportswear. She also worked as a general merchandise buyer for Sears and Roebuck.

Anderson is married to Eric North Anderson. The couple resides in the Pittsburgh area and has two children, Eric (15) and Kristyn (9).

E.J. Borghetti

Director of Media Relations

E.J. Borghetti, Pittsburgh's media relations director, has been with the Panthers for three years.

Promoted to his current capacity in April 1998, Borghetti initially joined the department as assistant director of media relations in July 1997.

Borghetti's responsibilities include overseeing the daily operations of the media relations department and the promotion of Pittsburgh's 18 intercollegiate sports. In addition, he handles the publicity efforts for the Panther football team.

Borghetti has extensive ties to the University of Pittsburgh. He was a 1992 magna cum laude graduate from PHL with a bachelor's degree in communications and was also a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society. He was a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society and was a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society. He was a member of the Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society.

Borghetti previously served as sports information director at neighboring Carnegie Mellon University for two and a half years. A member of CoSIDA, his 1996 Carnegie Mellon football program was voted Best in the Nation. From 1994 to 1996, he served as assistant at Columbia University in New York City.

Jason Lener

Director of Ticket Operations

Jason Lener, director of ticket operations, is in his fourth year with the Pittsburgh Athletic Department. Lener was promoted to his current capacity in 1997 after serving as assistant ticket manager for one year.

As director of ticket operations, Lener is responsible for the daily operations of the athletic ticket office, including the sale and distribution of tickets for all Pittsburgh athletic events, on-line ticketing and the mobile ticket van. In addition to his day-to-day responsibilities, one of Lener's primary focuses is selling ticket packages in Pittsburgh's soon to be constructed football stadium, which will be the Panthers' new home beginning in 2001. Additionally, Lener oversees the coordination of all operational event staff.

Lener graduated from Westminster College in nearby New Wilmington, Pa. in 1993 with a bachelor's degree in business administration. He was a three-year letterman for the Titan football team, a perennial small-college power. Lener went on to receive his master's degree in sports management from Robert Morris. While at Robert Morris, Lener served as a graduate assistant for the football team.

Lener and his wife Todd reside in Heidelberg.

Dr. Freddie Fu

Dr. Freddie H. Fu begins his 131st year of service to the Pitt athletic program as team physician and orthopaedic surgeon.

He graduated summa cum laude from Dartmouth College in 1944 and received his B.M.S. in 1975 from Dartmouth.

Medical School: Fu earned his medical degree in 1977 at Pitt and completed his general surgery internship at Brown University. He then returned to Pitt for an orthopaedic research fellowship and completed his residency in orthopaedic surgery. During that time, Fu studied under an A.O.

International Fellowship at the Hannover Trauma Center in Germany and arthroscopic surgery in East Lansing, Mich.

Fu is currently the David Silver Professor and Chairman of the Department of Orthopaedic Surgery in the University of Pittsburgh School of Medicine. In addition, Dr. Fu holds secondary appointments as Professor of Physical Therapy and Health Physical and Recreation Education. He has been awarded an honorary Doctor of Science degree from Point Park College and an honorary

Doctor of Public Service degree from Chatham

University. He is a member of the American Orthopaedic Association, the American Orthopaedic Society, the American Shoulder & Elbow Surgeons Society, the American Orthopaedic Society for Sports Medicine and the American College of Surgeons. He is the former President of the Pennsylvania Orthopaedic Society and the American Orthopaedic Association. He has made significant contributions to athletic training and was also honored as a co-recipient of the 1991 Ted and Helen B. Leach Award for his orthopaedic research for his research contributions on the shoulder.

Not only is he prominent in many of the scientific and health-related societies, he is an avid supporter of numerous community athletic programs and Pittsburgh fine arts in general. He is the chairman of the Board of Directors of the UPMC Health Systems/City of Pittsburgh Marathon, a member of the Board of Trustees and Company Physician for the Pittsburgh Ballet Theatre, a member of the Board of Directors of the WQED Children's Festival Chorus of Pittsburgh, is a member of the Western Pennsylvania Olympic Committee and is a perennial contributor to many local, state and national organizations.

Pittsburgh Sports Medicine

More than 500 university of Pittsburgh student athletes receive medical care provided by the University's athletic training program.

Pittsburgh is one of only 73 colleges and universities which offers an undergraduate athletic training education program approved by the National Athletic Trainers' Association (NATA). Moreover, Pitt is one of only two institutions to have undergraduate masters and doctoral programs in athletic training.

Established in 1971, the athletic training program prepares students for a career in the multidisciplinary field of sports medicine. Upon completion of the athletic training education program, the student is eligible for the NATA administrative certification examination. As athletic trainers, graduates will be able to work with both undergraduate students and professional athletes enrolled and is assisted by a faculty of licensed athletic trainers who operate the University's sports medicine program.

Pittsburgh athletes receive treatment at three athletic training rooms on campus. Each sport has a full-time certified athletic trainer and a full-time graduate assistant and student athletic trainer who provide medical coverage during all practices and games. The staff is dedicated to providing all aspects of prevention, evaluation, management and rehabilitation of injuries and illnesses.

The staff also provides a sports medicine clinic in Pitt Stadium for all athletes to be evaluated by one of the sports medicine physicians. This clinic provides the athletes with an opportunity to be seen by specialists as well as providing the student athlete with an outstanding training environment.

The clinic is staffed by Dr. Freddie H. Fu, and is assisted by orthopaedic surgeons Dr. Christophe Hamel, Dr. Mark Rodosky and Dr. Craig Bennett, primary care sports medicine physician Dr. David Stone, neurosurgeon Dr. Donald Markon, and four sports medicine fellows, Dr. Christopher Annunziata, Dr. J. Robert Giffin, Dr. James A. O'Leary and Dr. Marc W. Urquhart. In addition, a staff of consulting urologists is available at the University of Pittsburgh Medical Center (UPMC) to assist in providing quality medical treatment for Pitt athletes. Hospital care is provided at the UPMC

Director of Bands

JACK R. ANDERSON was named the 12th director of bands at the University of Pittsburgh in March 1996. His association with the Pittsburgh Band, however, began almost at birth. He grew up on the sidelines of Pitt Stadium following his father, Dr. Jack B. "Doc" Anderson, assistant director of the Pitt Band from 1948 to 1970. Jack began marching in the Pittsburgh Band as an undergraduate student in September, 1966. Since the early 70s, he has held staff positions with the Pittsburgh Band as percussion instructor, assistant director and as interim director in 1995.

Anderson has very close ties with the Pittsburgh Band Alumni having served terms as president, vice president and director of Alumni Bands. Currently, he serves as the leader of the Alumni Dance Band.

Anderson has additionally taught 24 years in Pennsylvania as Director of Bands at Greenville and Keystone Oaks School districts and currently directs the South Hills Community Concert Band. He is co-director of the Premier Summer Camps at the University of Pittsburgh and has been a guest conductor and adjudicator throughout Western Pennsylvania.

In addition to their game day performances for football and basketball, other highlights from this past year included serving as the "official band" at Governor Ridge's Inauguration ceremony in Harrisburg, Pa. and in June, representing the University at the new stadium groundbreaking ceremony.

"The goals I set five years ago when I was named director of bands are now being recognized. Our bands have significantly increased in both size and quality. In addition to performances at Pittsburgh Panther athletic events we are becoming a showcase for the University at city and statewide open events. We will continue to show our commitment, teamwork and pride" in providing for you the best entertainment and highest amount of spirit that we can provide.

Anderson and his wife, Peggy, reside in Scott Township and have two daughters, Carrie (26), a 1996 Pittsburgh graduate, and Kate (27), a senior at the University.

Associate Director of Bands

Pittsburgh
Cheerleaders

The 999 University of Pittsburgh cheerleading and dance teams are entertaining, talented and motivating leaders at Pittsburgh football games and athletic events. They are a colorful addition to the wide range of festivities surrounding a college athletic event.

The Pittsburgh three-leaders have forged a reputation as one of the nation's best cheerleaders in the past decade. In 1990 they won several national competitions, including being crowned Glee Club champions. In April 1994 they placed first in the National Cheerleading Association's elite cheerleading championships at the World in and Out.

In addition to their performances at Pantherville and in the U.S. Open, the leaders are also expected to be in good company.

The Pit County beekeepers have been working for the last 10 years to improve and this year has been very good. The beekeepers themselves have been working and some of the beekeeping has been at a fair price for the bees. The bees are now in the company of the bees and the bees are now in the company of the bees. The bees are now in the company of the bees and the bees are now in the company of the bees.

When The BIG EAST Conference initiated football in 1991, it hit the ground running, becoming an immediate national force with its level of excellence on the field and its television and bowl relationships off the field. The league continues on that path as it enters its ninth season.

Commissioner Michael Traughese has led the development of BIG EAST football since its inception. The BIG EAST has been a charter member of each of the major bowl agreements, beginning with The Bowl Coalition in 1992 followed by The Bowl Alliance in '95. The Bowl Championship Series began in 1998 and will continue this season.

On the field, a BIG EAST team has played for a claim of the national championship in four seasons. League squads have played in 16 post-New Year's bowl games.

Television prominence has always been a staple of The BIG EAST. For football, the league established its own regional television package in 1991 before a game was played. The BIG EAST Television Network immediately was the largest regional college football network in the country.

In 1998, the BIG EAST began new deals with CBS and ESPN. CBS will telecast up to 12 games per year. ESPN and ESPN2 will carry at least 12 games each season. Both agreements, which run through 2000, will mean that CBS and ESPN will broadcast a BIG EAST game virtually every week of the season.

For the fourth straight year, ESPN Regional Television of Charlotte, N.C. will deal with rights for all telecasts not assigned to CBS or ESPN. ERV will produce and distribute additional games for a BIG EAST Game of the Week syndication, local markets and pay-per-view.

The BIG EAST has always assured itself of prestigious bowl invitations. The league champion will attend the Tostitos Fiesta, FedEx Orange, Nokia Sugar or Rose Bowls as part of its membership in the Bowl Championship Series.

The BIG EAST and the Toyota Gator Bowl have a multi-year pact, which allows the Gator Bowl to select a BIG EAST bowl-eligible team after the league's representative in the Bowl Championship Series has been determined. The BIG EAST has sent a team to the Gator Bowl for four of the past five seasons.

The Insight.com Bowl is entering its second year as a partner with the BIG EAST. The Tucson, Ariz.-based game will select a third league team.

BIG EAST teams have enjoyed plenty of success in recent years. Miami won national titles in '83, '87, '89 and '91. The Hurricanes played on New Year's Day every year from 1984 to 1995. Syracuse has been in the postseason in 10 of the last 12 years. Virginia Tech is on a six-year bowl streak, the longest active string in the conference. West Virginia has gone to bowl games in five of the past six seasons and Boston College has gone "bowlng" three times in the last seven years.

Some of the same elements that were in place when The BIG EAST Conference was born in 1979 are present in BIG EAST football. The football members are a group of schools that, for the most part, were traditional rivals, but were never a formal league. The BIG EAST football alignment includes four schools that have been full members of The BIG EAST Conference. They are Boston College, University of Miami, University of Pittsburgh and Syracuse University. Rutgers University and West Virginia University became full members of the BIG EAST on July 1, 1995. Temple University and Virginia Tech join these six institutions to form the current eight-team BIG EAST Conference.

Station Lineup

The Varsity Walk

THE UNIVERSITY

On the University of Pittsburgh campus, between the Cathedral of Learning and Heinz Chapel, is a sidewalk known as the Varsity Walk. There, embedded in the stones, are the names of former Pitt athletes who have promoted the University through their athletic or academic achievements.

The Varsity Walk was conceived in 1950 as a way to honor athletes, and new members are added each year. The distinctive hand-carved stones were first presented as the Athletic Committee Award and the Charles C. Hartwig Award. The Athletic Committee recognized the best athlete from any sport. The Charles Hartwig Award was given to the senior athlete who promoted and sponsored the best interests of Pittsburgh athletics, in honor of the 1934 All-America tight end. In 1971 the awards were changed to the Panther and Blue-Gold awards, respectively.

The Panther Award is presented to the graduating senior athlete who has promoted Pittsburgh athletics through his/her outstanding athletic achievement. The Blue-Gold Award is given to the seniors who represents the student-athlete ideal based on academic scholarship, athletic achievement, leadership qualities and citizenship.

The awards were expanded to include females in 1975.

The relentless pursuit of excellence, both on the playing field and in the classroom, is the goal of every Pittsburgh Panther student-athlete. With commitment, teamwork and pride, the mission of our student-athletes, coaches and staff is to become the finest program in the Big East Conference.

The TEAM PITTSBURGH organization is a major part of that mission. TEAM PITTSBURGH was founded on December 1, 1970, as the Pitt Golden Panthers spirit booster club with approximately 300 members. In October 1997, the name of the organization was formally changed to TEAM PITTSBURGH. Today, there are currently over 2,500 members.

The primary objective of TEAM PITTSBURGH is to sustain the University of Pittsburgh's athletic prominence in intercollegiate sports by providing scholarship support through the membership's contributions. TEAM PITTSBURGH generates donation income to support the annual athletic scholarship fund. A TEAM PITTSBURGH member's contribution directly supports the academic and athletic development of Panther student-athletes, providing them with an outstanding education and the opportunity to compete athletically at the highest levels.

All members of TEAM PITTSBURGH receive a variety of benefits to recognize their contributions. These benefits include football and basketball ticket purchase priority, TEAM PITTSBURGH mailings, invitations to numerous outings, trips and meetings, and a complimentary subscription to Inside Panther Sports.

The greatest benefit of membership in TEAM PITTSBURGH, however, is knowing that one's gift will help the Pittsburgh Panthers achieve their mission of becoming the best athletic program in the Big East Conference.

We encourage you to join our growing family of contributors who provide vitally important support for our athletic program. For more information on how to join, contact the TEAM PITTSBURGH office at (412) 648-8889.
